

Tips for Seeing Other Road Users

1. Stay Alert and Aware: Always be vigilant of your surroundings. Look for potential hazards, including other vehicles, pedestrians, and cyclists. Anticipate their movements and be prepared to react.
2. Make Eye Contact: Whenever possible, try to make eye contact with drivers at intersections. This can help ensure that they see you and are aware of your presence.
3. Use Turn Signals and Hand Signals: Clearly communicate your intentions to other road users. Always signal your turns and lane changes and consider using hand signals in addition to your bike's turn signals for added emphasis.
4. Ride Defensively: Adopt a defensive riding mindset. Be prepared for the unexpected and have an escape plan for potential hazards. Keeping a safe following distance and being aware of your surroundings can provide you with the time you need to react.
5. Avoid Distractions: Stay focused on the road. Avoid using mobile devices or engaging in any other distractions while riding. Your full attention should be on the ride, allowing you to react swiftly to any situation.
