Students Learn About Their Carbon Footprints

Earth Day, the annual holiday to demonstrate support for environmental protection and sustainability was April 22nd. In honor of that and as part of FCD's effort to teach social responsibility and good citizenship, REACH students worked on a mini project about carbon footprints. Carbon footprints are the total amount of greenhouse gases produced directly and indirectly as a result of our lifestyles.

The 3rd, 4th, and 5th grade students discussed the life cycle of ordinary household products such as paper towels, plastic cups, straws and plastic shopping bags as well as energy needed to sustain their daily activities and where that energy comes from. Once the students understood the amount of electricity, water, chemicals and waste required to produce, break down, and sustain these things, they brainstormed ways to reduce their carbon footprint. Next, they made a print of their foot as a graphic and listed their individual commitments to reducing their carbon footprint. When their visual aid was completed, each student presented their ideas to the group. Every presentation was unique and thoughtful and the students left with an appreciation for earth's resources and a commitment to conserve them.

On Wednesday April 17th, REACH students celebrated Easter by making “peeps in a house”, coloring eggs using rice and food coloring, and playing games. The kids also enjoyed hunting for eggs that were hidden outside in the beautiful spring weather.

The REACH students also had an interesting art lesson on April 23rd and 25th. They studied the work of Michelangelo and learned the method he used to paint the Sistine Chapel between 1508 and 1512.

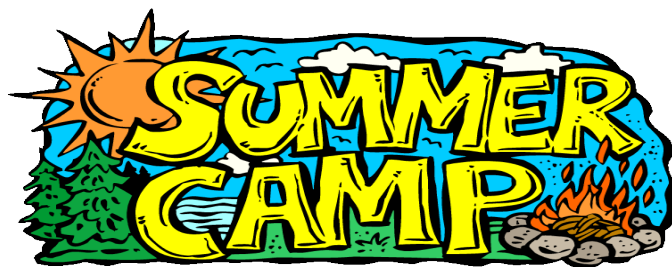

Students enjoyed yummy treats at the REACH Easter Party

Students then tried to paint while laying on their backs the way the famous artist did. They soon found out what exhausting and precise work was required to create such a masterpiece.

Volunteer Rene Vojonovic works with students to paint using the methods of Michelangelo.

In April the Girl Squad learned the importance of problem solving and understanding each other's differences. The girls participated in team building activities and games. They also did some tie-dying to signify the different colors, just like their different personalities, coming together to create something purposeful and pretty! In March, the Girl Squad had an informative presentation about feminine health and hygiene. They learned that it doesn't have to be embarrassing, and it's okay to talk about! They also learned to "be proud of your body and take care of it." Each of the girls was given a pretty bag with some essential products to put in their purse or backpack.

FCD Week of Giving May 17-24

If you are a friend of FCD, whether you are a client, parent, volunteer, Deaf Community member or you just like the work we do with Deaf and hard of hearing children and families, now is the time to show your support.

One time per year we ask you to reach into your pockets and support our Summer Programs. This year we have activities planned for all age groups, but we need your help to ensure that any child who wants to attend a camp or a program has the means to do so.

You can help by sending a check to FCD or going to our website www.fcdpinellas.org. You can also help us spread the word by sharing our appeals on Facebook and letting all of your friends know.

If we all work together our children can have the best summer ever!
