

Mama Rubys Pledge to Our Vendors:

We charge reasonable prices for booths, often with discount options, and give a great amount of time to pay invoices, and we will always work with you, if we can.

Mama Rubys guarantees the event will be in an easy to find, easy to park, easy to load, safe and welcoming location. Details are always clearly communicated via vendor emails prior to the events.

We promise the event will be as heavily marketed as we have the means. Our vendors always have multiple individual ads posted multiple times on multiple platforms. We have always had dedicated website pages that showcase our vendors for each event, with links. We encourage our vendors to share the easily found, easily shared, ads. We are proud of our vendors and want you seen!

We curate our vendors so there will not be multiples of the same products. We do not accept all who apply, though many times we wish we could accept more.

We respect our vendors. On each application there is always a space to let us know of vendor special needs or issues, and we will try our best to accommodate them.

We do have rules; pretty strict ones. But they are to protect our vendors and ourselves, to honor our contracts with the event sites, and to offer the public the best show possible.

We try to make our vendors comfortable, like bottled water and other small things. And doing large things like renting incredible facilities with security. Often our volunteers are EMTs, medically knowledgeable or officers of the law.

Yes, people do events for profits. But that is not our bottom line. That is why we give away hundreds of free passes, to get people into the show for our vendors. Often more than half the people who attend, are attending with free passes, or using other 'get in free' options. We just want to offer great experiences.

Mama Rubys puts vendor success and attendee experience FIRST.
