Helpers

During this phase, you will be using previously hired helpers with a f (prep phase) ability at the top.

(You don't hire helpers in this phase but during your kitchen phase) (page 17)

Helpers are printed on the helper cards (in the middle) (

Anatomy of Helper Cards

A. Use dability on Helpers

- a. You can use the ability of any number of hired helpers with a prep symbol dility at the top of the card.
- b. The 🔂 abilities are all optional.
- c. You may only use each ability once during your turn. (Except when you use the Support helper that allows you to use another helper's ability again).
- d. Helpers with a description ability that gather specific ingredients at the start of your turn, may only gain the ingredient from a field that does NOT share a colour with the ingredient. The symbols description are used to indicate that a helping taster may not gather an ingredient from this type of field.
- e. Expert helpers sain two ingredients. The ingredients are gained one at a time. They can be gained from the same or different fields that does NOT share a colour with the ingredient.

If you are unable to gain an ingredient when using a d ability gain a shell ( $\bigcirc$ ) instead. Expert workers gain their intredients one at a time. In rare cases you could gain the last ingredient of the type and gain a shell instead of the last ingredient with an expert helper's ability.

In the Prep Phase you may gain a \( \bigcirc\) from any non-fig field \( \bigcirc\)
(like the wheat field (2)) but not the Fig Field (3).

You may also use the Mushroom Gatherer (4) in the same Prep Phase to gain a from any non-mushroom field \( \bigcirc\)

When you had a buser love love in the buser love love in the gain a from any non-mushroom field \( \bigcirc\)

What is the mancala mechanism

Mancala is one of the oldest known board game systems, dating back thousands of years to ancient Africa and the Middle East. It was played with seeds moved between pits carved into the ground. The mancala mechanism involves picking up a group of seeds (or tokens) from one spot and dropping them one by one into a series of connected spaces, often in a circle or a line.

B. Gather ingredients

In this action, you'll gather ingredients using a fun mancala-style move.

First, pick a field where you want to get ingredients from. (End field).

Then choose any other field to start from and scoop up all its tokens.

Drop one token next to each field going clockwise or counterclockwise.

Stop when you reach the end field. Return ingredients still in your hand to the bag.

Place each token on the field next to it, and gain a shell when the token matches the field type.

Then gain all the ingredients matching the End Field's type

Gather ingredients in detail

1. Choose an End Field Tile:

 Pick a field that has the type and colour of the ingredient tokens you want to collect. This is your End Field Tile.

2. Choose a Start tile and Scoop:

- Choose any other field to start from.
  - The starting field tile should have at least enough tokens to drop one token next to every tile between the starting- and end field tiles.
- Take all the tokens from that field into your hand.

3. Distribute tokens:

- Moving around the circle (in either direction), drop one token next to each field as you go.
- Stop when you reach the End Field.
- Any tokens not placed are returned to the bag.

4. Gain Shells:

- Place each token onto the field next to it.
- For each token placed into a matching field, gain 1 shell.
   (A fig token into a fig field gains one shell )

5. Gather Ingredients:

 Finally, collect all tokens from the End Field that match its type and colour(all wheat tokens from a wheat field) and add them to your cutting board.

Gathering Example

Alaine, the red player, wants to cook a Taster Dish (1), this costs (2). To gain (3). Alaine plans to end her gathering step at the Wheat Field (3). The tile where you end your gather step is known as the End Field Tile. This Wheat Field Tile (3) contains (1) (1) along with other resources (2).

Next, Alaine picks a Starting Field Tile (4) (the wheat field) containing four ingredients ( ). Between the Starting Field Tile and the End Field Tile, there are four tiles (including the End Field Tile). The four ingredients in Starting Field should at least be the same or more than the number of field tiles between Starting Field and Ending Field. So, 4 ingredients = 4 field tiles.

Then, Alaine scoops up all the ingredients from the starting field tile and places each of the ingredient, one at a time, next to each of the field tiles between the starting and ending field tile (the starting tile does not get an ingredient):

- Alaine places the mushroom (5) from the Starting Field Tile next to the mushroom field tile moving clockwise.
- She places one fig (6) next to the fig field and the other fig (7) from the Starting Field Tile next to the Blueberry Field.
- Finally, she places the wheat (8) next to the Wheat Field (End Field Tile, 3).
  - Now Alaine adds each of the ingredients next to the fields into that field and gains:
  - 1 shell token (9) from the Mushroom Field, where she added a mushroom token (5).
  - Another 1 shell token (10) from the Fig Field, where she placed a fig token (6).
  - And 1 shell token (12) from then End Tile where she placed a wheat token
  - All the wheat tokens (13), (three wheat tokens, the two there already plus the one just added) from the End Field Tile.

However, Alaine does not gain a shell from her Blueberry Field (11) because she added a fig token (7) to the blueberry field.
