

THE OUTRIDER – Out of the Void

09 - Endgame

I've seen, what this means

There's no in-between

It's here and now

I've seen the broken leaves fall from the tree's

Telling me of things that can't be seen

A picture of war and killing, killing by the score

I don't know which way to run

Cause in the end, it will be done

The sights are aimed at the hearts of seven believers

He would take their lives and The Word, that they're reading

But they will stand tall and remain, remain unto the end

Can you outrun the bullets from the gun

It's written that were all players in the endgame

It's real in the minds of those who believe it

See the signs in the sky

Well I remember talking to you on the street

But you looked at me with eyes of disbelief

But I've used that look before

With a veil, and scales on my eyes

Do you believe in a world, that's in pain

THE OUTRIDER – Out of the Void

It's written that were all players in the endgame

It's real in the minds of those who believe it

See the signs burn the sky

It's written that were all players in the endgame

It's written that were all players in the end

It's written that were all players in the endgame

It's written that were all players in the end

Now it's over I can tell you, I never knew how much I relied on you

And now it's over I can tell you, I never knew how much I still love you
