

EQUITY STATEMENT

Reclaim acknowledges that systemic disparities in education, housing, and economic opportunity disproportionately affect marginalized communities, creating obstacles that hinder some individuals from having an equal opportunity to succeed.

As an organization focused on supporting those experiencing poverty in the Snoqualmie Valley, we are committed to fostering a culture of inclusion, equity, and belonging throughout our programs, policies, and partnerships.

We are dedicated to recognizing and resisting any forms of institutional and systemic racism, prejudice, and inequality within our community and the systems that shape the lives of those we serve.

We believe that our ongoing commitment to equity and inclusion strengthens our mission and impact. By actively dismantling barriers to our programs and services, we broaden access and ensure that all individuals—regardless of race, gender identity, sexual orientation, background, or circumstances—receive the support, stability, and resources they need to thrive.
