Kathleen Moorman was born in Wurzburg, Germany but raised in Miami, Florida. She graduated from Our Lady of Lourdes Academy, an all-girls high school which propelled her interest in sorority life. At Florida State University, she joined Sigma Sigma Sigma where she was active with numerous committees and eventually elected Vice President. This role included orientating new members for initiation. This was one of the highlights of her college experience. Upon graduation with a BA in English Lit, she went to work for IBM. Within a year she already had her real estate license, and soon after her broker's license. Shortly thereafter, she received an MBA from Florida International University.

During the early years of pursuing a career, one of the most enlightening experiences was traveling in Europe alone for four months. It was an experience of discovering the culture, arts, architecture, and the nature of the countries and following her interests while meeting people along the way made it an unforgettable experience. Upon returning to the U.S., Kathy began her real estate career. Over the years, she has worked for multiple real estate firms specializing in commercial development, property management, construction oversight, and lease negotiations. Currently, she is employed by Baptist Health South Florida, where she is responsible for the expansion of outpatient facilities, medical offices, and corporate administration buildings throughout four counties from Palm Beach to the Florida Keys, which includes approximately 2.7 million square feet.

One of her hobbies is volunteer work. Over the years, she has been involved with the Junior League, Beaux Arts, Cub Scouts and was a Girl Scout leader. She is the past president of the Miami Ski Club and is still involved in the board of directors. She has a keen interest of mentoring students which has led to her involvement as a Tri Sigma Student Advisor from 2002 -2010 at FIU. Currently, she is a University of Miami advisor for the MRED (Master Real Estate Development).

Kathy has been a member of Miami Women's Panhellenic since 2009. During her tenure, she has served as Recording Secretary and Treasurer. On a personal note, she has met many women who have known her mother, mother-in-law and aunts from their association with their sororities. Even her daughter has followed in her footsteps joining Tri Sigma while at Florida International University! Many of her nieces have joined sororities. Sororities and Panhellenic are avenues to network and make lasting friendships. .
