

79th Annual ILIA Convention Layton, UT

Registration Now Open for the 2026 International Livestock Identification Symposium

July 19–23, 2026 | Davis Convention Center, Layton, UT | #ILIA2026

Join us in the mountains by Layton, Utah for the 2026 International Livestock Identification Symposium, where industry leaders, regulators, and producers from across North America come together to explore the future of livestock ID and traceability.

New this year:

Hands-On Learning Labs – Get up close with the newest equipment, devices, and digital tools through interactive, real-world demonstrations.

First-Time Attendee Welcome – A 30-minute welcome session to help newcomers connect and make the most of their experience.

Why attend?

The 2026 agenda is built around practical application and innovation. From RFID advancements and cross-border traceability solutions, to real-time data tools and animal movement systems, sessions are designed to help you implement the latest in livestock identification technologies. You'll also hear from global experts, policy leaders, and producers who are shaping the future of livestock health, security, and commerce.

And it's not all work—we've also planned a variety of networking and social events, including a local foodie tour for spouses and a fun group outing to the Days of '47 Rodeo!

Location: Layton, Utah- Davis Convention Center

Dates: July 19–23, 2026

Register online now at <https://bit.ly/43U6OWG>.

Book your Hotel Rooms Here: (first 60 people) <https://bit.ly/43jAZXe>

Or book your rooms in our block here (after 60): <https://bit.ly/3WSZqXM>.

Spots fill fast—reserve your place today and join the international conversation at #ILIA2026!

www.internationallivestockid.com