Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Commission of Mid-Michigan 2023 MLK Day of Celebration

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Commission of Mid-Michigan 2023 MLK Day of Celebration event Monday, Jan. 16, 11 a.m. Lansing Center 333 Michigan Ave., Lansing

This year marks the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Commission of Mid-Michigan's 38th annual MLK Day celebration and the first time since the start of the COVID-19 pandemic that the event, the largest MLK Day luncheon in the nation, will be held in person at the Lansing Center. This year's theme is "Now is the time to lift our nation from the quicksand of racial injustice to the solid rock of brotherhood." The luncheon will include speeches, performances and an awards ceremony for the winners of the commission's Mark S. McDaniel Legacy Scholarship Contest and 2023 Essay Contest. Mark McDaniel, CEO of Cinnaire, one of the commission's largest corporate sponsors, will host the event.

This year's keynote speaker is Fred D. Gray, a Montgomery, Alabama, native and one of the nation's leading civil rights attorneys. Gray, 92, represented Rosa Parks after she refused to move from her bus seat in Montgomery. He has also represented the Freedom Riders, the Selma-to-Montgomery Marchers, Tuskegee Syphilis Study victims and was the first civil rights attorney for King. He has won numerous school desegregation and voting rights lawsuits and continues to practice law to this day. He is also an ordained minister, lecturer, former legislator and published author. Gray was recently awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom from President Joe Biden, the nation's highest honor, and he is also a recipient of the Charles Hamilton from the Washington Bar Association, Harvard University Law School's Charles Hamilton Houston Medallion, the American Bar Association's Thurgood Marshall Award and the Federal Bar Association's Sarah T. Hughes Civil Rights Award. Named "chief counsel of the civil rights era," he served as one of the first African Americans in the Alabama Legislature after Reconstruction, was the first African American president of the Alabama State Bar Association and was the 43rd president of the National Bar Association.

Lansing Center to honor Dr. King and the many civil rights advocates, thought leaders and changemakers," said Elaine Hardy, commission chair. "We're equally as excited to be able to share Fred Gray's remarkable and courageous story and illustrious, trailblazing career that has spanned several decades and advanced a more equitable future."

Tickets are $60 each or $425 for a table of eight and can be purchased via mlkmidmichigan.com/day-of-celebration. For more information, visit the website or contact Fonda Brewer at 517-410-2998.

Youngest Black mayor in the U.S. takes office in Earle, Arkansas

Mayor Jaylen Smith had his swearing-in ceremony at the Crittenden County Courthouse Sunday.

EARLE, Ark. — The youngest elected Black mayor in the U.S. officially took office Sunday, new Earle, Arkansas, Mayor Jaylen Smith announced on social media. The City of Earle elected the 18-year-old to be the next mayor in a run-off election on Dec. 6. Jaylen Smith celebrated the win on his Facebook page, saying "it's time to build a better chapter of Earle, Arkansas." Smith thanked his supporters for their efforts. He graduated high school in May 2022 and is currently attending Arkansas State University Mid-South. He promises to improve public safety in the small town near Memphis. Smith also wants to tear down abandoned houses and open up a grocery store. Nemi Matthews, who lost the race against Smith, congratulated him and wished him well. Smith received 235 votes to Matthews' 183, according to the Associated Press. Roughly 1,800 people live in Earle, according to 2020 census

MSU to hold commemorative community events for MLK Day

To kick off a week-long commemorative celebration of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Michigan State University hosted its first in-person annual unity dinner since 2020 on Thursday. Events will continue through Friday, Jan. 20 to honor King's legacy. Although it has existed for many years, the 2023 dinner will be the first event for Vice President and Chief Diversity Officer Jabbar Bennett, who began at MSU during the pandemic. "It's exciting for me to be able to bring back and celebrate this event in-person for the first time in four years, but also to meet many people on campus who engage in this work, who are advocates and allies in this work that I have not had an opportunity to meet," Bennett said. Bennett said an annual celebration of King's legacy is important not only to honor his work for human rights, but also to reflect on how that work continues today. "It's an opportunity for the community to come together around a common purpose, to reflect on work and legacy, specifically of Dr. King, but also to think about and acknowledge the work that is happening today," Bennett said. "And how there's still a need for it in different areas, and how we can encourage and partner with one another to actually get that work done." The 43rd Annual Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Community Unity Dinner will feature African American and African Studies associate professor Dr. LeConté Dill as a keynote speaker. Dill is trained in public health and ethnography, and described her work, which focuses on the lives of young, urban black girls and youth of color, as transdisciplinary. A major part of Dill's personal connection to King stems from attending Spelman College in Atlanta, the sister school of King's alma mater – Morehouse College. Dill said it is important to remember King for the way he lived, not just how he died. "Dr. King is important for not just our country but our world," Dill said. "[He is] definitely an important leader for Black people, but also an important leader for all people. Just based on his commitments to justice, his commitments to liberation, his commitment to studying." In her unity dinner speech, Dill will focus on King's 1967 "Where Do We Go From Here?" speech. She said her speech will center around power and how marginalized people can use their power to create change – a sentiment that is echoed in King's speech. "People who systematically don't have the most power, that doesn't mean they don't have any power," Dill said. "I will try in my speech to talk about the different types of power that even the most marginalized, minoritized people have, that they can leverage for change. [King] talks about when you properly understand this power, that's what's really going to lead to change and lead to you achieving your purpose." On Friday, the MLK Student Committee and the Office of Spartan Experiences will host the MLK Student Leadership Conference. Graduate student committee chair Ladell Watson is in charge of several aspects of the conference, which will feature author and school psychologist Kelsie Reed as a guest speaker. "We'll be learning from [Reed's] book, and different ways in which she produces work, how it relates to Dr. King's mission," Watson said. "Also providing opportunities and tools for [students] to do a self-reflection for themselves, but also reflection on how their work can ultimately support both campus life and their own student development." Undergraduate student committee chair Brandon Foster has worked primarily in setting up the MLK Commemorative March, which will take place on Monday, Jan. 16. The march will start at Beaumont Tower at 9 a.m. and end at the proposed location for the new MSU Multicultural Center. "It was very important for us to walk there because we are finally getting a place where people that are different can be comfortable," Foster said. "We've been fighting for that for decades now. I've talked to alumni from the 90s that were like 'we really wanted this' and we're finally getting that." The march is hosted by the student committee in collaboration with Foster's fraternity, Alpha Phi Alpha. Foster said his fraternity will always continue to honor King, who was also a member. "Just look at our school right now," Foster said. "Without Dr. King's legacy, we wouldn't be able to coexist in these types of spaces. He's one of the reasons there's a lot of diversity, equity, inclusion to me because he really brought those aspects together." Article courtesy of Vivian Barrett MSU State News.

POETREE N MOTION YEARNING TO FIND: WHERE JUSTICE

© Dee Freeman

Rev. Dr. MLK JR once said, "Something within has reminded him (the black man) of his birth-right of freedom, Something without has reminded him that it can be gained" Though I still ask, when will it come? MLK also asked, "where is justice when deep prejudices and Discriminations exist in hidden, subtle, and covert disguises"? I contend, it can be found only, where the majority is ready to Concede to their faults and begin a system of compromises We both still wish to know... Where is justice? When the constitution is misinterpreted and Equality is not given to all? Where is it, when we, as a people, have no representation on Liberty Mall or in Constitution Hall? Where is justice? When after hundreds of years It's still dispensed differently; failing to hear the weak and desperate call? I ask "Why can't it just live up to those long ago promises Giving freedom and equality to all?" Where is Justice? If still around, I don't think it's totally blind Though it's often misrepresented and turned against us... In fact, exactly that, a lot of times Where is it? When used to incarcerate a certain people Extremely harshly for a small substance abuse Yet, other people are just slapped on the hand For a worst offense or a more potent drug use Where is it? When, a mere 70 years ago, our people were strung up And hung up by the neck until dead, Yet, a segment of our government gets into an uproar Over only words that one of us has openly said Does it fail to see how it is being manipulated to work against it's own, When upon our backs this nation was built and many times we can't even call it home. MLK sought justice for us...as a people. He dreamed of justice flowing into every Nook and cranny until it reached every soul on earth Which is, as everyone knows... our right from birth. Yet, I still ask, Where is our share of justice? When the wealthy and secure have Great ranges of freedom Yet, we, the poor, the disadvantaged have a hell here on earth? I, like MLK, speak out now... asking for indiscriminate justice That precious portion of our inalienable right at our beginning... our birth I long to see the day, when our system of justice is revised and will become Governed by leaders (like President Obama) having one unified mind. Dispensing justice equally, from the same Point of reference to the entire world and to all mankind So, deep within my heart, I know this country Is in a desperate need of healing. For...the right Justice, in all the right places can be the doctor, reducing This pain, this injustice, which keeps our nation reeling Where is justice? I ask again and again,

I know, it's on the rise...yes, our future looks bright Justice is headed this way, still, just barely outta sight Yes, It has qualities, discipline, great minds, opportunity and great power! It needs some fixing of its ineffectiveness, so let's demand the fix this very hour. For I truly believe and DREAM as MLK did that, "the moral crime beginning in 1619 in Jamestown, Va. has to come to an utter end!" For the justice, we need, has to be!!! The Justice I see, just gotta be!!!! This Fair and Absolute Justice must be...just around the bend! Then Martin's DREAM will inevitably be realized, and I will have The Answer We All NEED... INDEED!

A new Miss Universe was crowned in New Orleans, Louisiana from the 84 beauty queens that entered the pageant. Harnaaz Sandhu, the representative from India and the titleholder from the previous year, crowned R'Bonney Gabriel of USA as the new Miss Universe.

The second runner-up went to Andreina Martinez Founier of the Dominican Republic and the first runner-up was Amanda Dudamel of Venezuela. Gabriel is a fashion designer, model and sewing instructor. She earned a Bachelor's degree in Fashion Design with a Minor in Fibers from the University

BE STILL AND YOUR SOUL WILL SPEAK

"²⁶People cannot save themselves. But with God, all things are possible." Matthew 19:26 The Voice

According to the laws of aerodynamics, the bumblebee cannot fly because its body is too heavy for its wings. But the bumblebee doesn't know this fact, so it flies anyway for all to see. REMEMBER this when you're losing faith or hope. This is God's proof that the impossible can be.

A.S. Waldron

Dearest of All, the Creator of Heaven and Earth, made us capable co-creators. We are driven to dream the impossible. And, to keep our dreams from turning to nightmares, we must keep our hearts married to the Heart of God, the Heart of goodness, the Heart of rightness, the Heart of Truth, and the Heart of Wisdom. These links keep our imaginative juices going.

The dreams of our veterans, our seniors, our youth, and the goals of the Kin/Kingdom of God are often dashed by trauma, ageism, homophobia, and outright disobedience to the Word.

A close read of the Ten Commandments, for example, clarifies that they are designed to keep our covenants and partnership undefiled and safe from internal and external sabotage.

An illustration of an impossible dream made possible is the dream of Joseph to rule over his family. When his brothers sold him into slavery, Joseph was seventeen years old. When Pharaoh had dreams his cronies could not interpret, he was thirty years of age. Joseph interpreted his dreams and became vice-regent to the pharaoh. Seven years later, Joseph's entire family had to come to him for food (Read Genesis, Chapters 37 – 50).

Before Henry Ford, an American automobile manufacturer, created the Model T in 1908, we traveled by horse and buggy. When John F. Kennedy asked, "What will it take to be first at putting a man on the moon?" the answer was "Our will to do so."

When I look over my life at the dozens of impossible dreams made possible, I KNOW there is a God and that I was an impossible dream in God's mind made possible. Even when Mom was in the hospital and given the news that only one of us could live, Mom called on the "Saints" to pray, and the impossible, according to the doctors, was made possible. We both lived – Mom to 91 and yours indeed to 75 years on May 12, 2022, as the Lord wills.

Look at the impossible dreams in your life made possible. Make it your quest to thank God for making your impossible dream possible.
