Whispers of the Hollow — Woodland Bellflower & Crystal Infusion
The Flower of Intuition, Sacred Listening & Spirit Messages
Old Spirits Wild Roots | First Night Hollow

Along the shaded limestone bluff of First Night Hollow, where ancient stone meets flowing water, Woodland Bellflower emerges with delicate violet-blue blooms. It does not demand attention. It waits quietly for those perceptive enough to notice it.

Whispers of the Hollow is a skin-safe anointing oil crafted from wild-harvested Woodland Bellflower and naturally charged creek crystals gathered from the Hollow's flowing waters and ancient stone. Infused in organic jojoba oil, it may be applied sparingly to the skin after patch testing as part of meditation, dreamwork, divination, or intuitive practice.

This infusion carries the energy of sacred listening, spiritual receptivity, and the quiet wisdom found beneath the noise of the external world.

Bellflower resembles a tiny bell suspended between earth and spirit — symbolically calling the seeker inward while awakening awareness of messages that arrive through intuition, dreams, synchronicities, and subtle knowing.

Its energy is gentle but unmistakable. It does not force revelation. It quiets the mind so what has always been whispering can finally be heard.

This is the voice of the Hollow carried through flower, water, and stone.

Whispers of the Hollow whispers:
Become still enough, and the unseen will speak.
