

My Name is [REDACTED] and I am a sophomore in statistics at the College of Charleston. Courtney is one of many tutors I heard about through friends and social media. I reached out and she was the first to get back to me, already giving me times to meet for that week. She was able to squeeze me into her very busy schedule once a week every Tuesday, but is also able to accommodate for me if I need to change to a different day. Before starting tutoring with Courtney, I was getting C's, D's and F's on all my quizzes. After our first session, I got an A on the next quiz, and then the next. On my first exam I got a 94, and my second I just got back this morning was a 97. Courtney clearly had a huge impact on my learning; she explains things very clearly and provides me with additional notes. She cares just as much as I do about my grades in class, but also how I am doing outside. Courtney is there to talk about my needs with Statistics, but also my stress, some fun weekend plans and simply there as a friend. I plan on continuing my meetings with her throughout my math classes in the following semesters, she has been a huge help!
