Joy — Wild Daisy & Crystal Infusion

The Herb of Happiness, Simplicity & Returning Light

Old Spirits Wild Roots | First Night Hollow

Scattered across the open pastures and sunny hillsides of First Night Hollow, Wild Daisy blooms with a simple, unmistakable brightness — cheerful, resilient, and quietly restorative to the spirit.

Joy is a skin-safe anointing oil crafted from wild-harvested Wild Daisy and naturally charged creek crystals gathered from the Hollow's flowing waters and ancient stone. Infused in organic jojoba oil, it may be applied sparingly to the skin after patch testing as part of daily anointing, meditation, intention setting, or emotional renewal rituals.

This infusion carries the energy of emotional sunlight — softening heaviness, lifting the spirit, and reconnecting the heart to warmth, playfulness, and hope.

Wild Daisy does not carry overwhelming intensity.
Its power is gentleness.

Infused beneath Appalachian sunlight and blue summer skies, this oil supports optimism, emotional openness, comfort during difficult seasons, and the ability to rediscover beauty in ordinary moments.

Its energy feels like standing in a field beneath the sun after a long emotional winter.

Joy whispers:

Light still exists, even after sorrow.
