Did You Know ,Hawaii

Is the most geographically isolated population center on earth (we're 2,000 miles from the Marshall Islands, 2,390 miles from California, 2,500 miles from Tahiti, 3,850 miles from Japan, 4,900 miles from China, and 5,280 miles from the Philippines).

Is home to the longest continuously erupting volcano in recorded history (Kilauea Caldera on the Big Island has been producing a lava flow since January 1983).

Is still growing (Lo'ihi, a new seamount 20 miles off the Big Island of Hawaii, is giving birth to the chain's next island — due to rise above the waves in another 60,000 years).

Is the only state in the nation with no incorporated towns (towns and regions are governed by counties, each encompassing an entire island or more: The City & County of Honolulu governs the island of O'ahu plus all the isles stretching north up the Hawaiian Island chain to the island of Midway, the County of Maui governs Maui, Moloka'i, Kaho'olawe and Lana'i, the County of Hawai'i governs the Big Island of Hawai'i; and the County of Kaua'i governs Kaua'i and Ni'ihau. Each county has a mayor and a council.).

Has two official languages — Hawaiian and English.

All Hawaiian Islands have a "dry side" and a "wet side." The windward (east) side of each island attracts more annual rainfall. The leeward (west) side is always the drier area of the island.

State Nickname: The Aloha State.

The Only Royal Monarchy to Become an US State (50).

Hosted a structure ('Iolani Palace) that featured electricity before even the White House in Washington, D.C.

Had a Hawaiian Monarch, King Kalakaua, who was the first reigning monarch to circumnavigate the globe and the first foreign head of state to speak before a joint session of Congress.

Has the only U.S. city to be founded by royalty (Honolulu, on the island of Oahu), and hosts the only royal residence on U.S. soil ('Iolani Palace).

Had a population that, during the Hawaiian monarchy, was among the most literate in the world and with most newspapers per capita.

Is comprised of 137 islands, encompassing a land area of 6,423.4 square miles (and only seven of these islands are inhabited).

Has no snakes in the wild.

Has no daylight savings time.

Is considered the nation's endangered species capital.

Is the only place on earth that hosts all branches of the U.S. military.
