Loogootee Christmas Parade this Sunday

The 4th Annual Loogootee Festival of Lights Christmas Parade will be held this Sunday, December 3 at 6 p.m. The theme for the parade is "The True Meaning of Christmas". Santa will again pay a visit during the parade and candy will be passed out to the young ones in attendance.

There will be lighted floats for you to enjoy along with marching bands and Christmas carolers.

The Christmas Stroll will be held downtown from 5-8 p.m. with several businesses open and vendors set up in various locations downtown. Carriage rides, sponsored by the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, will be offered at Emilee Summers Massage, on Wood Street. Santa will be at Hometown Flowers and Gifts for photos during the Stroll.

Jim, Jan, and Phil Todd have been selected as this year's Loogootee Christmas Parade Grand Marshals. The Todd's are three of four siblings that live in the Loogootee area and have given much of their time to supporting the community. Their 4th and youngest sibling, Mary Pat Linville, resides in Tennessee. All three of the elder Todd's are graduates of St. John's Catholic High School in Loogootee, having originally began their education at the Whitfield Elementary School.

Jim continued his education at Indiana State University in Terre Haute, Indiana and then joined the Peace Corps. After a short indoctrination and training period in California in order to earn Spanish and other customs, he was sent to Bolivia. His first stop in Bolivia found him in a village of native people who spoke no Spanish. Here in Bolivia, he first witnessed the depths of poverty as he saw people chewing leaves from the plant that cocaine is derived from, yet not to get high, but to numb the feelings of hunger and starvation. He was in this village for about 6 weeks before the mistake in his field assignment was discovered and he was picked up by Peace Corps officials. While serving in another community, and after an encounter with local guerillas that were anti-American in a new region, Jim was brought back to the States and found himself on the East Coast. He did post-graduate studies at Glenmary Seminary in Ohio for theology and counseling, and returned home to Loogootee to teach at Loogootee High School for a while. He stayed connected to the East Coast and became an instrumental part of the Pine Street Inn in Boston, which now serves over 1,900 homeless men and women each day with shelter and food. Jim also taught at Washington Catholic High School and Vincennes University. During his time with VU, he specialized in working with foreign students and it was not uncommon, for many years at Whitfield, for the family gatherings and holidays to have many college kids present (one year there was 22 nations represented for Thanksgiving). With Jim's continued support and guidance, many of his students have gone on to have rewarding lives and careers, to include professional entertainers, musicians, politicians, and one has even founded a private college in Florida. Jim is locally known for his unwavering support of the area communities and helping anyone out in need, whether it be driving Amish in the mornings, or driving someone to the hospital, airport, or elsewhere. Jim has always been there to help others and give guidance and countenance without judgement. Jim is often found at local events and banquets as a speaker or attendee, often making his iced tea, as he has done for many years as a member of the St. Martin's Men's Club for their Annual Hog Roast and for funeral dinners of many local residents.

Jan continued her education at Indiana State University and St. Anthony Nursing Program to become a registered nurse. Upon graduation, she worked as a nurse in various positions at St. Anthony Hospital in Terre Haute. During this time, she began dating an Industrial Arts major at Indiana State University. She married Ernie Martin in 1973. Currently she has been married to retired school teacher, Lieutenant Colonel Ernie Martin for 44 years. Jan has two children, Jay Martin and Denise (Franz) Dages, along with a grand-daughter Olivia. Ernie received and accepted a job at Loogootee Jr/Sr High School, and Jan eagerly return to Loogootee. A broken toe united her with Dr. Lett. She worked with Dr. Lett for years, until his death, in his Loogootee office. A couple of months following the death of Dr. Lett, she assumed her nursing position with the new doctor in town. She worked with Dr. Larry Sutton for 20 additional years, interacting with thousands of patients. During this time, she worked at Loogootee Health and Rehabilitation Center a couple of weekends a month. Through the years, Jan has held a variety of nursing jobs that she loves doing, including having provided nursing services to inmates at the Martin County Security Center and assisting with sports physicals at Loogootee High School. She currently works for Preferred Home Health Care, and travels daily within a quad-county area to provide services for patients in their homes. She is currently a committee member of the Loogootee Scholarship trust. She can still be found working with any organization or person in need of a nurse. Rarely has Jan had to miss one of her client's appointments, often slipping out of family engagements or other events to make sure that her clients were seen, or making Ernie drive her in bad weather to get to a client's home. Jan has also been a long-standing member of the St. Martin's Altar Society and is often found supporting local events and fundraisers. Never has one gone away from Jan's home hungry as she always makes sure that no one leaves her home as a stranger or hungry.

Phil married his high school classmate, Cathy Strange, shortly after graduating high school and was drafted into the U.S. Army. During the Viet Nam War, he was deployed to Europe and was assigned to a post in Germany. During his departure overseas, Cathy gave birth to their first son, Philip, and a few years, she later gave birth to Patrick. They have six grandchildren now, Ethan, Sarah, Xavier, Declan, Liam, and Mary-Grace. He returned to the U.S. and served out his active duty time at Fort Knox, Kentucky. After his active duty service, he also enlisted in the Indiana Army National Guard, in which he served over 20 years. Phil began a civilian career at NSWC Crane, where he worked for nearly 40 years. Phil and Cathy helped run a youth club in the 1970's for a period of time in Loogootee. As his sons became older, he was very involved in Loogootee Little League and Youth Soccer, coaching for many years and taught religious education with Cathy at St. Martin's Catholic Church in Whitfield. They were awarded the Evansville Diocese's Bishop Simon Brute Award for exemplary service. He also helped coordinate many civic activities throughout the years, including helping with the Loogootee Christmas Parade for several years. He has been a volunteer firefighter and emergency medical technician, serving with many dedicated local volunteers on the Martin County Rescue Squad, a precursor to the Civil Defense. Phil has been a long-standing member of the St. Martin's Men's Club and the American Legion. Since his formal retirement from Crane, he now stays busier than ever working with the American Legion as a local Post Chaplain, working with other local veterans to provide funeral details to honor deceased veterans. He also serves on a local board for the Senior Citizen's Community, which recently obtained grant funding to improve housing for the Senior Citizen complexes as well as being on the board of the Martin County Historical Society. Phil enjoys being involved in the Loogootee Community and as well as the local Amish community.

The Todd siblings, including Mary Pat, all grew up in an environment where community and family was held in high esteem and friendship is valued more highly than money. They are honored to be Grand Marshals and are very proud to call Loogootee home.

Dr. Candace Roush awarded IACCAC Advisory Board Member of the Year

Over 80 counties have Community Correction's Advisory Boards, with over 1,200 members throughout the state. At the recent Indiana Community Corrections Act Counties (IACCAC) Fall Institute, Dr. Candace Roush was awarded the Advisory Board Member of the Year. Dr. Roush has served on the Martin County Community Corrections (MCCC) Advisory Board since 2012. She regularly attends MCCC's Advisory Board meetings and has served on subcommittees, which recommend efficient solutions to pending Agency issues. Dr. Roush has and continues to be instrumental in the growing collaboration between MCCC and the Shoals School Corporation.

An example of her dedication to MCCC, Dr. Roush recently took time out of her busy schedule to join MCCC Director Collins and appeared before a committee from the Youth Services Division of the Indiana Department of Corrections, in support of MCCC's prevention programs for youth.

4-H NEWS

By Stacy Brown

Martin County Purdue Extension Educator

4-H Enrollment Has Begun!
Believe it or not, it's already time to enroll in 4-H for the 2017-2018 year. Did you know that 4-H is more than agriculture and home economics? We have a robotics club open to grades 3-12, a tractor club, a shooting sports club, and so much more. If you have an interest in writing, cake decorating, teaching, home design, or baking, you need to join 4-H! Are you looking to do more community service in Martin County, then Junior Leaders is the club for you? Are you hoping to earn scholarships for college or present confidence at your first job interview? 4-H can help with that as well. You just need to join!

Enrolling is easy, just go to www.4honline.com and follow the prompts to re-enroll if you are renewing your membership as a 4Her. If you have any questions, please call the office. If you will be a new 4-Her, please call the Extension Office at 812-295-2412 for assistance in enrolling. Currently enrolled volunteers must also re-enroll before the deadline on January 15. Enrolling early is important in receiving all the latest news and information from Purdue Extension.

Junior Leader Call Out

Interested in strengthening your leadership skills? Want to help out in the community? Do you like to have fun? If you answered yes to any of these questions, Junior Leaders is for you! Any 7th- 12th grader may sign up to be a Martin County 4-H Junior Leader. The club meets at least once a month at the Martin County Learning Center.

As a Junior Leader you perform acts of community service such as bingo with nursing homes and helping with the Christmas Toy Store. You also serve as a youth leader for younger 4-Hers by doing demonstrations on projects, camp counseling, and running kid related events at the fair. All of this helps you build life and leadership skills. It also looks great on college and job resumes. Junior Leaders also have a lot of fun. Each year the club has some meetings while eating out, playing miniature golf, or bowling. To celebrate there is a completion trip at the end of year.

If you are ready to join or just want to learn more, come to our next meeting on Monday, December 11 at 6 p.m. and on Sunday, December 17 at 4 p.m. at the Learning Center. If you have any questions, please contact the Extension Office at (812) 295-2412.

Scholarship and Resume Workshop Offered to High School Students

There will be a two-day scholarship and resume workshop offered to youth in grades 7-12 on December 2 and 9 from 1-4 p.m. at the Martin County Learning Center. Day one of the workshop will be reviewing successful resumes, preparing for interviews, and scholarships offered through 4-H. The second day participants will submit resumes for proofing and participate in a mock interview. Please register by November 27 as space is limited. The workshop is free to youth who enroll in 4-H before November 27. There is a $15 fee for all non-4-Hers. Please call the Extension Office at 812-295-2412 for more information and to register.

Extension Office Offers Programs for Classrooms and Other Youth Organizations

The Martin County Extension Office offers programs for classrooms and other youth organizations in STEM subjects, the arts, and leadership. This year's National Youth Science Challenge is Incredible Wearables. Students get the chance to build a wearable fitness device that tracks heartrate, steps, and other functions. Other programs offered are Captain Cash, a grade school program focused on money management; Makers, activities related to science, technology, engineering, and math; and Arts Management, a high school program focused on the business side of working in the arts. If you are interested in bringing any of these programs to your classroom or group, please contact Stacy at (812) 295-2412.

Upcoming Events

Junior Leaders meeting - December 11 at 6 p.m. at the MC Learning Center

Junior Leaders meeting - December 17 at 4 p.m. at the MC Learning Center

4-H Volunteer meeting - January 11 at 6 p.m. at the MC Learning Center

Martin County Extension Educator Stacy Brown came to Mrs. Hawkins' Fourth Grade Class and taught them various lessons about borrowing, saving, and much more with the Captain Cash Program. Sarah Richer, Orange County Extension Educator, came to help too. The students received a piggy bank from German American Bank to start saving now for the future. Students pictured in the front are Lucas Baylis, Emma-Gale Wininger, Katie Brett, and Thairon Ratliff. In the middle row are Wyatt Stalker and Iyanice Montanez. Making A Difference

By Curt Johnson
MCCF Executive Director

--YOUTH AND THE FUTURE --

"We cannot always build the future for our youth, but we can build our youth for the future." -Franklin D. Roosevelt

Youth. Future. Those two words belong together for so many reasons. Youth have so much to look forward to. Youth have choices to make to get to their future. The youth are our future, whether we try to build it for them or we prepare them for it.

-- SECURING THAT FUTURE --

We all have a vested interest in securing that future, helping our youth to learn, grow and become capable adults. They will be making decisions that affect our community, our county, and beyond. And they will be impacting our own lives when we adults will be relying on them for our care and well-being. It's important that we be a part of their growth.

-- HOW CAN WE HELP? --

So, how can we help? As parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, friends, mentors, and any other adult close to our youth, you guide and shape them. You should know that everything you do teaches them about adult life and guides them toward their own future. We need to be sure that we are positive role models and encourage the positive behaviors that help them to learn and grow.

-- AT RISK YOUTH --

Both of our county school systems have recognized the importance of positive behavior and identifying and helping our at-risk students. There are criteria and exhibited behaviors that help to focus on the students needing support. The Shoals Community School Corporation has implanted a Positive Behavior Interventions and Supports (IPBIS) program to put in place mechanisms focused on helping those at-risk students with the most need.

-- POSITIVE BEHAVIORS --

The Shoals School Corporation has a PBIS coach that is implementing a reward framework for positive behavior. The program began during the 2016-2017 school year and this reward framework has led to a 32 percent decrease in discipline referrals in the first year. This year they are expanding the PBIS programming to include at-risk student interventions such as one-on-one and group counseling to help students overcome their at-risk behaviors and to help them create personalized improvement plans.

-- MCCF HELPS --

The MCCF is pleased to be able to help the Shoals Community School Corporation fund and implement a program that helps our youth develop good and positive behaviors. This type of behavior will lead to a more meaningful and improved quality of life for the students and their future. Our youth need us and we need them. Let's continue helping our youth build their future.

-- MORE INFORMATION --

For more information about the MCCF, please contact the Executive Director, Curt Johnson, at 812-295-1022 or mccf@cfpartner.org.

More Neat Stuff

By Ann Ackerman

The couple were 85 years old, and had been married for sixty years. Though not young, they were both in very good health, largely due to the wife's insistence on healthy foods and exercise for the last decade.

One day, their good health didn't help when they went on a rare vacation and their plane crashed, sending them off to Heaven.

They reached the pearly gates, and St. Peter escorted them inside. He took them to a beautiful mansion, furnished in gold and fine silks, with a fully stocked kitchen and a waterfall in the master bath. They gasped in astonishment when he said, "Welcome to Heaven. This will be your home now."

The old man asked Peter how much all this was going to cost. "Why, nothing," Peter replied, "remember, this is your reward in Heaven."

The old man looked out the window and right there he saw a championship golf course, finer and more beautiful than any ever built on Earth. "What are the greens fees?" grumbled the old man.

"This is heaven," St. Peter replied. "You can play for free, every day."

Next, they went to the clubhouse and saw the lavish buffet lunch, with every imaginable cuisine laid out before them, from seafood to steaks to exotic deserts, free flowing beverages.

"Don't even ask," said St. Peter to the man, "this is Heaven, it is all free for you to enjoy."

The old man looked around and glanced nervously at his wife. "Well, where are the low fat and low cholesterol foods, and the decaffeinated tea?" he asked.

"That's the best part," St. Peter replied, "you can eat and drink as much as you like of whatever you like, and you will never get fat or sick. This is Heaven!"

The old man pushed, "No gym to work out at?"

"Not unless you want to," was the answer.

"No testing my sugar or blood pressure or..."

"Never again. All you do here is enjoy yourself."

The old man glared at his wife and said, "You and your darned bran muffins. We could have been here ten years ago!"

CIA Assassin test

The CIA had an opening for an assassin. After all the background checks, interviews, and testing were done, there were three finalists. two men and a woman.

For the final test, the CIA agents took one of the men to a large metal door and handed him a gun. "We must know that you will follow our instructions, no matter what the circumstances. Inside this room, you will find your wife sitting in a chair. Kill Her!!!"

The man said, "You can't be serious. I could never shoot my wife." The agent said, "Then you're not the right man for this job. Take your wife and go home."

The second man was given the same instructions. He took the gun and went into the room. All was quiet for about five minutes. Then the man came out with tears in his eyes. "I tried, but I can't kill my wife." The agent said, "You don't have what it takes. Take your wife and go home."

Finally, it was the woman's turn. She was given the same instructions, to kill her husband. She took the gun and went into the room. Shots were heard, one shot after another. They heard screaming, crashing, banging on the walls. After a few minutes, all was quiet. The door opened slowly and there stood the woman. She wiped the sweat from her brow. "This gun is loaded with blanks," she said. "I had to beat him to death with the chair."

Dearest Neighbors,
Please do NOT call the police. It's not domestic violence or a wild party. It's basketball season, and that's just me screaming at my TV.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

In the Garden

By Ralph Purkhiser

Purdue University Master Gardener

Dear Santa,

Once again, rocks are at the top of my Christmas list. I need some more boulders to complete the retaining wall behind the woodshed. The portion of the wall that is complete provided a nice place for some new plantings last summer, but the wall needs to be extended for both safety and esthetics. I also need some more flagstones to complete the patio by the fire pit and a few more fieldstones to make the ring around the fire pit a little higher. I will also need a couple of loads of crushed stone to complete some pathways and level the area behind the retaining wall. Of course, I wouldn't mind finding some gold nuggets among the stones.

In the garden tool area, I need a rechargeable electric pole saw. This would make pruning a lot easier. I am always losing pruners, so I could use a new pair of ratcheting hand pruners also. It would not hurt to have another pair of by-pass pruners. A sharpener kit would also allow me to use the lost pruners when I find them.

I have a nice chipper-shredder, but sometimes I have small jobs that do not require my big machine. I would like to have a small electric shredder for those little jobs, such as shredding leaves for composting. Speaking of composting, I could use a new barrel composter. My unit has served me well for many years, but time has taken a toll and I could use a new one.

I have a variety of seating options at Sandhill Gardens, but I really love having seats throughout the gardens. I am wishing for a set of concrete hand seats. The seats are shaped like giant hands. I have already picked out a place for them, overlooking the cliff. Sitting in a giant hand would be a reminder that I am always safe in the hands of God. Another seating option

I would like is a hammock stand. It needs to be a sturdy one that will last for many years

I like some whimsy in the garden and one way to do that is with windmills and spinners. I have had my eye on a large double spinner that would make a great addition to my collection. I would place it in the entry garden and move the smaller model now there to another location.

Sandhill Gardens is a certified wildlife habitat, but often I do not see the wildlife that visit the gardens. I have a few wildlife yard ornaments, but I would like to place others in and around the gardens. I would like a large deer to place in a thicket at the edge of the woods. Some smaller animals could be placed in various locations, coming out from under shrubs or in the branches of trees.

Speaking of bushes, I have plans to create an azalea walk down to the cave at the bottom of the cliff. There are some azaleas already in the area, but I would like to plant several more. A gift certificate to a local nursery or garden center would help me to buy the plants I will need for this project.

Large pots can make a statement in many ways in the garden. They may be grouped for a focal point or used to fill areas after ephemeral plants have run their course. I would love some nice pots. I am especially fond of the cobalt blue pots. I also need a pot to replace one that I broke recently. Thankfully, my prize pony-tail palm survived, but it needs a new home instead of the old dishpan in which it is now living.

I know I have not been nearly good enough to deserve all of this, but I will be happy if you can bring only a part of the list. Perhaps these wishes will give others ideas of ways to make this a special Christmas for the gardeners on their lists.

Participants sought for DNR Community Hunting Access Program

The DNR is seeking individual partners and communities to participate in the Community Hunting Access Program (CHAP) in 2018.

In its second year, CHAP is an initiative through the DNR Division of Fish & Wildlife to increase hunting opportunities for deer in urban and suburban areas. Doing so can help alleviate human-deer conflicts. CHAP provides community partners with financial and technical assistance to administer hunting programs in their communities.

As part of the program, managed hunts are administered by a certified CHAP coordinator trained in hunting safety, deer biology and public relations.

The community partner determines when and where managed hunts occur, what hunters can participate, and which certified CHAP coordinator they use or contract.

Communities interested in participating in CHAP must submit a grant application by March 31, 2018.

Training for people interested in becoming a certified CHAP coordinator will take place on February 1. Before attending training, people interested in becoming a CHAP coordinator must complete the following prerequisites:

Any state-sponsored Hunter Education certification.

Any DFW-Approved Firearms Instructor Training. Examples include: National Rifle Association (NRA) Firearm Instructor Training, Indiana Hunter Education Instructor Academy, 4-H Shooting Sports Instructor Certification, etc.

Any DFW-Approved Formal Deer Hunting Training. Examples include: NRA Hunter Clinic Instructor Program Certification, QDMA Deer Steward I Certification, etc.

Provide name and birthdate for routine DNR background check.

To sign up for the Feb. 1 CHAP Coordinator training, or for questions regarding certification pre-requisites, contact south region urban biologist Megan Dillon mdillon@dnr.IN.gov.

DNR seeks to preserve, promote state's forests

BY CAMERON CLARK
Director of DNR

A forest is more than trees for timber.

If you followed media coverage of the sale at Yellowwood State Forest, you might be surprised to read that statement. The veteran foresters of the Department of Natural Resources planned and carried out the recent sale to harvest select trees from 299 acres of that forest's back country.

The truth is both the well-meaning people who opposed the sale and the DNR love our state forests, but we differ on how to care for them. Their approach for the back country is hands off, letting nature take its course. Ours is to scientifically manage an ecosystem that—when land was acquired by the state in the 1950s—barely existed until the foresters planted it.

Indiana law dictates that the DNR “protect and conserve timber, water resources, wildlife and topsoil in forests owned and operated by the division of forestry” and use “good husbandry” to remove timber that has substantial commercial value “in a manner that benefits the growth of saplings.” The recent timber sale followed that course. Our goal is the health of the forests – not profit.

The DNR has and continues to support studying the entire forest ecosystem, not limited to the trees. Our foresters' research shows that periodically removing dead and dying trees opens the forest floor to sunlight, allowing new trees of the same species to develop. Allowing too many unhealthy trees to stand lets smaller trees develop in the understory. This crowds out young hardwoods from developing.

Part of managing for these conditions involves logging by single-tree selection, targeting mostly dead, diseased and declining trees. In the Yellowwood back country, approximately five to seven trees per acre may be removed, which translates to about two trees per 100. The DNR's forestry division weighs each tree on its own merits as well as on its health and impacts to the overall forest area. This method is proven and was used in the previous 13 harvests of the Morgan-Monroe State Forest back country area.

Studies by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, DNR and independent researchers show that rare and endangered species, such as the timber rattlesnake, hooded warbler, worm-eating warbler and Indiana bat benefit from conditions created by periodic thinning of the areas like the back country's current closed canopy. In Indiana, timber harvests are allowed only from October 1 through March 31 to protect bat species.

Our state forests, including their back country areas, are being carefully managed by those who spend a lifetime studying them. More information may be found at dnr.IN.gov/forestry.

Indoor archery lesson, fun shoot at Patoka Lake

Arts Commission fine tunes artist grant program

The Indiana Arts Commission (IAC) announced it is expanding the reach of its grant program for individual artists.

"In keeping with the goals and objectives of our current strategic plan, all of our grant programs now have an increased focus on community engagement and public benefit," said IAC Executive Director Lewis C. Ricci. "The focus of our grant program for individual artists has been, and will continue to be, career development. But now, in addition, successful applicants will demonstrate direct benefits to their communities."

Formerly known as the Individual Artist Program, the name has been revised to the "Individual Advancement Program."

The program will now also offer an early career category serving artists who have been pursuing their arts career for less than five years, excluding formal or apprenticeship training in their discipline. These applicants will be reviewed by a separate panel from the ones that review applications from more experienced artists.

"The Commission is committed to helping emerging artists build a successful career by offering a way for their work to be reviewed among peers with similar levels of experience," Ricci explained.

Another change in the program will impact artists who have previously received grants from the Individual Artist Program. Artists who are currently receiving grants must now wait two grant cycles before they can again apply in the same category.

"The IAP grant program has always been a highly competitive process, and grantees should be proud to have their work recognized with a grant," Ricci said. "We look forward to future applications as they again become eligible, and see where their careers have taken them just as we are eager to assist the careers of emerging artists."

The IAC is currently developing training materials for the revised program and should soon have these completed and posted to the IAC website.

The deadline for application to the Individual Advancement Program is 4:30 p.m. (EST) February 15, 2018.

For more information about the Individual Advancement Program, contact Anna Tragesser, Artist and Community Services Manager, atragesser@iac.in.gov, or call 317-232-1281.

The Indiana Arts Commission is dedicated to the vision of the arts everywhere, every day, for everyone in Indiana.
