

JORDAN PUBLICATIONS LLC

NEWSLETTER

An update from the Director,
Robert Jordan

NATIONAL SENIOR
CITIZENS DAY
AUGUST 21ST

"And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age" (Matthew 28: 20 NIV)

AUGUST 2025

IN THIS ISSUE

- The Release of Emotional Healing Volume IX
- The Warmth Of The Gospel Book II
- My View Of What Others Perceive 2nd Edition
- This Month's Free Digital Short Story
- McKenzie's Good Fortune Book III

Emotional Healing Volume IX: Coloring Pages for People Living With PTSD will be released in August 2025! I am very excited to release yet another volume of helpful designs centered on "focused attentiveness."

The Warmth Of The Gospel Book II: An Anthology of Short Stories entered its final editing phase and will be released on July 15th. Book II includes captivating stories of hope, mercy, and grace. If you enjoyed Book I, you'll certainly enjoy this volume of short stories.

My View Of What Others Perceive 2nd Edition is now available on Amazon.com. This is a philosophical look at life and love. The is the second edition with a Forward written by Aria Rahmati.

At FatherBob.co, you can find updates concerning Robert's latest philanthropic endeavors, book guest speaking dates, and purchase Robert's books, all focused on selfless and purposeful service. All proceeds go to feed the poor and those at risk. For more information call: (757) 770-8652.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE

CHARACTER: LOOK BEYOND YOURSELF!

Each day, our personal actions, behaviors, and contributions are observed, noted, and frequently even emulated by others. As human beings, we naturally look to others for guidance and direction. And, herein lies the lesson that I imparted upon the young seamen and which I now share with you. Through selfless, purposeful service, we can set an example for others, inspiring them to follow and initiate their service. Character is a measure of one's being, a definition of both who and what we are and what we are made of. Character is an individual trait, but it can foster an organizational, societal, or even universal epiphany.

Character is defining oneself without saying a word. It motivates others as they observe you doing your best. It is not just leading from the front, but rather extending a hand to those at the back of the pack. It's not just verbally motivating one who is weakening; it is also shouldering another's burden, affording them self-belief as they put their trust in you. Character is realizing that the most important person in one's life is someone else. Character is one's signature in life that enriches others before self. Character is an enviable trait that will be emulated, thereby heartening others to do more through their own struggles and sacrifices. Thomas Paine once wrote, "Reputation is what men and women think of us; character is what God and angels know of us." Through our actions and deeds, we shape our reputation. Truly, goodness or vice will be emulated by others through their perceptions of us. May it be the former rather than the latter that you exemplify to others as they pursue their own direction along life's path.

Character is also giving more of self than what is expected in return. Rather than the personal, it is an offering to the greater good that clearly defines character. May you define yourself similarly, positively, and with distinction! Give more of yourself, and in so doing, your endeavors will reward others as they benefit those beyond their own line of sight. Character is an enviable trait that clearly defines more than us but rather, when emulated, defines a greater sense of being for others.

THIS MONTH'S FREE DIGITAL SHORT STORY: A ROUGH GO

This story takes place long before the turn of the twentieth century, automation, and the advent of technology that ultimately replaced the Lightship. This is a fictional tale of the men of a Lightship caught in a storm both outside and within the steel hull of the ship. At times such as these, men will turn on one another and fall into the shadows of hell.

These men will need a guiding light, the Holy Spirit, emerging not from the most experienced or mature; no, the Holy Spirit will make His presence known through the youngest among the men. This young man will guide the others to unite to survive a tumultuous storm that will rage outside and within the ship's hull. If you would like a copy, please contact me at jordan.publications.llc@gmail.com.

Exciting News!

Kenzie's Good Fortune Through Misadventure Book III: Eyes In The Darkness is well on its way to completion. The release date is scheduled for November 1st, 2025! Exciting updates will be posted!