A SPECIAL MESSAGE

THANKSGIVING "IN REFLECTION, WE GIVE THANKS, IN ANTICIPATION, OFFER PRAISE FOR WHAT WILL BE"

What I've learned over the course of my life is that Thanksgiving is not solely reserved for the last Thursday in November. "In reflection, we give thanks; in anticipation, we offer praise for what will be." So, what am I thankful for? I am grateful for my health and abilities, as well as the opportunities to serve my family, my community, and the global population. I am thankful for the love and support of those close to my heart and for the encouragement of those who appreciate my military service. I am grateful for the opportunity to serve those who consider their uniform a personal statement of pride and a collective testament to the unity of purpose. I am thankful for being enabled to serve others in response to their needs, forgoing my individual wants without regret. And, we should be thankful as Americans to recognize our divergent views while still displaying a unity of purpose that binds us as a nation. Envied by the world, we should still be thankful that, although vilified by some, as Americans, we extend a hand to all in need, not to hem in, but rather to enable, not with chauvinistic intent, but rather forwarding the ideals of freedom, individualism, and opportunity that, as Americans, we are thankful for.

As the day of Thanksgiving approaches, I offer thanks and praise for the blessings of the past and the opportunities that lie ahead. In reflection, we offer thanks in anticipation, praising what will be. It is here that I extend my sincere gratitude and appreciation to family members who support you and our force. May you all enjoy the blessings of the day, and may your days be richly blessed. As we gather around the table, let us offer thanks and praise for all things borne from the goodness of our endeavors, and for that which we are prepared to do in the service of others.

THIS MONTH'S FREE DIGITAL SHORT STORY: A CHANGE OF HEART

This story will be one of planned revenge. Here, the main character, Malik, is a boy who knows only pain and hardship. His life is on the run from his captors, from wild beasts, from evil men, all seeking to ensnare Malik. Day and night, Malik is consumed by a relentless focus on survival and revenge. He balances the two as he outwits those who would prey upon him. Weeks turn to months and then years. Malik will grow into a man who, without an education, has learned much on his own. He has learned to survive through thievery, taking only what he needs. Malik is aware of the consequences of his actions. But there are twists and turns to this story.
