About the Author(s):

Dr. Samuel E. Sanchez - Samuel E. Sanchez is an American family practice physician, who wrote the Christian children's book, The Little Moon: the first book in the series, The Adventures of Little Moon. A series about the plight of an adolescent native American girl, growing up in the 1850s.

Over the last eight years, Samuel E. Sanchez has been dabbling in Christian literature. This has been his steppingstone in the realm of children's Christian fiction books. His most recent Series, Mandi Pandi and Family, are a sequence of parables to teach young people the mannerisms and importance true of Christianity.

Samuel E. Sanchez is an Alumni from Cal State University of Long Beach where he studied Chemistry. Additionally, he obtained a Doctorate in Osteopathic Medicine from the Kansas City University of Medicine and Biosciences.

As a resident of Arizona, he has grown to appreciate the old west, particularly the native American culture. This has had a profound influence on his writing, especially his books and articles about old western America.

Come one, come all ..., and experience yesterday, with a cup of coffee, and a good book by Dr. Sanchez.
