

Thursday, October 31, 1996

MERCHANTS SHOWCASE

Ex-Jockey, Gene Bresnahan Tries to Steer Clients on to Right Track by Helping Solve Financial Problems

by Gina Smith

Gene Bresnahan, a former jockey, no longer gives hot tips on horses.

Now his tips are designed to save his clients tax money.

And when he deals with the IRS he doesn't horse around.

A resident of Norwood for 22 years, Gene Bresnahan, EA, CLU, ChFC., is the owner of Comprehensive Business Services, 875 Providence Hy., Dedham.

He specializes in bookkeeping, payroll and tax services to corporations, partnerships, and individuals.

As an Enrolled Agent with demonstrated expertise in taxation, Gene is empowered and accredited to represent the taxpayer before all levels of the IRS.

As Gene states: "I spend 50 percent of my time in front of the IRS assisting taxpayers and non-filers in trouble."

He deals with lifting liens, abating penalties, negotiating payment plans and offers in compromise.

Then he explains: "After I rescue clients I get them on the right track — minus horses — in a good record keeping system."

Although a small guy, when Gene is all dressed up in a well tailored business suit, it's hard to envision him as a jockey.

However, all his racing memorabilia gracing his office walls sanction his 10-year career riding thoroughbreds in most of the U.S. tracks.

But even in those days he offered his own style of comprehensive business services helping his fellow jockeys with their income taxes.

Today he enjoys being a race spectator.

Every August he takes the Neponset Valley Chamber of Commerce to Rockingham Park in Salem, New Hampshire, and they get photos taken in the Winners Circle.

If you need tax advice, call Gene at 326-6411.

Internet: www.cbsaccounting.com

Not only will you get a free consultation but an escorted tour into the exciting world of thoroughbred racing.

"He specializes in bookkeeping, payroll and tax services to corporations, partnerships and individuals."

Gene Bresnahan, EA, CLU, ChFC