NATIONAL IMMUNIZATION MONTH

Immunizations and Vaccines

When you get an immunization, you're injected with a weakened form of (or a fragment of) a disease. This triggers your body's immune response, causing it to either produce antibodies to that particular ailment or induce other processes that enhance immunity.

Then, if you're ever again exposed to the actual disease-causing organism, your immune system is prepared to fight the infection. A vaccine will usually prevent the onset of a disease or else reduce its severity.

Why Should Someone Get Immunized?

The goal of public health is to prevent disease. It's much easier and more cost-effective to prevent a disease than to treat it. That's exactly what immunizations aim to do.

Immunizations protect us from serious diseases and also prevent the spread of those diseases to others. Over the years immunizations have thwarted epidemics of once common infectious diseases such as measles, mumps, and whooping cough. And because of immunizations we've seen the near eradication of others, such as polio and smallpox.

Some vaccines need to be given only once; others require updates or "boosters" to maintain successful immunization and continued protection against disease.

Which Immunizations Do My Children Need?

Because proof of immunization is often a prerequisite for enrollment in school or day care, it's important to keep your children up to date on their vaccines. The benefit of doing so is that your children will be protected from diseases that could cause them serious health problems. The recommended immunizations for children 0-6 years of age include:

Hepatitis B

Rotavirus

Diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis

Haemophilus influenzae type B

Pneumococcal

Poliovirus

Influenza

Measles, mumps, rubella

Varicella (chickenpox)

Hepatitis A

Meningococcal (for certain high-risk groups)

At one time or another, each of the diseases addressed by these vaccines posed a serious health threat to children, taking their lives by the thousands; today most of these diseases are at their lowest levels in decades, thanks to immunizations.

It's important to keep your child's immunizations on schedule and up to date, but if your child misses a scheduled dose he or she can "catch up" later. The complete updated schedule of immunizations for children ages 0-18 can be downloaded from the CDC web site. Article courtesy of WebMD

Cyntoia Brown Released After 15 Years in Prison for Murder Will Get Clemency Hearing

In 2004, Johnny M. Allen, 43, a real estate broker, picked up Ms. Brown at a Nashville restaurant and drove her to his home after she agreed to engage in sexual activity for $150, the documents say.

Ms. Brown testified that, at one point when they were in his bedroom, she thought he was reaching for a gun to kill her. She shot him in his sleep with a handgun that had been in her purse, took money and two guns and fled, according to the documents.

She was arrested and tried as an adult on charges of first-degree murder and aggravated robbery. In 2006, Ms. Brown was convicted by a Davidson County jury of those charges and sentenced to life in prison. She would not have been eligible for parole until 2055.

When Mr. Haslam granted her clemency, he set her release for Aug. 7, which commuted her sentence to 15 years from the date she was arrested.

Ms. Brown's legal team said in a statement on Monday that Ms. Brown was declining interview requests immediately after leaving prison. "I look forward to using my experiences to help other women and girls suffering abuse and exploitation," she said in the statement.

While in prison, Ms. Brown was described by supporters as a model prisoner. She earned her high school equivalency diploma and an associate degree with a 4.0 grade-point average through Lipscomb University, and she started working on a bachelor's degree.

Over the years, her case attracted increasing attention, propelled by support from celebrities including Rihanna and Kim Kardashian West. A documentary about her life was released in 2011.

Shortly before Mr. Haslam's term ended in January, lawmakers urged him to use his powers of executive clemency and commute her sentence, pointing out that since her conviction, the laws about trying teenagers as adults had changed.

But a detective who had worked on the murder case urged the governor to oppose clemency.

Mr. Haslam, a Republican, had noted when announcing his decision that Ms. Brown had acknowledged committing "a horrific crime at the age of 16."

"Yet imposing a life sentence on a juvenile that would require her to serve at least 51 years before even being eligible for parole consideration is too harsh, especially in light of the extraordinary steps Ms. Brown has taken to rebuild her life," he said.

Mr. Haslam told NBC News/Today on Wednesday that Ms. Brown "really had done what we hope happens when people are incarcerated."

"In the end," he said, it was decided that "society was better off with Cyntoia out of prison."

Ms. Brown was one of nearly 200 people sentenced as minors to the state's 60-year mandatory minimum life sentence, the toughest in the nation, according to the Sentencing Project, an advocacy group.

She was one of nearly 7,000 women serving a life sentence, many of them after also experiencing sexual or physical trauma, the group said.

Ms. Brown will be under supervised parole until Aug. 7, 2029. The Department of Corrections said in a statement on Monday that she had prepared for her release by meeting with counselors to design a "re-entry" plan, which includes placement in a transition center and continuing her studies.

Her lead lawyer, Charles W. Bone, said he had been "honored" to lead her team of lawyers and supporters for the past nine years. He added, "When her story is told in much greater detail, the words which describe her success include redemption, education, rehabilitation, salvation, mercy and freedom." MoneyWalk 396:

Please the Lord when you Sell

This program will help you undo financial bondage.

On earth, to have a job, hold a job, and be promoted throughout life a person must sell his / her willingness to work, skills, abilities, and/or accomplishments. Action in this regard takes many different forms from filling out job applications with many employers to starting entrepreneurial ventures that require the sale of products and services to other people in order to earn income and build wealth from your endeavors. Such abundant blessing and rewards do not come to or remain with the slothful and lazy.

Some have chosen to provide defective products, shoddy service, and lie about benefits and guarantees in order to make the sale, however you don't have to and should not sell products and services deceitfully. God will give you peace and joy and meet all your need according to His riches in glory when you operate in the utmost integrity. Your use of self-control to always display honest business dealings will show that you are a citizen of Heaven who understands you only reside on earth temporarily in anticipation of moving into the heavenly home the LORD prepared for you once you leave earth.

It is necessary to sell yourself, products, and services in a manner and for an end that pleases God and helps other people in order to be the witness God intends you to be to lead other people to Christ. When your integrity causes a job, project, or bid to pass you by, God will bring other opportunities your way that will allow you to stay within His will, abundantly provide for you, and keep you under His protective covering where you will be immune from the earthly and spiritual liabilities associated with criminal, illegal, unethical, and immoral practices. Such ungodly practices set the table for sudden collapse and destruction of your life, business, and reputation. So, make sure you use methods that please the LORD when you go about selling yourself, goods, and services to other people.

Please pray for this ministry and email me with any questions. May the LORD bless you richly as you follow His plan!

STAY WOKE

By Dee Freeman

Hey EVERYBODY! It's past time to wake up! Wake up, then Stay woke! Because the bigotry coming from the new administration, just ain't no joke! Theodore Parker said, "The arc of the moral universe is long, but bends towards justice. I say...to heck with a bending arc, we need to break it down, cause this arc just ain't bringing the right justice for us. We struggle and grapple with a systemic, unjust criminal justice system, Things are clearly getting worse, so we must stay woke! Times are now troubling. Being true to oneself is at times trying. Loving our fellowman is taxing. Life itself is sometimes tumultuous. But we won't stop...we can't give in. We gotta push on to the end. Race matters, black lives matter, people matters, Hell, LIFE matters! Race matters, so we provide hope to all disadvantaged Black lives matters, so we speak out against biased police brutality People matter, so we refuse to accept acts of hatred and bigotry Life matters, so we give aide to the many victims of prejudice and injustice As we speak out loudly against injustices We speak truth to power and must move actively forward We can't waste any opportunity to Speak up and out We are eager to roll with the punches, through the good and bad times, through the ups and downs, through our successes and setbacks, with the ebbs and flows of the tide. And through all this we need to be vigilant...ergo, We Must Stay WOKE! This is a serious cause for which we must stand up and be counted! So we symbolically take a knee with Kaepernick, To voice our dissatisfaction...for the continued violent actions Of those who would see us prideless, Bowed, humiliated and submissive...again! We are the proud vocal agents of transformation. We will NOT go quietly into the night We will NOT keep silent about these horrendous Acts perpetrated against us! So if you see something amiss, Speak, don't dismiss it. Racism and hypocrisy need a wakeup call. We must demand change...demand equal justice for all. Our current dilemma ain't even close to being a joke,

My sister, Geri, entrusted the above picture to me a couple of years before she died. It hangs in my second level great room. It inspires me to re-member that Saturday night God captured my attention. I am forever a follower of Christ. John, the disciple whom Jesus loved, writes that Saul had the Empire’s seal of approval to get rid of everyone in The Way, also known as followers of Jesus.

In Acts 7, we first read about Saul at the stoning of Stephen. In Acts 9, we read about Saul having an experience with God knocking him off his horse and asking, “Saul, Saul, why are you attacking Me?” Now, that’s a surprise from heaven that can happen today.

Pray with me: God, in the name of mercy, ask our beloved Commander-in-Chief “Trump, Trump, why are you attacking Me?” Knock him off his horse and save him from himself.

Mayor Proposes Recreational Marihuana Regulation

Proposal to Regulate Recreational Marihuana Sent to City Council

LANSING -Mayor Andy Schor has proposed an amendment to the City of Lansing’s Marihuana Ordinance which would add recreational marihuana to the types of licensed marihuana businesses within the city. The State of Michigan recently released emergency rules that allow any medical marihuana license holder in the state of Michigan to be approved for a recreational license in Lansing; the City of Lansing will not be a part of the licensing process unless it finalizes a regulatory structure for recreational marihuana by November 1, 2019.

“Lansing voters overwhelmingly supported the legalization of recreational Marihuana and we need a system that will appropriately regulate the number and location of dispensaries within the city,” said Mayor Schor. “The proposed amendment we sent to council ensures that we can allow the recreational and medical usage of marihuana in Lansing as supported by the voters, while also preventing an overabundance of locations of dispensaries in Lansing.”

The State of Michigan issued its emergency rules regarding recreational marihuana earlier this month. The Marijuana Regulatory Agency will begin accepting applications from Michigan residents for Class A Growers and Marihuana Microbusinesses; from current medical marihuana license holders for Marihuana Retailers, Processors, Class B and C Growers, and Secure Transporters; and from anyone for a Marihuana Safety Compliance Facilities beginning November 1, 2019.

The ordinance proposed by Mayor Schor will limit the number of recreational and medical dispensary licenses to 28 locations in total throughout the city. It will modify regulation of provisioning centers and marihuana retailers to be based on the number of locations, rather than the number of licenses. Meaning, a single location could have both a medical and recreational license to dispense marijuana. The proposed amendment eliminates specialized variances and removes redundancies with State law in order to improve efficiency in processing applications. The scoring criteria for marihuana business licenses will also be updated based upon the experience and feedback received during the licensing process for medical marihuana. This amendment would not apply to the current medical marihuana phase 2.

City Council will receive and refer the ordinance to committee on Monday, July 22, 2019. The ordinance will then go through the City’s Planning Board and Council’s process for approval. The Mayor’s Office and City Council will work together to finalize the ordinance before November 1, 2019.

MDOT proposes the adoption of an overall DBE goal of 8.03 percent for FY 2020-2022. The department projects that the recommended overall DBE goal of 8.03 percent for FY 2020-2022 will be met through race-neutral (2.53 percent) and race-conscious (5.50 percent) means. Race-neutral participation occurs when contractors use a DBE firm on a project with no DBE participation requirement. Race-conscious projects have a DBE percentage requirement.

MDOT will again seek public comment on this goal in 2021 and 2022. Comments or requests for information regarding how this goal was established may be submitted until noon on Oct. 30, 2019, to:

THE REALS OF JUSTICE

HOW TO INTERACT WITH THE POLICE

By: Ayanna D. Neal

Ayanna Neal

As soon as you see the lights illuminated on the police car behind you, your heart begins to beat fast, the last five minutes of your driving flashes before your eyes as you slow down and try to figure out why you're being pulled over. You pull over and keep checking your rear-view mirror frantically waiting for the police officer to get out of his patrol vehicle and approach your vehicle. As soon as the officer begins to walk to your window you're thinking, "Should I reach for my registration?" "Should I put my hands on the steering wheel?" The police officer gets to your window and you begin to roll the window down.

This interaction is most likely between two strangers. You probably don't know the police officer and the police officer probably doesn't know you. Two people in an often-high stress situation hoping that this encounter ends in the best way possible for each of them. The police officer wants to return home safely to their family and the driver and/or passengers of the vehicle want to return home safely and not get a ticket.

If the officer asks for your driver's license, insurance and registration, provide the documentation to the officer. If you don't have all of the requested information let the officer know that. Police officers usually tell you the reason for the traffic stop. But if they haven't when they first approach the window, you can ask the officer what the reason for the traffic stop is.

If the police officer does not ask you to step out of the vehicle do not get out of your vehicle. If you think that the officer is being inappropriate, wrong about the reason for the traffic stop or pulled you over because of racial profiling, ask for their badge number and/or card. The side of the road on a traffic stop is not the proper time or place for addressing any of those issues.

If you think the reason for the traffic stop and ticket is not accurate, court is the proper venue to address the traffic ticket by a hearing. If you experience what you believe to be inappropriate behavior or discrimination by an officer, you can file a complaint with the police agency, or it may even be necessary to contact an attorney to discuss other actions if there have been civil rights violations.
