* TAXES: AMA reserves the right to charge VAT, GST/HST and sales & use tax where applicable. The appropriate charges will be added to your total order and displayed on your final order confirmation if you are shipping to a state where AMA has economic nexus. The applicable tax is estimated and is subject to change. A valid exemption certificate must be provided by service recipient at the point of sale to avoid applicable taxes. Your purchase may be subject to use tax unless it is specifically exempt from taxation. Some states require each purchaser to report any taxable purchase that was not taxed and to pay use tax on the purchase. See the AMA Ed Hub FAQ for more information.

American Board of Medical Specialties (ABMS) member board certification & Maintenance of Certification® (MOC)

Visit www.abms.org to see if your board qualifies.

Reciprocity Agreements: The AMA has agreements with some ABMS boards to receive CME credit for board certification or MOC without the diplomates having to apply individually. If you are a member of the American Board of Allergy and Immunology (ABAI), the American Board of Dermatology (ABD), the American Board of Emergency Medicine (ABEM), or the American Board of Plastic Surgery (ABPS) please contact your board to learn more about these programs.

Initial certification and continuing certification achieved by taking the secure exam (60 credits)

Documentation: Attach a copy of the board certificate of the specialty board notification letter. The certificate date will match the date of completion of your submitted certificate or notification letter.

Continuing certification assessment

The following boards requested and received approval for their continuing certification assessment to be eligible for direct credit. American Board of Dermatology, American Board of Emergency Medicine, American Board of Pediatrics, American Board of Plastic Surgery, American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, and American Board of Surgery. CME total credit awarded will be based on the guidelines of your individual medical board.

Documentation: Attach a copy of the board certificate of the specialty board notification letter. The certificate date will match the date of completion of your submitted certificate or notification letter.

American Board of Dermatology: 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™ for each article/article-based question, up to 12 credits per year. ABD has a reciprocity agreement to apply for this credit on the diplomate's behalf. Please contact <mailto:communications@abderm.org> with questions.

American Board of Emergency Medicine: Diplomates who complete the continuous certification process by passing four MyEMCert modules will be awarded credit based on one AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™ per article-based question. ABEM has a reciprocity agreement to apply for this credit on the diplomate's behalf. Please contact staycertified@abem.org with questions.

American Board of Pediatrics: Upon completion off all components of the MOC cycle (which includes MOCA-Peds), physicians can claim 60 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™ from the AMA.

American Board of Plastic Surgery: 6 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™ for successful completion of each of eight ABPS longitudinal assessments and two QI components of continuous certification within a diplomate's 10-year cycle. Upon completion of the 10-year cycle and all components of continuous certification, the ABPS will apply to the AMA on the diplomate's behalf to grant credit for a total of 60 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Details will be provided by the ABPS at that time. Contact staff@abplasticsurgery.org with questions.

American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology: 1 AMA PRA Category 1 credit™ per article, for completion of the article based continuous certification (ABCC), (primary certificates in psychiatry, neurology, child neurology and child psychiatry).

American Board of Surgery: 12 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™ every other year for successful completion of the ABS continuing certification assessment and any specialty certificate assessments.

Focused Practice Designation

CME credit can be claimed for completion of Focused Practice Designation, Refer to the ABMS website to confirm which ABMS Boards which have approved Focused Practice Designations.

Documentation: Attach a copy of the focus practice designation certificate or your specialty board notification letter. The certificate date will match the date of completion of your submitted certificate or notification letter.
