Opening Circle/Cacao Ceremony – Set Your Intention.

A cacao ceremony is an opportunity to connect to yourself and open your heart. Because of cacao's ability to increase your connection to your inner self and your heart chakra, it aids in any transformational shift you are working towards, whether you are looking to deepen your understanding of who you are, release old patterns and traumas, or move into a more self-confident space. Whatever your path, the intention is yours to set, and the cacao allows you to the insight and awareness to move towards that goal.

Puja

Puja is a Sanskrit word meaning reverence, honor, homage, adoration, and worship. This ritual of adoration originating from Hindu spiritual practices. One would worship their beloved deity, guru or beloved in ritual. In the ISTA tribal we will explore divine love with each other in a Puja Circle format. Inner circle sits in a receiving (Yin or divine feminine) and outer circle moves as (Yang or divine masculine) from connections to the inner circle sun-wise. Each connection is from the heart facilitated by Matooka. Eye gazing, sharing of words, touch and other possibilities in this sweet ritual. (This Tantric Puja is none binary. There is no need of gender balance to participate)

Matooka is a Priestess and self-identified witch. She has journeyed the craft and other Earth based spiritual practices for over 30 years. She is an accomplished Priestess in Feminine Mysteries creating ritual, rites of passage and Shamanic initiation. Her practices include multiple shamanic traditions that encompass working with animal allies and creating ritual tools such as sacred drums and rattles. She is the creator for Hoops of Life Divination a Shamanic Consultation system for guidance. Matooka is an ordained minister with the Temple of Witchcraft. Her studies include Priestess Path, Goddess School, 5 year Temple of Witchcraft Mystery school. She is also a Reiki Master Teacher, and Kryia Massage Therapist. In 2014 her shamanic studies took a turn with ISTA where she found tribe and deeper healing. Since then she has successfully organized for ISTA. And apprentices with Laurie Handlers & Kamala Devi. This year she has furthered her Sacred Sexual Shamanic journeys with Robyn Vogel in comebacktolove.com Leadership training. Her great work and passion lies in the healing of the feminine principle in particular the aspect of Crone in the psyche of humanity.

Conscious Touch Lab: An Evening of Erotic Exploration We begin with a Connection Ritual, entering into Sacred Space of Honoring ourselves and each other. From there we enter into a free flow of consensual explorations of the 4 quadrants of the Wheel of Consent. Leading with desire and allowing ourselves to savor and luxuriate in the deliciousness of sensation, we play with embodying more consciously and powerfully the roles of giver and receiver. Following the deep currents of our mutual pleasure, we consensually explore the rich terrain of ravishing and surrendering. Elements to tantalize all the senses will be provided.		Brynn Bishop, Founder of Conscious Intimacy™ and Originator of Conscious Touch Lab™, is an Advanced Certified Tantra Educator and Holistic Intimacy Coach. ZEGG Forum: Radical Intimacy through Radical Vulnerability in Community This edgy process is an exploration of the power of group synergy. We will be using one of the most potent tribal technologies in the field of personal growth, ZEGG Forum, to bond with each other and reveal whatever needs to be addressed. ZEGG Forum is a compassionate and transformative space for revealing whatever is hidden but influencing the common “field.” Forum can bring out issues of sex, power, money, competition, love, or any other aspect of consciousness – individuals’ process and perspectives come forth and are held in compassion as part of the shared story of being human. Our intention is to empower you with a hands-on experience of the transparency, vulnerability, and intimate potential of ZEGG Forum, so that you may see aspects of yourself that have been hidden. You’ll also learn to hold space for others to see their own blind		Sarah Taub, Ph.D. is a cultural activist whose passion is creating events where people transform. She teaches the skills of peaceful, sustainable community and relationships such as self-awareness, honesty, and clear boundaries, and facilitates group processes of many sorts, including sensuality and intimacy gatherings, consensus decision-making, ZEGG Forum, and conflict resolution sessions. For the past decade, Sarah has been a major organizer of Network for a New Culture's east coast events (www.cfnc.us) aimed at creating a culture based on awareness, compassion, and freedom rather than on fear and judgment. She is also the financial and programs manager for Abrams Creek Center (www.abramscreekcenter.com), a New Culture retreat center and community in the mountains of West Virginia. spots, and to build secure community bonds that allow individuals to emerge and shine.

One of the gifts of ZEGG Forum is that it allows us a space to appreciate every perspective without taking it on as “truth.” Every voice has its own poignancy, its own wisdom, its own truth, that does not negate the wisdom and truth of other perspectives. Allowing all voices to surface and be known can lead to a profound and unexpected integration within a community. We tend to think that events leading to painful experiences and conflicts are bad, because they feel bad in the moment. However, when we open ourselves and compassionately witness what is happening for everyone, these experiences can be gateways to greater closeness, understanding, and love. When conflict emerges, whether or not we are in a formal Forum space, we can choose to listen in this way. This deep listening sustains and nurtures community life and relationships.

Comfort in discomfort

How can we find comfort in the performance of scenes or performative actions that are not comfortable to play? Playing with edges and the limits of the performing body sometimes asks us to face areas of shadow and the unspoken, as if it were normal, sometimes, to venture into its slippery spaces to the detriment of our comfort and safety.

By applying communication tools to name our needs and fears, we will learn how to create safe spaces to further explore our boundary edges.

Then, by adding a ritual dimension to these actions, we will see how to recover the sacred power of our creative acts.

Stéphane Crête is a multidisciplinary French Canadian artist, interested in the limits of representation for over 20 years, mainly through works created within «the Momentum Collective» (his theater company). His fields of intervention concern both performance and ritual work. He teaches play and creative processes to students in theater, while refining a pedagogy of ritual practice with the school «Ho rites of passage», based in Quebec. He also offers various workshops that address issues related to presence and intimacy, through trance, conscious touch and sacred sexuality

Touch is Puja- The art of partner Yoga Acro yoga is a combination of lineages: acrobatics, Thai massage, and movement the yoga is the union that combines them all. Working in partnership, we become a reflection to one another, like Prakriti and Purusa. The roles change as we move through space so as the leading. As the practice takes us out of our comfort zone, away from the solid ground, we learn to trust and be trustworthy. Create a conversation through the body, ask for what we need, and reconnect to our bodies. The acro practice itself is a play, fun, silly sometimes but within safe boundaries and constructed form - creating safety and trust. Acro teaches a safe, soft but firm touch we all need. When Yael began her Yoga and AcroYoga journeys she had many “reasons” why she couldn't do it. Yoga philosophy however offers us the invitation to explore the game of life. “What’s next?” is Siva’s question. Yael’s teaching style draws from a lineage that includes Anusara and AcroYoga. She loves to weave in Yoga mythology stories, with rapt attention to students’ details of alignment, anatomy, and therapeutics, and exploring partner yoga through a dialogue of touch. AcroYoga began for Yael on Mother's Day several years ago, with a dive right into an Elemental Immersion. She realized immediately that softening and staying in communication were among AcroYoga’s greatest contributions to her practice, both in her life as a yoga teacher and as a mother.
Sex Magic Ritual for Manifestation Sexual energy is literally creative life force energy. The energy from which form and function is manifest. It is the language of creation, the language and expression of the divine. We experience the exhilaration of life force energy moving through our bodies in orgasm. Tantric Mythology describes the creation of the universe as the result of the divine aspects of form and formless, masculine and feminine making love through Shiva and Shakti. The Mahamudra translates as The Great Orgasm. In this workshop we will learn how to harness creative sexual energy and direct it through our conscious will toward manifestation. This is Sex magic. Using the power of pure creative energy to create. Just as this energy births the spark of life into the form of a body, so it can bring life to our purpose and our dreams. First we will learn about Creative Sexual energy and how it moves through us, dispelling any mythology which would interrupt our capacity to serve and be		Eugene Hedlund, is ISTA faculty and founder of the School of Tribal Tantra. The School of Tribal Tantra is a gateway to accelerate those who are ready to step into their mastery. We will co-create a natural altar to hold the group intentions around which we will gather to offer a simple cord cutting ceremony to clear the channel then we will begin the ritual itself.

The ritual will be guided through voice and music. We are working with sexual energy but not seeking sexual release. You are invited to enter in temple attire (trust what this brings for you) and to ceremonially undress or remain clothed as much as serves your ease of being. We will work in a group field for increased energetic support, but this is an individual ceremony.

The Art of Connection; Merging Sex & Spirit

In a world of deep sacred Spiritual teachings our sexuality is often forgotten about and pushed aside. How do we more deeply embody our sexuality in way that integrates and infuses with our spirituality? Our lives are often filled with distractions, with chaos, with thousands of ways that pull us away from truly being present and loving with one another. This does not mean always having profound sexual intercourse, but rather let's look at the ways to deeply connect the infinite nature of our spirit, with the grounded nature of our sexuality. We will take a deep dive together in a group, as well as breaking off into pairs, to explore the art of true human connection.

Join Aaron in this transformational and experiential workshop playing with these two forms of sacredness in our life.

Nudity is optional. Be willing to trust the intuitive strength and knowingness of your soul, as you uncover and discover the parallel universes between your spirit and sex.

Sex after Trauma: Reclaiming a Sense of Agency, Pleasure, and Joy in the Body.

Maria Palumbo, MSW What do you do when the sacredness of sex and your body just feels impossible to embrace? When you feel numb in places that you wish you felt connection? Trauma can get in the way of connecting to your body, your agency, your worth. It can impede your ability to have lasting deep emotional and physical connections with other people.

We will look at your right to be fully present in your body and to embrace pleasure on your terms. Identifying the neurological impact of trauma on the body, you will navigate some of the common issues and blocks around receiving pleasure (both in and outside of the bedroom.).

You will practice tools you can utilize at any moment to bring you into full awareness of who you are and move you into a focusing on receiving pleasure and out of fear or anxiety. We will not utilize the pathology model of trauma that something is “wrong” or “broken,” but rather fully integrate all parts of self so you can embrace who you are fully, without apology.

This means full integration of anxiety, numbness, and all difficulty, knowing that embracing and having deep self-compassion for all sensations allows you to feel the depth of intimacy. Come prepared to discuss,

Maria Palumbo,

Maria is a writer, teacher, and coach. She teaches with light heartedness and approachability, how to access a deep sense of worthiness of pleasure. She supports her clients in creating a life based on desire, in and outside of the bedroom. Maria began as a licensed social worker and psychotherapist in community mental health in 2012 and created a trauma healing program for adults with serious mental illness. This program is still running today.

She left community mental health to create purpose and possibility outside of the realm of mental illness and founded a coaching program that supports people all over the world. Utilizing her own crawl out of the dark for fuel for her work, Maria shares and teaches from a deep sense of authenticity and connection. She preaches the fact that we can have the life we want, even when we don't feel ready yet. ESPECIALLY when we don't feel ready, if we are willing to simply let in a bit of joy and let ourselves be seen in our most vulnerable spots.

Tantra and BDSM: Integrating Light and Dark Eros

In this journey, Laurie Handlers and Om Rupani will create a permission field in which the participants can discover a greater YES for their being, their desires, their Eros. No aspect of our being has been more shunned by society, more relegated to second class status than our Eros—especially the so called darker aspects of our Eros.

The art of Dominance & Submission / BDSM expertly plays with the darker side of our Eros. In this journey we will take the participants through solo practices of release and self-acceptance, as well as partnered exercise and SCENES in which they may give themselves permission for their desires around POWER, DOMINANCE & SUBMISSION, the giving and receiving of CONTROL and the deeper experience of SURRENDER.

We invite you to come explore and deepen your Spiritual and Erotic journey. Integrate the various aspects of your psyche, discover new levels of turn-on in your relating and sexing. Say YES to life, to your desires, and to your BEING.
