April 2023

Book of the Month:

We have used this book for a while now with children at PPN and also our own children at home. It is really good at explaining what happens in our bodies when we feel angry and why this can have negative impact on our relationships as well as suggesting strategies to support.

We are currently offering Outreach to schools. We can provide support for 1:1 Teaching Assistants through shadowing and modelling. We can offer advice around strategies to support children with SEMH need. We can also offer demonstrations of some interventions we have found supportive.

Outreach feedback:

The session was clear and informative.

XX could answer all questions asked about the intervention.

Modelling the intervention with the child was the most useful part.

It was good that we could have a try while she was there.

All said they felt they could now go away and deliver the intervention.

I went away and did a session straight after.
