YES I CAN

It is always a joy when Jim comes to worship with us. More importantly, he is always exhorting us in our relationship with God.

I was listening to an interview with someone who was retiring from talk radio due to cancer. For 30 years he has hosted his own show. The interviewer asked him, "How does it feel to be going out on top in your best time?" He responded, "I don't know when my best time is, it could be now or it could be a month or a year from now." The same is true in our relationship, we don't know when our best point is. There are some differences between his career and our relationships. His audience is based on their beliefs, our relationships are based on our feelings. He can put his whole heart in to doing a better job as a radio talk host and still lose his audience. While that can happen in a relationship, generally when we put our whole heart into, our relationship it grows. Is my best relationship still to come? YES! I can do better. I can invest more of myself and time. I can change. I can grow. I can love more. Really the question is not, "can you", but "will you".

2022 Verse

And may the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God and into the steadfastness of Christ.

2 Thessalonians 3:5
