Full List of Topics for 2022

Date	Link	Summary
10 th January	Happy New Year	Topics covered on the first call of 2022 included pending deadlines for DNS-OARC 37 and IETF 113 BOFs, coverage of IGF 2021 and the ICANN DNS Resolver Symposium, Apple's updated Private Relay white paper and the recent DNS Encryption Webinar. We also discussed a series of briefing papers on DNS security (to feature on the call on 17th January) and covered milestones for the European Commission's DNS4EU project
17 th January	DNS Security	Eric ("Ekr") Rescorla, CTO of Firefox, shared his views on various aspects of DNS security, building on his series of recent posts on the same topic. After a discussion covering some of the issues raised, the call then touched on a number of topical items and pending deadlines for various conferences.
19 th January	DNS4EU Update	A brief summary of key information relating to the European Commission's DNS4EU project, together with links to additional details.
24 th January	Split Horizons	Use cases for split-horizon DNS were the main focus of the discussion, facilitated with input from Kevin Smith of Vodafone, one of a number of co-authors of a recent IETF Internet Draft on the topic.
31 st January	Recent Meetings, Future Plans	The session covered the recent joint virtual interim meeting of the IETF's ADD, DNSOPs and DPrive working groups on split-DNS, and considered the likely way forward. In addition, the open house meeting hosted by Ripe NCC on the European Commission's DNS4EU project was discussed.
7 th February	What's Up DoQ?	Sara Dickinson, one of the co-authors of the DoQ standard, gave an overview of DoQ before giving an update on developments with the standard, including an update on the way that padding would be addressed. Sara and fellow co-author, Allison Mankin, responded to a range of questions.
14 th February	Questions for Google	In addition to running through a draft list of questions for the call next week, news items included a post by Geoff Huston of APNIC on the European Commission's DNS4EU project, a write-up of the recent ADD / DNSOP / DPrive virtual interim meeting on split-DNS and some recent court cases that have implications for the transfer of personal data from Europe to the US, including one in France.
