Ana Morales joined the Alpha Gamma Chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon at Florida International University in Summer 2000 and quickly developed a passion for lifelong involvement with Delta Phi Epsilon. Within a year of graduating, she began volunteering with the organization and, in December 2001, was appointed as an advisor for the Omega Chapter at University of Miami, a role she proudly held for 24 years. Ana has also served in several additional leadership positions within the organization and values the lifelong bonds of sisterhood, the opportunity to empower others, and Delta Phi Epsilon's commitment to service and personal growth.

Ana is a Certified Public Accountant, finance professional, community advocate, and dedicated leader with extensive experience in accounting, business operations, financial management, and real estate development budgeting. Her professional background includes accounting services, financial reporting, budgeting, operational strategy, business consulting, forecasting, cost analysis, and strategic financial planning across multiple industries. Passionate about helping organizations build strong financial foundations, Ana brings a detail-oriented and solutions-focused approach to every project, combining analytical expertise with strong organizational and leadership skills to support long-term growth and sustainability.

Outside of her career, Ana is deeply involved in volunteer and nonprofit work, with a strong passion for advocacy, mentorship, and service-oriented leadership. She is a committed supporter of organizations that promote equity, education, and safe environments for all individuals, and believes meaningful leadership starts with compassion, authenticity, and connection. In her free time, Ana enjoys traveling, Disney adventures, spending time with family and friends, and making memories with her husband, daughter, and their dogs, Mal and Willow.
