The photo you just saw (“Fossil Seller, Tibet”) won first place in international competition of the U.S. National Park Service.
 It was the Web landing page for several months and is now preserved in the U.S. National Archives.

The next photo was exhibited at the California Museum of Photography.

The next photo won first place in the juried “Art for the Animals” regional art contest and auction to benefit the County of Riverside animal shelter.

Thank you for your attention;
I would be delighted to be invited for an interview.
