

THE LION OF JUDAH

December 2025 – News & Updates

From the Office of Academic Affairs

Office of Academic Affairs

On behalf of the academic leadership of the Apostolic School of Theology, I am pleased to present the December 2025 issue of The Lion of Judah. This publication serves as the official academic newsletter of ASOT and reflects our ongoing commitment to scholarly excellence, doctrinal integrity, and Apostolic fidelity to Holy Scripture. As a theological institution, ASOT is dedicated to training ministers, teachers, and church leaders through structured study. We emphasize careful biblical interpretation, doctrinal precision, and the formation of competent servants of Christ who can teach the Word with clarity and spiritual authority. This issue records institutional progress, curricular developments, and academic initiatives for the benefit of students, stakeholders, and the broader Apostolic community. We commend our students and faculty for disciplined engagement, and we look forward to continued advancement in the year ahead.

Respectfully,

Office of Academic Affairs

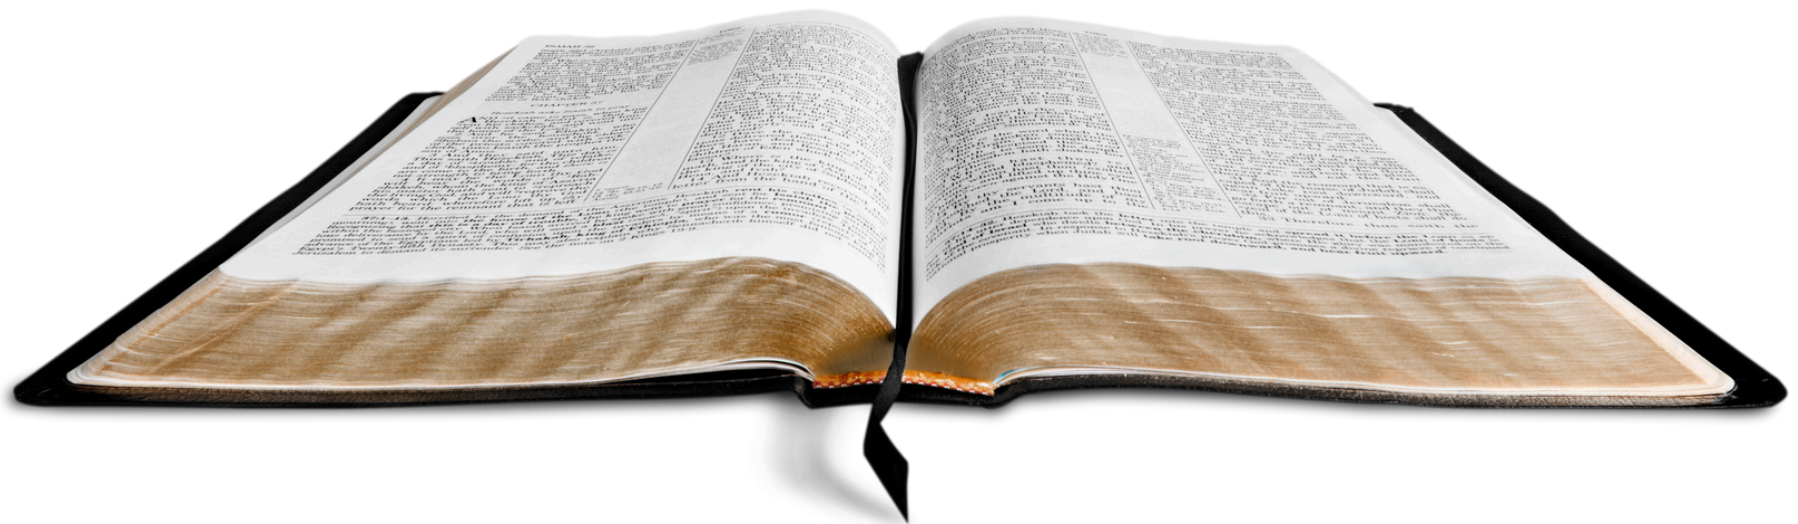

Apostolic School of Theology

Curriculum & Instructional Updates

Office of Academic Affairs

The Apostolic School of Theology continues to strengthen academic programs through disciplined curriculum design, instructional consistency, and doctrinal clarity. Courses are reviewed for learning outcomes, coherence across modules, and faithful alignment with Apostolic teaching as grounded in Scripture. Instructional enhancements this term include improved lesson sequencing, standardized module expectations, and expanded resources to support student success in reading comprehension, study habits, and theological vocabulary. Students are encouraged to maintain steady progress, consult course objectives before each module, and document their study notes for future preaching and teaching ministry.

- Continued implementation of AST-101 through AST-110 core curriculum
- Expansion of elective offerings and specialized theological studies
- Formal sequencing of associate-level degree pathways and completion timelines
- Enhancement of digital learning delivery and academic accessibility
- Ongoing review for rigor, learning outcomes alignment, and doctrinal accuracy

Academic Community Highlights

Office of Academic Affairs

Faculty Distinction. ASOT faculty continue to contribute through instruction, writing, and theological engagement. Faculty are encouraged to model scholarly seriousness, doctrinal responsibility, and ministerial maturity. Student Achievement. Our students represent ministers, educators, and serious students of Scripture across multiple stages of learning. This month we recognize progress toward core module completion, advancement toward degree and diploma milestones, and demonstrated excellence in theological comprehension and application. ASOT affirms that academic discipline is an essential component of ministerial preparation. Consistent study, careful reading, and faithful attendance to course requirements are marks of readiness for public ministry.

Apostolic Identity and Scriptural Authority

Office of Academic Affairs

A defining characteristic of Apostolic theology is its unwavering commitment to the authority of Scripture as the final rule of faith and practice. Apostolic identity is not rooted in tradition alone, but in disciplined adherence to the biblical text as rightly divided and faithfully applied. The doctrine of the Oneness of God, the Apostolic pattern of salvation, and the authority of the Apostolic writings together form the theological framework upon which ASOT is built. In an era of theological fragmentation, Apostolic theology provides doctrinal coherence grounded in the testimony of Scripture. Accordingly, theological education must not merely inform the intellect; it must cultivate doctrinal responsibility, hermeneutical discipline, and fidelity to apostolic teaching.

Academic & Administrative Announcements

Office of Academic Affairs

Enrollment remains open for upcoming course cycles. Students should monitor published start dates and assignment deadlines to remain in good academic standing.

Students are encouraged to review degree completion timelines and academic requirements as stated in the ASOT catalog. Clear planning supports timely completion and reduces administrative delays.

Institutional policies continue to be reviewed and refined for clarity, consistency, and responsible administration. Official notices are published for institutional record and student reference.

- Catalog and documentation updates are ongoing for institutional recordkeeping
- Course delivery standards are being strengthened to ensure consistency across modules
- Students should ensure contact information is up to date for official communication

Academic Calendar & Institutional Outlook

Office of Academic Affairs

Upcoming Academic Activities. ASOT continues to develop scholarly lectures, specialized theological intensives, and structured course launches designed to equip ministers for competent service. Institutional Commitment. ASOT remains committed to academic integrity, doctrinal clarity, and responsible theological instruction. Students and partners are encouraged to engage actively in the academic life of the institution. Institutional Contact. Email: apostolicsot@gmail.com

- Course launches and instructional modules
- Specialized theological intensives
- Scholarly lectures and Apostolic studies sessions

