SOUTH CENTRAL DISTRICT ROSE SHOW AND CONVENTION

*'Iceberg, Brilliant Pink Iceberg'
Arrangement: "South Africa"
Duke Award: Andy Black*

October was highlighted by the South Central District convention held in Farmer's Branch, Texas. There was a nice Mexican dinner at a nearby restaurant Friday evening. Exhibitors were at their tables at the Farmer's Branch City Hall early Saturday, grooming their roses for the show. This being Texas, the weather prior to the show had not been kind to many of the exhibitors' rose gardens. However, there were some very nice blooms and arrangements at the show.

Two very interesting talks were held in the afternoon. Carol Shockley spoke on Horizon Roses best new exhibition roses in 2018 and their performance in the district. Many in the audience agreed with her and most left with a list of roses to add to their gardens. Please see pages 5-6 for photos of some of the roses.

Her presentation was followed by Gary Brooks with Bayer on Insect Natural Defense Systems. He had an amazing photo collection of insects that use camouflage or mimicry to defend or protect themselves and also to be predators.

The Awards and Recognition banquet was held at the convention hotel Saturday evening. It included a silent auction. The Silver Honor Medal, the South Central District highest award, was presented to Murray Warner, San Antonio Rose Society member, for his exceptional efforts and support of the American Rose Society and the South Central District.

Don Adlong was recognized as the retiring District Director.

Baxter Williams was recognized as the retiring Regional Director.

Andy Black presented the Rose Show winners. The dinner ended with an entertaining presentation by speaker, Stephen L Chamblee, on "Peace, Love & Milagros: Life Lessons on the Road."

News from the District Director Debra Bagley will be in the next issue.
