CACIB welcomed EdeYouth students

8/20/2019

Yesterday at CACIB New York, we were pleased to welcome students from the EdeYouth organization for an internal workshop dedicated to job-search and financial success, organized by the CACIB Women's Network and the Human Resources team.

The first presentation outlined ways for students to conduct an efficient and successful job search, along with insightful tips for effective resume writing and interviewing, in hopes of preparing them for future job opportunities. The presentation was created by Donna Hayes, Deputy Head of Human Resources and Head of Learning & Development.

During this interactive workshop, the students were also able to introduce themselves and ask questions about starting and developing their career.

The second presentation, "Smart Money Moves in Your 20's and 30's: 10 ways to help up for financial success" was created by JIM from MetLife. During this workshop, the students were engaged in a conversation about how to budget their money. The presentation included 10 important tips for creating and sticking to a budget, and how to make the most of their savings and investments when starting their career.

Thank you to all the participants, we are looking forwards to welcoming the EdeYouth students for another workshop that would help them reach career goals!
