Any personal information or data collected by these technologies is used only by us or by our authorized service providers on our behalf, and you always have full control over whether these technologies work on your devices.

YOU'RE IN CONTROL

Other than for those that are considered "essential", if you do not wish to accept these technologies in connection with your visit to or use of our sites, services, applications, tools or messaging, you may "Decline" the initial "C is for Cookie" pop up when first entering our site.

WHAT ARE COOKIES, WEB BEACONS, AND SIMILAR TECHNOLOGIES?

These technologies are essentially small data files placed on your computer, tablet, mobile phone, or other device (collectively, a "device") that allows us to record information when you visit or interact with our websites, services, applications, messaging, and other tools. Though often these technologies are generically referred to as "Cookies", each functions slightly differently, and is further explained below:

- I. Cookies: Cookies are small (often encrypted) text files placed in the memory of your browser or device when you visit a website or view a message. Cookies allow a website to recognize a particular device or browser. There are several types of cookies:
 - A. Session cookies expire at the end of your browser session and allow us to link your actions during that particular browser session.
 - B. Persistent cookies are stored on your device in between browser sessions, allowing us to remember your preferences or actions across multiple sites.

- C. First-party cookies are those set by a website that is being visited by the user at the time in order to preserve your settings (e.g.: while on our Site).
- D. Third-party cookies are placed in your browser by a website, or domain, that is not the website or domain that you are currently visiting.

Cookies are used for a variety of purposes on our website. We use cookies to store information that allows us to present our site in your local language, or prices in local currency. We also use cookies to communicate data to our servers when you visit, allowing you to stay logged into your account during your visit or maintain the site preferences you select. Preventing your browser from accepting first-party cookies will prevent the placement of some cookies that are classified as "Essential".

- II. Web beacons: A web beacon (also called "tracking pixels" or "image tags") is a small file (most often a transparent, 1x1 GIF file) that is loaded on our web pages. These pixels may work in concert with cookies to collect information about your visit, your web browser/device, browsing activity, or onsite behavior and provide that information to service providers. Pixels are most commonly used to collect anonymous traffic metrics (page visits, button clicks, order completion) used to analyze site performance.
- III. Scripts: A script is a small piece of website code placed on our websites to power customer service tools like live chat, allow for the delivery of embedded videos, and allow us to provide interactive experiences to visitors. They are also used to collect data that we use for website analytics, or to provide data on the effectiveness of our advertising.
- IV. Similar Technologies: Technologies that store information in your browser or device utilizing local shared objects or local storage, such as flash cookies, HTML5 cookies, and other web application software methods. These technologies can operate across all of your browsers. In some instances, these technologies may not be fully managed by your browser and may require management directly through your installed applications or device. We do not use these technologies for storing information to target advertising to you on or off our Site(s).
