

The Global Seed Campaign

Just imagine Charlie, if one person could plant a seed and make a great change!

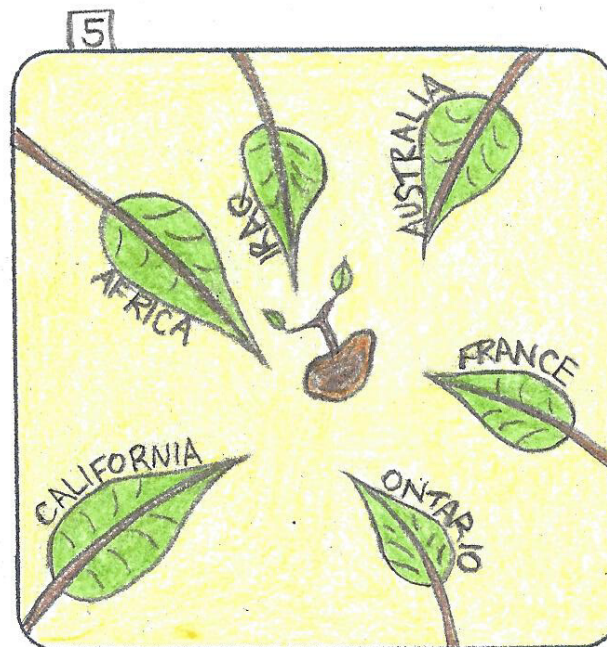

We could save the bees, the trees and nibi, which is the Indigenous word for water.

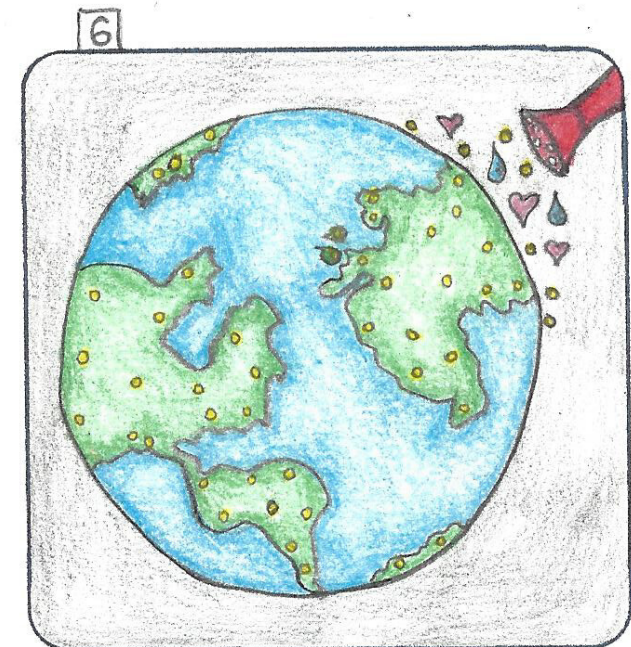

I will plant these Eastern White Cedar seeds near my home town of Terrace Bay, as they are suitable for this northern Ontario climate.

As I plant, I will start an online campaign of my efforts and I can challenge others to do the same!

As we post, we can share educational facts on growing trees together... did you know that some trees can live for thousands of years?

Let's do it together, Charlie. We can share our knowledge and resources globally to protect beautiful Mother Earth!
