Nevada Anti-Propaganda Protection Act (NIDDA)

This initiative prohibits Nevada government agencies and their contractors from collecting, analyzing, sharing, selling, or transferring personal, biometric, or behavioral data without the informed consent of the Nevada resident involved. It applies to all state agencies, school districts, political subdivisions, and any third-party vendors or consultants they hire. The measure guarantees all residents the right to access their stored data, opt out of non-essential data collection, and request deletion of any non-mandatory data held by state-controlled entities.

The Act also requires full transparency by mandating that all data-sharing contracts involving Nevada resident data be posted publicly within 30 days and tracked in a permanent registry. Contractors receiving public funds may not monetize, resell, or cross-analyze resident data. Civil fines of up to $100,000 per violation may apply, with added criminal penalties for abuse. Whistleblowers may be eligible for rewards. The measure also creates a Nevada Data Rights Enforcement Fund to support public oversight and compliance.

This initiative takes effect January 1, 2026, and seeks to reestablish privacy, transparency, and digital dignity for all Nevadans by restricting the unchecked use and misuse of their personal information by public institutions and affiliated vendors.
