Rosa is a University of Miami alumna where she was a charter member of the Phi Sigma Sigma chapter. She was also responsible for founding the Miami Alumnae chapter of her Fraternity and served as its President for many years. In addition, Rosa also served on the national level on the Foundation Board of Directors. Rosa got her MS in 1988 and her JD degree in 1994 from St. Thomas University and has practiced in a varied number of fields, including environmental law, healthcare and administrative law. She was General Counsel for Citrus Health Network and later had a private practice. She also owned a small business, Nautique Travel, while she was General Counsel to the National Association of Cruise Oriented Agencies. She is currently an attorney for a state agency within the State of Florida. Rosa enjoyed her stint as a professor at the St. Thomas University School of Law and a Sociology professor at Barry University. She is proud of her post-graduate certifications which have given her 30 credits towards an LLM degree in Human Rights earned just last summer.

Rosa's passion lies in advocacy. She is nationally and internationally known as an advocate on disability rights and has done this extensively with many different partners globally.

Rosa does have time for fun. She is now learning wheelchair tennis! Keep up the good work!
