Hi Max,

Thanks for the response, a contact at SEPA would be great, there is a lot of concern with villagers who regularly walk around that area about what is being buried and the state of paths and roads.

Many thanks for your help.

Kind Regards,

Brian J McFall

Hello Brian

It is primarily SEPA who regulate the works at the former coup under their waste management licensing process. I understand this process did include a construction management plan which described measures to reduce the effects on the public road (wheel washing, road sweeping etc.). We had previously passed on these complaints to SEPA to pursue with the operator and I can pursue that with them again.

Would it be useful for you to have a contact at SEPA who would be involved with this site? If so let me know and I'll pass that on.

Regards

Max Wilson

Hi Thomas,

We have received complaints about the road at and around the Coup at Birdston, yet again it is covered in mud and stones . I drove the road just 45mins ago and witnessed a 20ton tipper leaving the site covered in mud.

At some point there is going to be an accident caused by these conditions.

Is it the Roads Department, Environmental health or yourself that are responsible for ensuring the roads remain safe?

It appears that no one is interested in checking on this site. We have complained numerous times about the lack of road cleaning, the condition of the road and the quality of product which is being dumped in the site yet we have had little or no response.

Are the owners operating with free reign, it certainly seems that way.

Kind Regards,

Brian J McFall
