Happy Holly-days!

'Tis the season of reflection and recognition. As I look back on our fourth full year in business, I can't help but be amazed. As we have continued to grow and push ourselves out of our comfort zone, I have to admit it has also been a year of learning. Lots of learning. We jumped fully into adult fiction this year and I quickly found that, while our target audience had been mostly buyers of children's books, adult stories needed their own marketing style. Being able to stumble and still have the community behind Books & Things Publishing has meant more than words can say. With that marketing hiccup and some team changes, we have been able to get it back together for a strong end to the year.

Through it all, we were still able to publish seven new books this year and line up quite a queue of titles for 2026!

In this catalogue you will find direct links to purchase from our printer. This option provides more funds to our authors but you are not able to order multiple titles from the link. (A pain, I know!) If you need a bulk order, please email the title, format, and quantity to the email address below. For your convenience, you will also find links to order from Amazon.

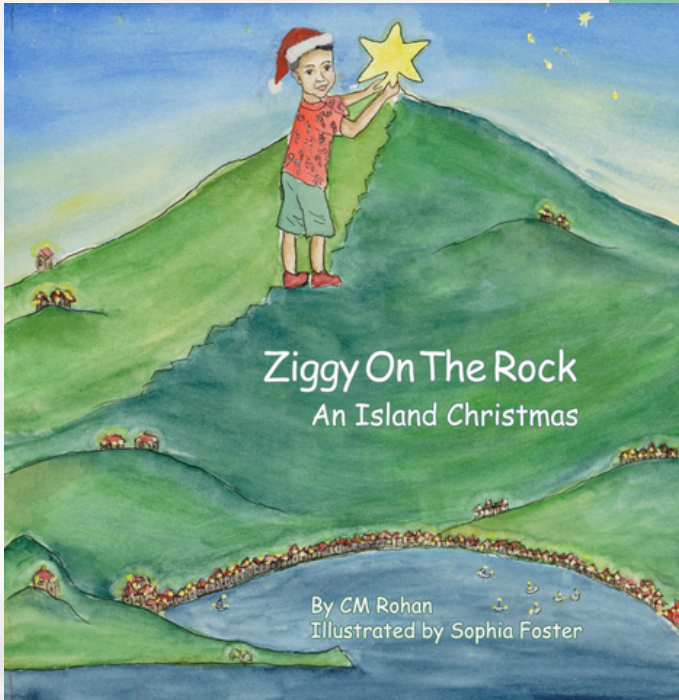

From everyone here at Books & Things Publishing, happy holly-days!

Exodus New Beginnings
Text Copyright 2025 Lauren Victoria

Set in our present world where supernatural abilities are not the norm but accepted if it means power and control. Lieutenant Jordan Knox, a former assassin, has been given the task to find and protect four teenage girls with supernatural abilities.

Angel and Ashton are wanted criminals, Daniella is locked in Juvenile Detention and Blair is the black sheep, unwanted by her own father. Their lives are disrupted when Jordan barges in and gives them a proposition they can't refuse no matter how suspicious and dangerous she may seem to them. A Rogue CIA Agent has stolen parts of an experiment to rid supernaturals of their abilities. The project has been altered to now give mortals the powers of supernaturals.

The Price of Power
Text Copyright 2025 Gigi Smith

State Senator Lacy Jacobs is the rising star everyone's watching. With her historic run for governor gaining momentum, Lacy seems unstoppable. But behind the headlines and campaign rallies lies a dangerous truth she can't outrun-her own family name.

As she navigates political warfare and long-buried secrets, the only person who truly sees her is Ben-her speechwriter by day, and something far more intoxicating by night. Their magnetic, high-voltage relationship blurs the line between dominance and trust, even as the walls begin to close in.

When past sins and present conspiracies converge, Lacy must choose: protect her legacy... or expose the biggest lie of her life.

Lady Fay Ukulele
Text Copyright 2025 Kelle Jolly

When three friends go to the museum for the unveiling of their favorite artists' ukulele, they hear a story about her they've never heard before. Margo, the host of the event, shows one of Lady Fay's ukuleles and invites the audience to hear more about Lady Fay Ukulele and her very special pen. When that pen goes missing, Lady Fay turns to an old friend for answers. This folktale retelling will remind readers the importance of forgiveness and friendship.

Truth Tales: The Air Fair-He

Text Copyright 2023: Danielle Marietta & Marissa Kearney

Illustrations Copyright 2023 Ryan Odagawa for 5Rings Studio

Mystery & Fantasy/Fairytale/Graphic Novel

Gabe is your average 9-year-old kid who is beginning to question all the tales he grew up hearing. And when he loses his tooth at school, Gabe knows it means cash, but it also means a visit from the Tooth Fairy. But wasn't he a little too old to believe in fairies? With all these questions spinning around in his head, he needed answers and this night was his chance to find out the truth. He just had to catch the Tooth Fairy first. And when his trap actually works, Gabe quickly realized things aren't always what they seem.

Fly through the night with Gabe and The Air Fair-He as they unveil the dazzling truth about what happens after you lose a tooth.

Elle never thought her office job would affect her so much, but the amount of stupidity that surrounded her each day built up a level of frustration that she could no longer control. Nothing helped; not drugs, sex, prayer or vacations. She endured it all until one day she snapped! Elle stood in the darkened doorway watching this man sleep peacefully, her knife firmly held in her right hand. She felt a slight hesitation in her decision because it wasn't his fault. He was collateral damage. The last time they spoke, Elle couldn't control her emotions. Anyone who had worked in customer service would sympathize. He had to go.
