Hi Paddy,

The photographs were taken of your products on an Old coup which was licensed many years ago when conditions were not so strict. It is known to have asbestos buried and unspecified nuclear waste from Faslane and Rosyth, along with other unmentionables. The work is currently supposed to be returning the land to agricultural use which should be bringing top soil on the site but large quantities of materials such as yours and other industrial products are appearing and in our eyes and the local communities this is blatantly illegal. We have been asking all authorities for copies of the licence but none are forthcoming at present.

The contractor has been excavating the original cap of the original site as he either doesn't know what's buried there or doesn't care, I have attached some photographs for you, no 3 should let you zone in immediately to the purchaser as it is the barcode and supplier / manufacturer information.

We will be very interested in knowing who originally bought this from your company, where they are based and who they contracted to dispose of it. From your own technical sheet the product if inhaled can be carcinogenic. They way this lot has been dumped so far doesn't look good for the bags not bursting open.

Kind Regards,

Brian J McFall

Hello Brian,

My name is Paddy O'Doherty and I am the deputy Operations Director for Encirc glass. Thank you for your email and we are as concerned about improper disposal of any of our waste as you are.

I am chasing up the required information at the minute but could you please confirm if this has been disposed in a registered landfill site or if not, where has this been left?

Thanks in advance

Paddy

To whom it may concern,

Please see attached photograph of a pallet of your products. This product appears to be for use within the industrial glass making industry. We suspect that unused product may be being disposed of illegally and may be damaging to the health of local residents and local wildlife in and around our village.

We understand that you cannot control what purchasers do with your products but would ask if possible to be sent copies of Coshh assessments, details of how they should be disposed of and any other Health and Safety information. This would be particularly helpful and this help would be recognised when we take our issues to SEPA, HSE, East Dunbartonshire Council, our Westminster and Scottish MP's and other relevant bodies. We do not wish to see your reputation being tarnished by unscrupulous waste management firms.

We await your reply hopefully with the requested information.

Kind Regards,

Brian J McFall
