

BIOGRAPHY

Education: Harvard University (Cybersecurity Managing Risk), Arizona State (M.A. Criminal Justice)

Experience: Eric Rose began his career in the United States Marine Corps in 1996 serving in the Marine Anti-Terrorism Security Team. After receiving his honorable discharge from the Marine Corps, Eric worked for a notable Forbes listed family conducting executive protection and investigating internal theft issues involved with the family's business interest. He then accepted his next challenge and became a Police Officer. While in law enforcement, Eric was assigned to the Gang Suppression Unit and served as a Field Training Officer. Eric retired from law enforcement after being offered a position as a Trainer for the U.S. Navy, Seal Team 8. He was soon advanced to the role of Lead Trainer with the U.S. Naval Special Warfare Command. Eric wrote training curriculum and integrated tactics into SEAL Team Operations to support the Global War on Terrorism. He then joined the historic global risk management firm "Pinkerton" where he managed global security needs for several Fortune 500 and Entertainment clients including security for events such as the Super Bowl, the Grammys and the Emmys. Eric chose to expand from his role as Vice President with Pinkerton to serve in various corporate security leadership roles with Apple and the Madison Square Garden Company. In 2019 Eric founded "Event Risk" providing physical security and consulting to several corporate and entertainment clients.