Born and raised in Miami, Annette attended Coral Gables High School before pursuing her business degree at the University of Michigan. After graduation, she began her career as a computer systems consultant at what is now Accenture, where she also met her husband, Alex. They have 3 wonderful daughters and a delightful 3-year-old granddaughter. Annette is currently the Director of Curriculum at Code/Art, a nonprofit dedicated to inspiring girls to study computer science by highlighting the creative side of computer programming. Motivated by the realization that fewer girls are studying computer science compared to when she was in school, Annette joined the organization to help reverse this trend and encourage more young women to enter the field. Her hobbies include boating, hiking, traveling, and solving puzzles, but her greatest joy comes from spending time with her adult daughters and granddaughter. She is an active member of the Miami KAT Alumnae chapter and is happy to be a part of MWP!
