

JACQUES D'ARNAUD, "THE BUTCHER"

JACQUES D'ARNAUD, "THE BUTCHER" - Doctor who performs surgeries and medical procedures on the unsuspecting souls that wander into his dimension

- Obsessed with Medical Science; He does his best with the current knowledge available to him, and although he ignores things such as hygiene and microbes, he is a very intelligent man who understands how the body works
- Also obsessed with immortality; Of his many interests, these include studying the Occult (Voodoo in New Orleans and Brujeria in Rio Grande City) as a curiosity rather than as a real thing
- The wealthy LaLauries paid the young doctor to perform a risky and experimental procedure to separate their conjoined, twin daughters, EMMA and CHRISTINA; Not being able to publish his success, her parents paid him off and promised their armless daughter to him as a wife
- Despite being an arranged marriage under special circumstances, THE BUTCHER and EMMA truly fall in love
- Performed his unethical and experimental practices on his patients, including vagrants; People's suspicions of him started escalating
- The People start harassing him, even going so far as to place pig heads on the pikes of the gates outside of his house; This essentially drove him from New Orleans to Rio Grande City
