

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc.

Your bridge to Baltimore and more.

WELCOME TO THE TEAM!

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc. (MMS) is a full-service market research company that was established in November 1986. Through quantitative and qualitative market research methodologies, we are able to learn much about how consumers think, feel, and act. We have enjoyed steady growth since 1986 and are looking forward to that continuation with your help.

Many different types of companies hire us to conduct market research. Methods we use for data collection include telephone interviews, in person interviews, on location interviews, pre-recruited studies and focus groups. We also conduct research online. You will learn about each one of these more fully as the need arises.

Each study is different, not only in topic but in requirements as well. Interviewing is an art. We will teach you the basics and you will go on to develop your own style.

This company has received the highest quality rating in Baltimore by our clients and has been listed as such in trade publications. This is greatly due to you, the interviewer. What we offer to our clients and what puts us above our competitors is QUALITY AND TIMELY SERVICE. It is your responsibility as an interviewer of this company to do your best to complete each study quickly while providing the high-quality work for which we are known.

Scheduling start dates and completion dates for each study can be very difficult. Unexpected things can occur while interviewing, which may cause a study to take longer than expected or in some cases even go more quickly. There are times when a client cannot provide us with all the needed materials at the time promised and the study must be rescheduled. Therefore, two things can occur: we get over-booked (more work than we can usually handle), and we will need your cooperation to pitch in and work a few extra hours to get everything done; or, on the other hand, there may occasionally be some down time (1 or 2 days where we will not work) while we await the start of our next study. Your cooperation is greatly appreciated so that we may do our best to complete studies in the time promised and continue to provide top quality service to our clients.

At this time, I would like to introduce our management staff to you:

Michelle Finzel / President
Christopher Spara / CEO
Lisa Newton / VP, Operations

We are here at all times to answer your questions and to assist you in any way we can. Please feel free to talk to any of us at any time. Please remember that you the interviewer are the backbone of our business and are held with the highest regard. We couldn't do it without you!

Please make sure to read this Handbook in its entirety whether you will be working remotely, from home, within our call center, or on-location (in the field). Expectations and requirements are subject to change at any time.

Again, welcome and we look forward to a long and enjoyable working relationship.

Sincerely,
Michelle Finzel

Job Performance

Introductory Employment Period

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc. has established an introductory employment period to provide employees with the opportunity to become familiar with their new job. During this period, a supervisor closely monitors performance to determine whether an employee can demonstrate the skills, job knowledge, attitudes, work habits, and other qualifications necessary for continued employment.

IMPORTANT: Your first three, scheduled work days are considered training. You must work all three of these agreed upon days to be paid for training. Failure to work these first three days in full will be considered job abandonment and will result in non-payment for all training hours worked.

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc.

Your bridge to Baltimore and more.

If it is determined before the conclusion of the introductory employment period that the employee is not performing satisfactorily, the employment may be terminated at any time. In appropriate circumstances, these periods may be extended.

Initial Assignment Briefings

Attendance at the initial briefing session before each job is mandatory. You should plan to be on time to participate in the briefing, as you will not be allowed to start a project without a briefing.

Validations

Your work will be validated. Respondents will be contacted and questioned about the length, content, and some of the classification information. Verification will be done twice: once by the project supervisor, and again by the client. We will not be paid for invalid interviews.

Monitoring

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc. has a monitoring system that allows all telephones to be monitored. We also have a quality control auditor on staff. This auditor operates from an off-site location and acts as a third-party quality control specialist and keeps management apprised of all monitored calls. Further, our clients will also be monitoring to make sure we have a well-trained staff and that all questions are being read as worded, instructions are being followed, and our dialing rate is acceptable.

All interviewers should expect to be monitored several times throughout each shift. Negative monitor reports will be discussed with the interviewer as well as methods for improvement. IMPORTANT: An interviewer's job advancement or termination can be determined by monitor reports.

Probation Periods for Poor Work Performance/Habits

Probation periods for poor work performance/habits are established to encourage an employee to improve or correct substandard performance or work habits and to meet the established standards and requirements for the position. Periods of probation for poor work performance/habits may vary, depending on the circumstances.

Performance Evaluation Programs

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc.'s performance evaluation program is designed to support continual work improvement by providing periodic appraisals of your performance.

The evaluation process is intended to encourage constructive dialogue between you and your supervisor about your past work performance and to develop strategies to enhance or improve your future work performance. The evaluation process focuses on such areas of your performance as customer service, job skills and knowledge, productivity, teamwork, work habits, communication skills, and overall performance, as they apply to your position. Additional performance criteria such as problem-solving, analytical, and supervisory skills are included for employees in exempt and managerial/supervisory classifications.

Performance evaluations are conducted each year. Your supervisor may provide additional performance feedback or training, either orally or in writing, at other times in an effort to provide appropriate information to you about your work performance or probationary status.

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc.

Your bridge to Baltimore and more.

Communicating with Your Supervisor

If you have questions about your duties and/or responsibilities, it is important to discuss them with your supervisor. It is your responsibility to ask questions and make sure you understand new goals, policies, or procedures. Supervisors will do everything within their power to provide you with appropriate answers.

Conduct and Work Rules

While at work, you are expected to follow the policies and practices of Maryland Marketing Source, Inc., your department, and your particular position. A violation of policies and practices may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Work Behavior

Respectful treatment of co-workers is essential, and sensitivity to their individual circumstances is often necessary. Preventing difficulties is preferable to solving problems after they occur. Violent behavior on the part of staff, such as fighting or disorderly conduct, should be reported to supervisory staff immediately and is grounds for immediate termination.

Dress Code or Appropriate Dress

Onsite dress codes may vary in accordance with client demands. In general, the dress code within the call center is casual but office appropriate. You may wear comfortable clothing that is suitable for a public workplace.

However, when interviewing on location, when we have a client visiting the office, or when otherwise informed, the dress code is business professional. During such occasions, you will be expected to dress professionally and follow all applicable policies. Examples of unacceptable items of attire include: jeans, tennis shoes, halter tops, shorts, mini skirts, and body piercing (other than a maximum of two holes per ear for earrings for females, and one hole per ear for males). Also, refrain from wearing colognes, perfumes, or other possibly heavily fragrant items. Please use good judgement.

Always wear your badge, as well as any mandated Personal Protection Equipment (PPE) (which could include, but may not be limited to face masks, gloves, face shields, etc.) when doing onsite or in-person interviewing, unless otherwise instructed. If you are unsure about this policy at any time, please consult with your supervisor prior to interviewing hours.

Hours of Work

Workweek

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc. generally maintains a standard 40-hour workweek. This work week begins on Sunday and ends the following Saturday. We expect employees to be available to work 3+ days a week, as well as 2+ weekend days monthly. Hours of work are set by individual departments to address their particular operational and service needs. Hours worked in the workweek include time you are required to be on the premises, or at any other required place of work. Your supervisor is responsible for establishing your clocking-in and-out times.

Meal Periods

A bona fide meal period is an authorized period of time during the workday when you are completely free from duties. Maryland Marketing Source, Inc. provides for bona fide meal periods of 15 to 30 minutes. Time provided for bona fide meal periods is paid time. If you work four (4) to six (6) hours per day, you are entitled to one (1) 15-minute paid break. If you work 6 or more hours per day, you are entitled to two

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc.

Your bridge to Baltimore and more.

(2) 15-minute paid breaks. We will allow you to combine your two 15- minute breaks and take a 30-minute break. If you want an additional break you must take it on your own time.

Reminder: when you engage another employee in a conversation you are taking two or more people [depending on the number of people engaged in the conversation] away from the work they are paid to conduct. Unnecessary conversations can make it difficult to complete the study on time.

Absenteeism and Tardiness

Frequent tardiness and absences have a detrimental impact on the workflow. They may also lead to disciplinary action. Each job assignment has specific guidelines and procedures governing hours of work and requests for time off. In general, the following guidelines are applicable within Maryland Marketing Source, Inc.:

- An unscheduled absence for at least one-half the workday will be counted as one occurrence.
- An absence for one or more consecutive workdays will be considered one occurrence. For example, if you're out two consecutive days, that will count as one occurrence.
- If an employee returns from an absence (due to an illness) and goes out again due to the same illness after being at work for no more than one day, then the absence will be counted as one occurrence.
- Repeated occurrences will result in verbal warnings, written warnings, and/or suspension or termination of employment.
- Being tardy for work or leaving the job station before quitting time will be considered cause for corrective action.

Tardiness is defined as being at your workstation at least 2 minutes past your scheduled starting time. You should always notify the appropriate person when you know you may be late for work or absent. Being on time makes it easier for all of us because tardiness hinders teamwork among employees.

Inclement weather

The facility may need to continue operations during periods of bad weather. Thus, the need for employees to be on the job during such emergencies may be of paramount importance. You are expected to call in and see if the office is opened. If opened, you are expected to make every effort to report for work. If you do not report for work when scheduled during a weather emergency and do not call, you will be considered absent.

Disciplinary Procedures

If your work performance is unsatisfactory or if your conduct on the job becomes a problem, your supervisor may counsel you and work with you to help resolve the issues. You may initiate this counseling as well. Your supervisor may also use a progressive, corrective process. This progressive disciplinary process may involve, but is not limited to, oral or written warnings, probation for poor work performance/habits, disciplinary suspension, and termination.

Maryland Marketing Source, Inc.

The fax, copier, and mail systems, including e-mail, are intended for business use. Personal business should not be conducted through these systems. As previously noted, management is approved to monitor all calls made from an interviewing station and therefore personal telephone conversations may be monitored within the process of monitoring customer service. Please speak with a supervisor should you have an emergency that requires you to make personal calls from an approved telephone.

Reporting violence

It is everyone's business to prevent violence in the workplace. You can help by reporting what you see in the workplace that could indicate that a co-worker is in trouble. You are in a better position than management to know what is happening with whom you work. You are encouraged to report any incident that may involve a violation of any of the company's policies that are designed to provide a comfortable workplace environment. Concerns may be presented to your supervisor.

All reports will be investigated and information will be kept confidential.

No cellular phones should be used during work hours, either in our offices or on location (unless otherwise instructed). Unauthorized cell phone usage during work hours include: talking on the phone, placing calls, playing games, or sending/receiving text messages.

Hands free cellular usage is permitted unless there is a need to use your hands at any time during the conversation; in this case, you should pull to the shoulder and complete the transaction.
