

Pilots from the Navy and the Army all worked very hard throughout WW1.

Women were also working hard during the war, not only at Eastchurch but in many other places. They were driving ambulances, riding motorbikes to carry urgent messages and doing lots of other very important jobs. These people all came together to form the Royal Air Force in 1918.

