

THE MIXTAPE PODCAST

MEDIA KIT

CONCEPT

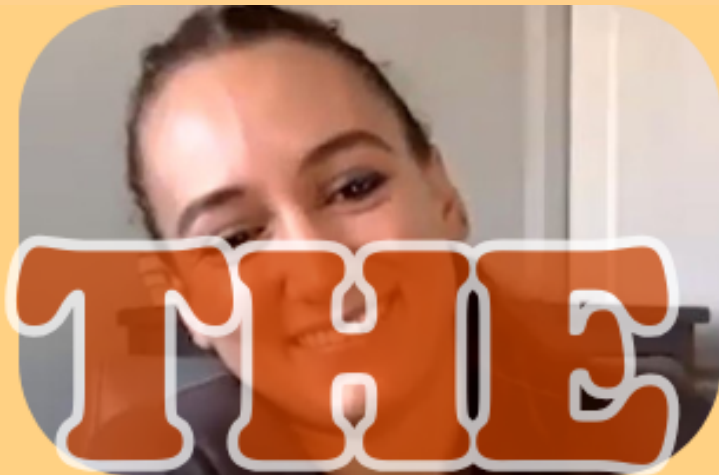

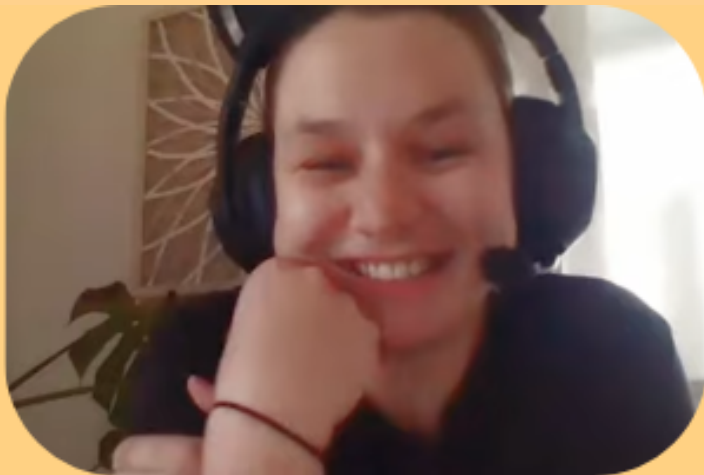

The best stories in the world to me are the ones that elicit a real emotion, but have humor

— JIM GARREY

The Mixtape Podcast is a comedy and music podcast with new episodes every two weeks. Each guest builds a mixtape for the host, who uses the songs as a jumping-off point for stories, jokes, and conversations.

Remember when we used to connect with people using a group of songs we thought would explain our psyche and inner soul? This does just that. Each episode is a chance to let the guest shine, do some good bits, and learn a little about each other through music.

In an increasingly intangible, modern world, The Mixtape Podcast tries to recreate the feeling of a tangible exchange of personalities.

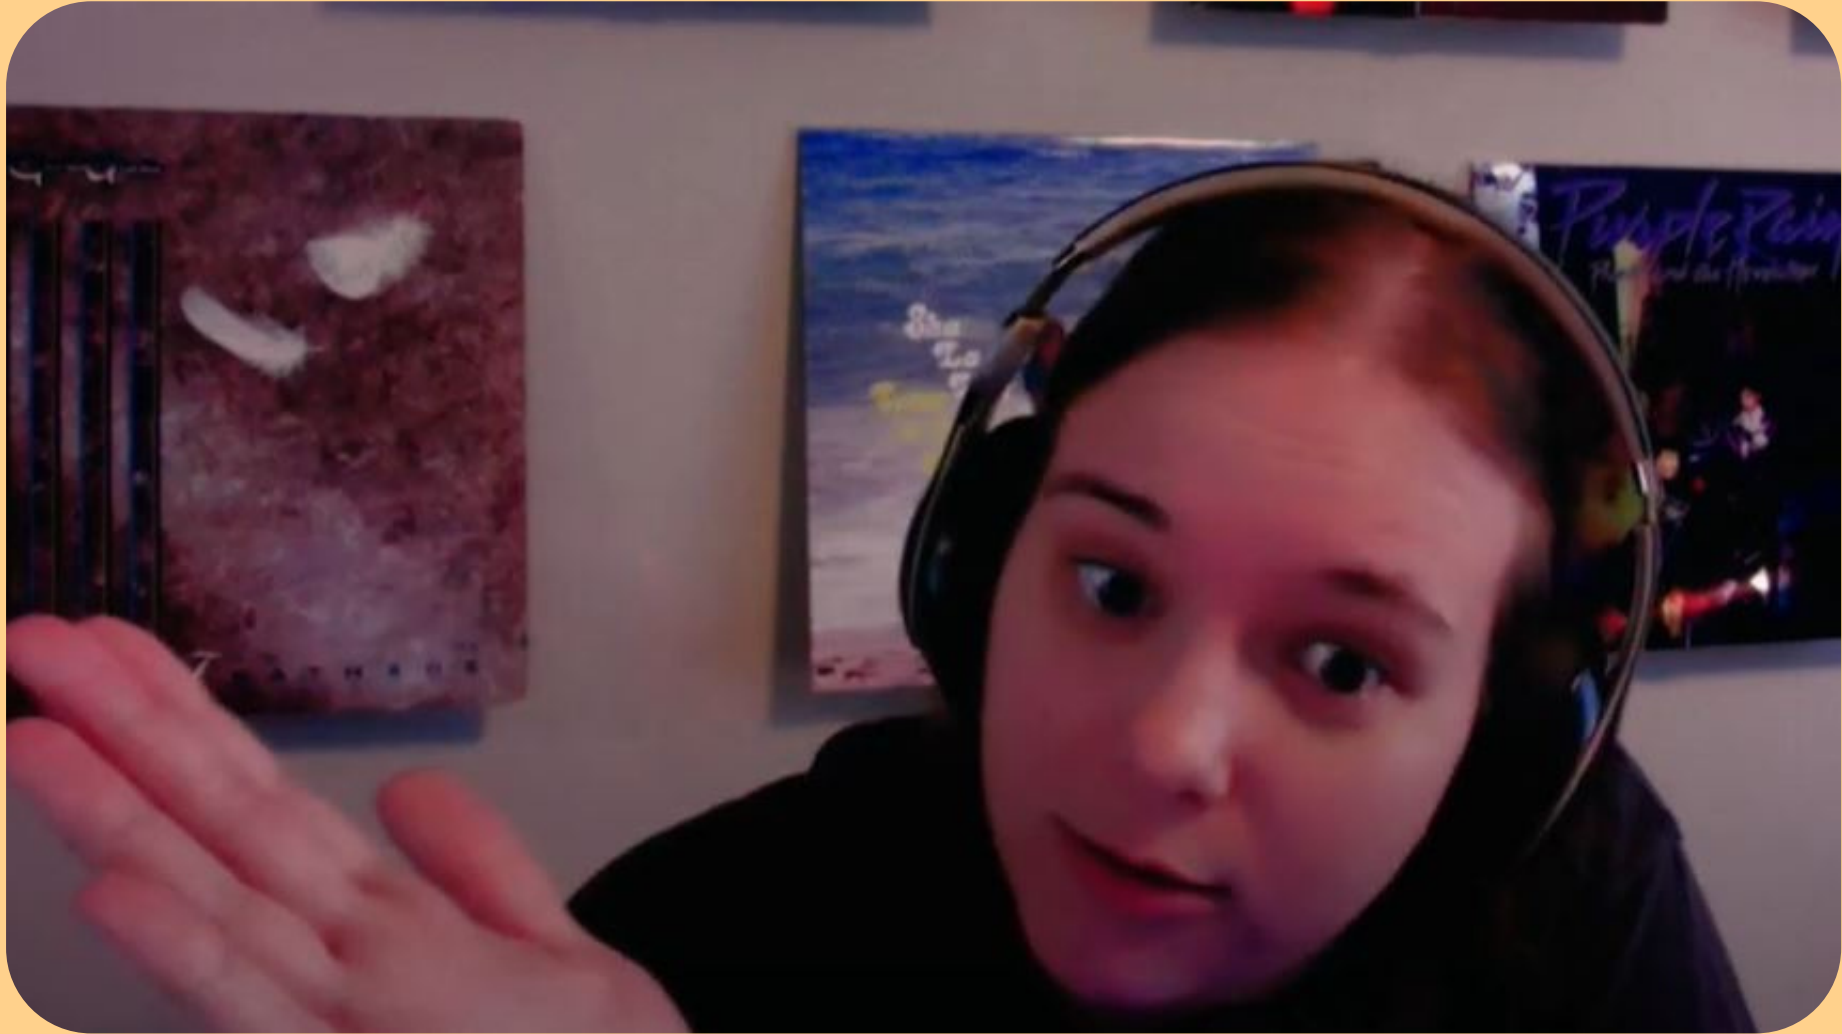

THE MIXTAPE PODCAST

Viviane Ugalde is a writer, communicator, creative professional, and stand-up comedian based in Los Angeles. She has opened for comedians including Ryan O’Flannagan, DC Irvin, and Kelsey Cook, and has performed, hosted, and produced comedy shows throughout her creative career.

Her work spans entertainment, media, production, creative operations, and storytelling. She currently works in the entertainment industry with the Directors Guild of America and Television Academy, supporting the people and processes behind high-profile industry work and events. Her experience also includes content creation for the comedy entertainer Piff the Magic Dragon and creative production with E. Sierra Media.

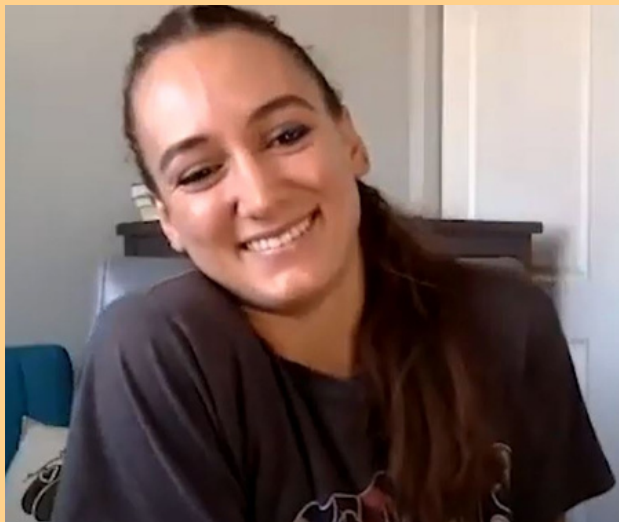

Across her career, she has worked as a writer, producer, editor, organizer, and behind-the-scenes problem solver - often moving between creative ideas and the practical work required to bring them to life. She is happiest collaborating with good people, making things happen, and creating something others can experience and enjoy.

Past Guests & Featured Episodes

Since its recent launch, The Mixtape Podcast has built a growing archive of thirteen episodes and counting. Guests have brought their own tastes, comedy, music, stories, and personalities to the show. They've created a collection of mixtapes as varied as the guest list. From comedians and creators, to family and social advocates, every guest adds something different to the mix. These are just a few guests who have made a mixtape.
