Lt. Governor checks in with Martin County

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT

Martin County Journal Publisher

Lieutenant Governor Suzanne Crouch checked in with The Journal on Tuesday to see how Martin County is doing and provide information relevant to residents.

Crouch touted the READI grant and Martin County's collaboration with nine other counties to receive $30 million. She said statewide, $1.2 billion was requested from the $500 million available with READI. They plan to go back to the general assembly and see if they can get another $500 million to fund more projects. Currently, counties approved for READI funding have been asked to prioritize their list of projects and within the next six months, Martin County will find out how much of the $30 million will be received. More than 279 projects were submitted for the 10-county region that Martin County is a part of.

The lieutenant governor said the REA-DI investments will potentially bring in $10 billion in private investments over the next several years. The state, despite COVID, was able to acquire 31,300 new job commitments in 2020 and another 31,700 this year, which was more than projected.

Crouch said the main concern is having enough housing for the onslaught of new residents. With the state growing 7.4 percent in the last decade, and the potential to see an even bigger increase over the next decade, housing is a big focus. The state will soon be launching a housing dashboard website that shows the needs of each community across the state. A study was done, county by county, to see where the housing gaps are. This tool will help

Shoals Council approves purchasing property

The Shoals Town Council met Monday, December 13. In attendance were Council Members Cary D. Albright, Clint D. Hoffman, and Cecil Ragsdale; Clerk-Treasurer Sierra Rutledge, Town Attorney Dave Lett, Mike Hopkins, Matt Sward with SIDC and Eric Smith with HWC Engineering.

Council Member Albright called the meeting to order at 5:59 p.m.

Council Member Albright stated the town has been pursuing property adjacent to the ballpark for quite some time and that the property owner was in attendance. Albright stated Attorney Lett had obtained two appraisals from two different companies as required. Hopkins made an offer to the town in the amount of $20,000 for the 3.56 acres which is located within the Town of Shoals and that the asking price comes in under the average of the two appraisals. Councilman Ragsdale made a motion to purchase the property for $20,000 and Councilman Hoffman made the second. The council members all thanked Mr. Hopkins. Albright said he wanted to note that a portion of the money used to make the purchase was obtained from money received from timbering town owned property.

Matt Sward, with SIDC, opened the public hearing for the OCRA Wastewater Grant application. Sward stated the project outlay, costs and details of the project. Sward said the local match would come from SRF funds. Sward asked for council comment regarding the project. Council Member Albright stated the project is a top priority for the town for many reasons and one of the most important was for the safety of the citizens. With the numerous leaks, breaks, and other issues this is an important factor. Eric Smith, professional engineer with HWC Engineering, expressed the importance of the project for the town as well. Sward said the grant application is due Friday, December 17, 2021, and awards should be announced around February 10, 2021. Attorney Lett presented Resolution 2021-06 authorizing the application submission and local match commitment. Council Member Ragsdale made a motion to accept the resolution with Council Member Hoffman making the second and all were in favor. Sward closed the public hearing portion of the meeting for the grant at 6:16 p.m.

Council Member Albright said the town has been looking to upgrade the aging water meter system from manual read to meters to radio read meters and had met with two vendors, Wallers Meters and Utility Supply Company, and had received quotes from both for a total system changeover. Albright stated that he would like a motion from the board to move forward with one of the vendors noting that the current plan is to use ARPA (American Recovery Plan Act) funds to make the upgrade and change. Council Member Ragsdale made a motion to go with Utility Supply Company's quote in the amount of $123,050 to purchase the radio read meter system. Council Member Hoffman made the second and all were in favor.

Council Member Albright stated that for informational purposes they wanted to state that the members of the board had met with a representative from Duke Energy pertaining to a LED changeover of the town's lighting system. Albright asked for a motion to accept the agreement with Duke Energy to make the change over which would reduce the rates the town is currently paying and also add increased light coverage. Council Member Ragsdale made a motion to accept the agreement with Council Member Hoffman making the second and all were in favor.

Another Martin County resident dies of COVID prioritized to attract new people and also incentivize developers to take on projects where there is a need. Crouch also said Indiana has to continue to stay attractive and keep young people from moving away by having resources here. Her goal is to improve every community and make every county attractive to current and future residents. One of those ways is through broadband internet. The state set up a website https://indianaegms. force.com/nlc/s/login/SelfRegister?locale=us or toll free phone number 833-639-8522, for anyone without internet currently or with internet that provides less than 25 megabytes of download speed and 3 megabytes of upload speed to submit their address. Once an area has enough residents who need internet, companies can apply for grant funds to bring internet to those people. January 10 will be the first time internet companies can bid on areas where residents requested internet access. The project will be ongoing, however, and the second round has already started. Crouch said this is a huge tool for residents to lobby for themselves to get broadband and urges anyone who fits the criteria to register their address. As of a few years ago, there were 400,000 Indiana residents who had zero internet access. The goal of the Indiana Connectivity Program is to make broadband available statewide. There is also a federal program to help residents pay for internet that may be pricey in rural areas. The federal program can provide up to $50 a month to help pay for internet costs. More information can be found at www.fcc.gov/broadbandbenefit. Crouch said she hopes that once broadband is available in more areas, the increase in (See 'LT GOVERNOR' on page two)

In the late hours of December 18, Deputy Hawkins and Loogootee Officers responded to a domestic complaint in Shoals where a male had battered a female multiple times resulting in hospital placement. The suspect, Isaac Davis, 29, was able to evade officers after fleeing on foot

On Sunday, December 19 at approximately 1 p.m., while conducting surveillance near the residence, Chief Deputy Greene spotted Davis approaching his residence from the boat ramp. Greene intercepted Davis and attempted to talk to him, but Davis fled again and led the Chief Deputy on a chase for several blocks through downtown Shoals, temporarily stopping highway traffic and disrupting most of Shoals on the east side of the river.

Chief Deputy Greene ultimately caught Davis near the fire station where he was then joined by ISP Trooper Beaver, Loogootee Officer Shaw, ICO Fuhrman and Deputy Gibson. Davis was then transported with further resistance to the Martin County Jail where he is being held on no bond for the following charges: kidnapping, a Level 3 Felony; domestic battery with serious bodily injury, a Level 5 Felony; domestic battery in the presence of a minor (two counts), Level 6 Felonies; neglect of a dependent (two counts), Level 6 Felonies; intimidation, a Level 6 Felony; resisting law enforcement, a Class A Misdemeanor; and possession of marijuana, a Class B Misdemeanor.

All charges are merely allegations, and all suspects are considered innocent unless or until proven guilty in a court of law.

The lieutenant governor also talked about the recent state surplus funds that will provide $125 back to taxpayers when they file their state income taxes next year. Once the state has a surplus income of 12.5 percent, it triggers an automatic taxpayer refund. This is the second time this refund has been triggered. Residents will see the credit on their tax filing for 2021 and if they don't owe, that $125 will be refunded to them.

Crouch also reported that a regional initiative will be formed to help address depression, mental illness, and addiction in young people. She said as she has traveled the state and talked to school officials and this is a concern.

Other grants the lieutenant governor reported on was $500,000 from the federal government to provide 23 workshops throughout Indiana to address mental health concerns with farmers. Crouch said that farmers are typically self-reliant and don't openly express problems they may be having personally so the workshops are designed to provide the resources to connect anyone who may be struggling.

The state also received a $5.6 million federal grant to help brand and market Indiana. Crouch said Hoosiers are hardworking and modest and don't do a lot of self-promotion. She said places like Martin County have a lot to offer and that should be advertised to residents in other states who may be looking to relocate. She said it also will promote the state to people who are already here so they can be proud of what the state has to offer and want to stick around.

counties at 1.3 percent; and Wells, Ohio, Elkhart, Daviess and Adams counties at 1.4 percent.

The top ten spots in the state for the highest jobless rate for November were Howard County at 4.7 percent, Lake County at 3.6 percent, Miami County at 3 percent, Fayette and LaPorte counties at 2.8 percent, Orange and Vigo counties at 2.6 percent, Marion and Vermillion counties at 2.5 percent, and Delaware, Madison and Starke counties at 2.4 percent.

Indiana's unemployment rate for November fell to 3.0 percent – matching a low the state has not seen in more than 20 years.

In addition, private sector employment has now increased for five of the last six months. This has resulted in a gain of 69,400 jobs from May 2021 to November 2021.

The last time Indiana's unemployment rate was at this level was in November 2000. It had fallen to 3.1 percent in December 2019 and stood at 3.2 percent before the COVID-19 pandemic struck in March 2020.

By comparison, the national rate in November dropped to 4.2 percent.

"It has been more than 20 years since we saw a 3.0 percent unemployment rate. This, along with private employment showing gains for five of the last six consecutive months are signs of a positive and strengthening economy," said Commissioner Fred Payne.

The monthly unemployment rate is a U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) indicator that reflects the number of unemployed people seeking employment within the prior four weeks as a percentage of the labor force.

Learn more about how unemployment rates are calculated here: www.hoosierdata.in.gov/infographics/employment-status.asp.

Indiana's labor force had a net decrease of 7,944 over the previous month, due to an increase of 1,705 employed residents and a decrease of 9,649 unemployed residents. These numbers are the lowest since April through June of 2020, just after the pandemic began.

Indiana's total labor force, which includes both Hoosiers employed and those seeking employment, stands at 3.32 million. The state's labor force participation rate of 62.5 percent remains above the national rate of 61.8 percent. This rate is comparable to the rate at the height of the pandemic nearly two years ago.

COMMUNITY & EVENTS

STORIES FOR THE CHRISTMAS SEASON

An anthropologist showed a game to the children of an African tribe. He placed a basket of delicious fruits near a tree trunk and told them: "The first child to reach the tree will get the basket."

When he gave them the start signal, he was surprised that they walked together, holding hands until they reached the tree and shared the fruit!

When he asked them why they did that when any one of them could have had the basket only for themselves, they answered with astonishment: "Ubuntu"... that is, how can one of us be happy while the rest are miserable?

"Ubuntu" in their language means: "I am because we are".

That tribe knows the secret of happiness that has been lost in societies that consider themselves "civilized societies".

ATTENTION TO ALL PARENTS WHO NEED TO TELL THE TRUTH ABOUT SANTA 9

Son: "Dad, I think I'm old enough now. Is there a Santa Claus?"

Dad: "Ok, I agree that your old enough. But before I tell you, I have a question for you. You see, the "truth" is a dangerous gift. Once you know something, you courtney@ martincountyjournal.com can't unknow it. Once you know the truth about Santa Claus, you will never again understand and relate to him as you do now. So, my question is: Are you sure you want to know?"

Advertise in the Martin County Journal

Brief pause...

Son: "Yes, I want to know."

Dad: "Ok, I'll tell you: Yes, there is a Santa Claus."

Son: "Really?"

Dad: "Yes, really, but he's not an old man with a beard in a red suit. That's just what we tell kids. You see, kids are too young to understand the true nature of Santa Claus, so we explain it to them in a way that they can understand. The truth about Santa Claus is that he's not a person at all; he's an idea. Think of all those presents Santa gave you over the years. I actually bought those myself. I watched you open them. And did it bother me that you didn't thank me? Of course not! In fact, it gave me great pleasure. You see, Santa Claus is THE IDEA OF GIVING FOR THE SAKE OF GIVING, without thought of thanks or acknowledgement.

When I saw that woman collapse on the subway last week and called for help, I knew that she'd never know that it was me that summoned the ambulance. I was being Santa Claus when I did that."

Son: "Oh."

Dad: "So now that you know, you're part of it. You have to be Santa Claus too now. That means you can never tell a young kid the secret, and you have to help us select Santa presents for them, and most important, you have to look for opportunities to help people. Got it?"

Help each other this Christmas $\triangleq 9$ and...be kind.

Make someone smile today!

351 kids receive toys from annual Martin County Toy Store

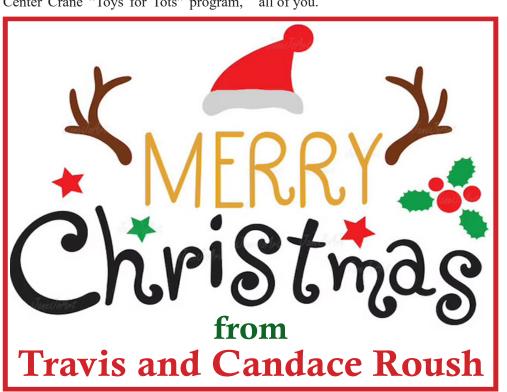

The Martin County Christmas Toy Store was held this year on December 11. 123 families were able to shop for 351 children. 28 bicycles and tricycles and over 1,500 toys and stocking stuffers were given away.

The Christmas Toy Store was possible because of the generosity of area churches and the help of around 60 people that volunteered their Friday to setup and Saturday to make the toy store happen. Toy store organizers send a big "thank you" to all the volunteers from the churches and to the Loogootee United Methodist Church for once again hosting the event.

Local organizations, churches, and many people in Martin County gave toys and monetary donations. The Toy Store Center Crane "Toys for Tots" program, Martin County Community Foundation, Daviess-Martin County REMC, German American Bank, Crane Credit Union Loogootee Branch, Old National Bank, Family Dollar, Dollar General, Haven Lee Boutique, Loogootee IGA, Masons at White River Lodge #332, LHS Beta Club, Montgomery St. Peters Catholic Church, Helping Hands Ministry, St. Vincent de Paul, and others.

And, of course, the shopper signups could not have been completed without the help and support from the Shoals Public Library, the Loogootee Public Library, Hoosier Uplands and the Loogootee United Methodist Church.

The help of everyone in Martin Couny made this a very successful Christmas also wants to recognize the contributions Toy Store. Many families and children and support from the Naval Support will have a merrier Christmas thanks to all of you.

Leaders from Radius region visit Indianapolis for site selector trip

Economic development leaders from Radius Indiana shared information and insights about the southern Indiana region last week as part of an educational session in Indianapolis.

The session was part of Radius's continued outreach program to raise awareness about business strengths and opportunities in the eight-county region. Radius President and CEO Jeff Quyle, other Radius staff members, and four economic development leaders from Dubois, Lawrence, Martin, and Orange counties joined Quyle to discuss the latest news about the regional economy.

"The site selector luncheon hosted by Radius was so beneficial," said Angie Risacher, executive director for Martin County Alliance. "This last year, other LEDOs and I were only able to hold an online presence with these tremendously important points of contact. With Radius organizing this for our region, we were able to have those direct conversations across the table from a site selector who can match up the right opportunities to our counties."

The leaders from southern Indiana had the opportunity to showcase their county accomplishments as well as highlight the main industries in their area. Radius showcased a number of new workforce training, upskilling, and attraction initiatives underway in the region.

Site selectors in attendance offered useful insights regarding the resumption of activity in recent months as companies are urgently seeking to add production capacity The Radius team heard a confirmation that the availability of labor is a key element of business site searches today, as well as reports that workforce recruitment initiatives are incentives that are catching the eye of companies conducting site searches.

"It is essential in our economic development profession to discuss best practices and policy updates at events such as the annual Radius Indiana luncheon," said Eric Levenhagen, senior manager for RSM, who was one of the guests who participated in the luncheon conversa-

This is the fifth annual Indianapolis

site selector event and is the latest in a series of regional and national visits Radius Indiana has facilitated on behalf of the eight-county region since starting this program in 2016. The outreach efforts will continue into 2022, with sessions scheduled in Columbus, Chicago, Cleveland, and Louisville.

"We appreciated the opportunity to hear the site selectors' insights on the robust growth they are seeing among their business clientele," Quyle said. "The opportunities the Radius region communities have to offer a variety of recruitment tools and incentives seem to have made an impression on our guests."

Purdue Extension Master Gardener program to offer virtual basic training in spring

BY JOHN ORICK

Purdue University News Service

The spring 2022 Purdue Extension Master Gardener (EMG) basic training program will begin February 1 as a series of live virtual webinars.

Visit bit.ly/2022PurdueEMGTraining and contact a hosting Purdue Extension educator to obtain an application. The application deadline is January 11. The training wraps up May 3. An individual registration costs $180 and includes a print version of the Purdue EMG manual. The fee for two people sharing a print version of the manual is $280.

Purdue Extension specialists and educators from across Indiana teach the course. Topics include soils, fertility,

With Christmas fast approaching:

-Keep that tree stand filled with fresh

-Check that poinsettia or holiday cactus and water it if it is dry.

- -Admire the blooms on the forced paperwhites-you do not need to do anything except turn them
- -Take a walk through your garden.
- -Listen to the songs of the birds.
- -Watch a squirrel try to steal the bird
- -Share your garden with a child.
- -Fill your heart with Christmas joy.

I wish you a Merry Christmas and pray you get to spend it with the ones you love. pest control, invasive species, pesticide safety and alternatives, trees, vegetables, flowers, lawns and fruit.

"The Purdue Extension Master Gardener program's main purpose is to train volunteers to assist Purdue Extension with consumer horticulture education in Indiana communities," says John Orick, Purdue EMG state coordinator (www. hort.purdue.edu/mg).

Extension Master Gardener volunteers are required to give a minimum of 40 hours back to the community after completing initial training and passing an exam. Volunteers completed 117,000 hours in 2021, Orick says.

To strengthen connections to county Purdue EMG programs, each hosting Extension educator will hold a required one-hour weekly meeting with participants to dig deeper on how the topic of the week applies to local gardeners.

"Indiana is a long, north-south state," says Jeff Burbrink, a Purdue Extension educator in Elkhart County who is on the team that planned the spring program. "Our climate and soils vary a great deal from Lake Michigan to the Ohio River. We want to be sure that our Extension Master Gardeners can see how these concepts work in their backyard."

Most Master Gardeners stay involved in the program for years.

"Our local Master Gardeners created the Michiana Master Gardener Association in 1996," Burbrink says, "in part because they enjoy learning, and in part because they can work on big projects together, like our annual Garden Tour and Garden Expo. They are an amazingly talented group of creative people."

Hunting, fishing, trapping license fees increase starting in 2022

For the first time since 2006, Indiana entific research and education, and expan-DNR Division of Fish & Wildlife (DFW) has increased fees for hunting, fishing, and trapping licenses. Commercial license fees also increase, some for the first time since the 1980s.

The increases will be applied to personal licenses starting with the 2022-2023 license year (April 1, 2022-March 31, 2023) that will go on sale in January. The fee increase does not affect licenses for the remainder of the 2021-2022 license year (April 1, 2021-March 31, 2022), even if those licenses are purchased after

The new fees allow DFW to maintain core programs including habitat restoration, maintenance of public lands, scision of other services to manage Indiana's fish and wildlife for everyone to enjoy.

Funds will also go to the DNR Division of Law Enforcement to ensure it is equipped to provide public safety and enforce the laws governing natural resourc-

The new license prices were determined by comparing license fees among other Midwestern states and balancing the rising costs of resource management.

More information on these changes, including a full list of the new fees, can be found here: dnr.IN.gov/fish-and-wildlife/ licenses-and-permits/fee-changes.

Stay safe, always assume you are on "thin ice"

With the inevitable upcoming drop in temperatures across the state, Indiana Conservation Officers advise Hoosiers and visitors of the potential hazards of being on frozen lakes, ponds, rivers, and streams.

It's also important to keep a watchful eye for other people who may venture out on neighborhood retention ponds, lakes and other waterways and find themselves in trouble.

Every winter, thousands of Hoosiers safely enjoy fishing, skating, hiking, or just sliding around on frozen ponds and lakes. And every year, people drown after falling through ice. Don't let this happen to you or yours.

Similar to driving differently on snowy versus clear roads, being able to safely have fun on ice may require adjusting from what you have done in the past. When thinking about getting on the ice, put safety first. Believe it is thin ice unless proven otherwise.

Here are a few tips to remember when considering standing on or walking on a frozen body of water:

-No ice is safe ice.

-Test the thickness of the ice with an ice auger. At least 4 inches of ice is recommended for ice fishing; 5 inches is recommended for snowmobiling.

-If you don't know the thickness of the ice, don't go on it.

-Wear a life jacket or flotation coat.

-Carry ice hooks and rope gear.

-Before going on the ice, leave a note of your whereabouts with a friend or family member.

-Don't test the thickness of the ice while alone.

Wearing a life jacket is especially important when on ice. If you fall through, a life jacket will keep your head above the water until help arrives.

Remember that a new coating of snow, while perhaps beautiful, can make for treacherous ice conditions. Snow can serve as insulation, causing water to freeze at a slower rate. When snow and rain freeze into ice, it is not as strong as solid, clear

Another potentially dangerous situation is when you see a pet or other animal in distress on the ice. If that happens, do not go after it. Instead, contact local emergency response personnel, who are equipped to make a rescue.

A few more tips:

-Some bodies of water can appear to be frozen solid but have thin ice in several potentially unexpected areas.

-Flowing water, such as rivers and streams, should be avoided when covered by a layer of ice.

Similarly, water that is surrounded by sand may freeze with inconsistencies in the thickness of the ice.

-Underground springs, wind, waterfowl, and other animals can also keep areas of ice thin.

Waterfowl workshop offered January 25

The 2022 Waterfowl Workshop for Waterfowl Control Operators (WCOs) will take place January 25, from noon to 3:30 p.m. (ET). The workshop will be held virtually.

The workshop is required for all contractors who want to become qualified as WCOs to conduct waterfowl trapping, transporting, relocation and/or euthanasia for hire in Indiana during 2022.

All first-time WCOs must attend the workshop to be eligible to work as a WCO in 2022. Attendance is also encouraged for all WCOs, but those who have attended the workshop in previous years may opt to test out. Those interested in taking the test should contact Debbie Walter at dwalter@ dnr.IN.gov or 812-789-2724. The 2022 exam will be available February 1.

Individuals pursuing qualifying status for goose euthanasia for the first time will also need to provide the division with a certificate of attendance to the Nuisance Wildlife Control Operators Association (NWCOA) goose management course or complete a Division of Fish & Wildlife (DFW) approved eight-hour equivalent goose course. Before any waterfowl management activities can legally be conducted, WCOs must ensure that the DFW has received all necessary paperwork.

Registration by January 17 is required to participate in this virtual workshop. Once registered, participants will be provided the webinar link and training materials. To register, or for more information, contact Jessica Merkling, Urban Wildlife Biologist, at jmerkling@dnr.IN.gov or 260-244-
