

The Joy of Nature for Eleanor

At nine years old, Eleanor adores cookies with frosting, animals, and time spent outdoors in nature. She has an artistic mind and enjoys live theater and quiet time spent sketching and drawing. Art has been a comforting hobby for her as she's faced a lengthy treatment regimen for rhabdomyosarcoma, a cancer of the soft tissue.

Among Eleanor's favorite things to draw are sunsets, mountains, and other nature scenes. Inspired by her love for the natural world and all its beauty, Eleanor wished to go to Hawaii. There, she and her family spent each day immersed in lush island scenery and fresh air. Two of Eleanor's favorite activities were swimming with dolphins and going on a turtle tour, both of which gave her an even greater sense of awe and respect for these marine creatures. Her family said, "We had an absolute blast in Hawaii...The dolphins were definitely a highlight! You can see it in Ellie's grin." Best of all, Eleanor had plenty of ideas for filling her sketchbook each day with drawings to capture all that she saw throughout her stay in Hawaii.

With your generosity, Eleanor's wish was fulfilled. After a long, difficult medical journey, you helped this young girl and her family feel refreshed and hopeful through an exciting Hawaiian adventure!

Thank You
