Born and raised in Miami, Florida, Marisel has always been deeply connected to her community. After high school, Marisel continued her academic journey at Florida International University, where she majored in Political Science with aspirations of attending law school. However, life had different plans for her, leading her to a fulfilling career that intersected with her love for sports and community involvement. While completing her Bachelor's degree, Marisel worked for the Florida Marlins, where she had the incredible opportunity to be part of their World Championship team in 2003. This experience shaped her professionally and personally, further igniting her passion for teamwork and community engagement PANHELLENIC She shifted career focus to the healthcare industry where she has thrived for the past 16 years. Currently, serving as Executive Sales Director at Cardinal Health, where her leadership and dedication have been key to her success in this field. Marisel's college years were also marked by her active involvement in Greek life through Delta Phi Epsilon. She embraced leadership roles and became involved in numerous campus organizations. Her experiences with Delta Phi Epsilon helped her grow personally, teaching her how to connect with people from all walks of life and encouraging her to push beyond her comfort zone. Today, as a proud mother of a high school senior and a freshman, Marisel continues to live by the values of Justice, Sisterhood, and Love that Delta Phi Epsilon instilled in her. She is now an active member of the Miami Women's Panhellenic, excited to share her passion for life and community with a greater sisterhood. Grateful for the warm welcome she's received, Marisel remains committed to living her life in service to others, embracing the same principles that guided her during her college years. Welcome, Marisel!
