

COLOR INDEX

**NOTE: I update this on occasion as I learn new things- so please come back often and check the "updated date" in the upper right corner to see if I've made an update since you last checked. Keep in mind, I pull this information from many different sources and I have no way to validate whether or not it is all correct. Sometimes I find TWO different descriptions of a color (or more) and when I do I list all that I have found.

Color codes are used industry wide to indicate the color or colors from which a wig or hairpiece is made. These colors can vary from style to style. Some reasons for variations have to do with coming from a different maker, different factory, different type of fiber, different dye lot and a different wig pattern.

For the most part a single letter color code will look very similar across makers/factories/synthetic fiber/dye lots and wig patterns. The only exception will be the color/texture differences between human hair and any kind of synthetic fiber. Human hair colors tend to be lighter, have less shine and less depth to the color.

For color codes which are named or are blends, mixes, highlighted, frosted etc., these may have more color differences between maker, factory, fiber, dye lot and particularly wig pattern.

Here are links to websites that have some color charts that are helpful and that I used to create the color index:

Definitions of color code abbreviations (taken from various websites)

- / = evenly blended (example 14/25)
- B= Blended - Equal blend of two or more colors
- BT= Blended and Tipped - Lighter color on the ends of the hair
- BR= Blended and rooted
- CH= Chunky Highlights- side by side streaks of contrasting colors
- ET= Lighter Bangs, Dark Roots, Darker in Back - Dark at the back/nape, dark roots, lighter front/fringe
- F= Frosted (uniform streaks-side by side colors)- some mfg mean different things with this code, see below
  - F in Jon Renau= fashion color collection generally with a darker nape
  - F in Estetica= 80% base color frosted with 20% highlighted color
  - F in Raquel Welch= Base color with two contrasting highlight colors around the face
- FS= Frosted or Fashion Syrup colors
- FS* - Jon Renau only - Fashion Syrup Collection with a fashion forward flare
- G- different things:
  - In Raquel welch means Gradient. Graduates from lighter in the front to darker in the back
  - In other lines it could mean Gray color
- GR - Gradient (Darker Roots with Lighter Tips) - Two Tone color mix- Layered colors, one color on top, one color on the bottom
- H - Highlighted (streaks)- industry standard is that an H in the color code means about 20% highlight, this can vary, though
- HH - Human Hair

- HL - Highlighted
- LF - Lighter Front (gradual lightening to the top of the head)
- M - mixed or blended (uniform mix not streaks)- EXCEPT IN ESTETICA where it means “modified” and it refers to an updated cap- RM means remodified and that is a second update
- MBF - Fashion color that is Mixed and Blended with a darker Nape
- MB - Mix and Blend - Frosted color mix- Basic color with frosted highlights
- P - Piano means long bands of color like piano keys or side by side highlights of contrasting colors
- R = Rooted- darker at the roots
- R in Raquel Welch means it is their regular synthetic (instead of health friendly which is RL)
- RE - Jon Renau Exclusives
- RH - Rooted and Highlights
- RH - a Jon Renau exclusive, colors are blended with 33% highlights
- RL- Raquel Welch exclusive- means True 2 Life Heat friendly synthetic fiber
- RN - Jon Renau Naturals - exclusive human hair color process
- ROM- Ombre- dark base on top with subtle transition to lighted point at the ends and sun-kissed highlights on top
- S or S+ in Raquel Welch: Multi dimensional blends that reflect the latest coloring techniques being used by salons. Specially blended in front and crown with highlights and lowlights that complement the basic color
- S* - Jon Renau only - Shaded/Gradient color starting at the base
- SS – Shaded or Shadow shades- rooted color
- T - Tipped (mixed on top and tipped at bottom)- lighter tipped ends
- TT- Two Tone color mix- Layered colors, one color on top, one color on the bottom
- Swirl - blend of streaks
- Ash - dull

Color code families

✓ BLACK 1 – 2

As in all things color, definitions vary. 1 one is considered a pure black color, while a 1b is considered an “off black” because it is a bit warmer. When you get to a #2, you will find that some people will refer to a #2 as a VERY dark brown. It is actually a very dark cool toned brown hair, which appears black to the eye in most lighting, which is why some will call it black while some call it the darkest brown.

✓ BROWN 4 – 12

In some wigs a 4 can seem VERY dark, but it is actually a full level lighter than a #2, and will have more golden/red tones than a #2, even though most people can't see them with their eye because they are totally blended. Brown colors all have some red in them, which is what makes them brown vs black.

✓ BLONDE 14 – 26

Some people will say that a 14 can appear like a very light brown which goes to show that color is often in the eye of the beholder. If you are a natural brunette, you may be colors on the front of the blonde scale to be more blonde, and if you are a natural blonde you may find those same colors to be more brunette in tone.

✓ RED 27 – 33, Vibrant red is 130 – 134

Wig color codes closer to 27 will be more of your Strawberry Blond red colors. As you get closer to 33, that's when you get into your Red/Brown or Auburn shades. Jump to 130 and we're getting into the fiery, super-vibrant reds.

✓ GREY 34 – 60 & 92

The same is with Grays. Starting at 34, we get more of a salt & pepper blend (think the color Milkshake by Jon Renau). As we approach color 60, that's when you're getting more towards a full gray.

✓ PLATINUM 101 – 104, 613

Color 101 kicks off the Platinum blond scale (Jon Renau's Palm Springs from their new California Blondes human hair collection has a 102 in it). The closer to 101, the more cool/ashy the blond tone is. As you move towards 104, it gets warmer. 613 is actually quite buttery.

Jon Renau

10H16- This has a base color of 10 (light brown), with a highlight color of 16 (blond family). Industry-standard is a highlight at about 20%, so 20% of the hair will have the lighter color sewn through it.

10RH16. Whereas 10H16 means 20% highlights, 10RH16 is Jon Renau specific, and means there are 33% highlights. The result is a slightly lighter, brighter look.

8H14. It has a base color of 8 (a neutral brown) with a 20% highlight of 14 (blond family). (NOTE: Estetica’s color code for this same color is 14/8- they reverse their color codes and put the base last)

JR’s Fashion Syrup colors make up the FS series. They have bolder highlights that are grouped more closely together (and come in fun names like Strawberry Syrup, Caramel Syrup, and Chocolate Cherry...among others!)

Toffee Truffle is FS6/30/27. A base of 6 (neutral brown) blended with an equal amount of both 30 and 27. 27 is more on the strawberry blond side, and 30 is heading more towards auburn. The result is pops of color throughout the piece.

T and B in wig colors. T means tipped and B means evenly blended. EXAMPLE: 12/30BT, Root Beer Float. B means that 12 (light brown) is evenly blended with 30 (reddish color), and is tipped with that same reddish color.
