For us, outstanding quality means that our products keep on providing invaluable support for day-to-day jobs even after many years of intensive use. As built-in products, waste bins in particular are used in the kitchen day after day. To ensure we can offer our customers a convenient and long-lasting product of premium quality, HAILO built-in waste bins are characterised by high-grade materials, certified quality management and the "Made in Germany" stamp. That's why our built-in waste bins are subjected to comprehensive fatigue testing during development before going into series production.
