

Privacy Policy

Dr. Dana Spada PSYCHOTHERAPY understands the importance of the privacy and trust of our visitors. We take several precautions to ensure that your trust and privacy is maintained while visiting danaspada.com. While you can use our website without entering any personal information, you may be prompted to give us information if you wish to contact us or submit an inquiry.

How We Collect And Use Non-Personal Information

Dr. Dana Spada PSYCHOTHERAPY may collect non-personal information for statistical purposes. This information is non-identifiable, meaning your personal identity will still be private and not linked to this information. We will collect information such as what browser you are using, and what link brought you to danaspada.com. This allows us to improve the customer experience.

How We Collect And Use Personal Information

Personal information may be collected when you fill out our contact form. This information will be utilized for correspondence from Dr. Dana Spada PSYCHOTHERAPY. We may use this information to schedule appointments and send updates. It is not our intent to collect personal information from minors. Any personal information shared by a minor due to an error will be immediately removed from our records.

Third-Party Information Sharing

Personal and non-personal information may be shared with appropriate third party companies for statistical purposes. This information will not have any identifiable information included. Dr. Dana Spada PSYCHOTHERAPY only contracts with trusted third parties who work on our behalf. We reserve the right to cooperate with local, state, and/or national officials in any investigation that may require personal information provided on our website or reports about unlawful activity on our website. We may disclose personal and non-personal information in order to satisfy a request from any authority having jurisdiction over you or us.

How We Use Cookies

Depending on your browser settings a small "cookie" (a small text file), is stored on your computer when you visit the Dr. Dana Spada PSYCHOTHERAPY website. This cookie will gather information based on how you navigate through our website. Most websites use cookies in order to create a more customized online experience for the user. Dr. Dana Spada PSYCHOTHERAPY utilizes cookies for a variety of purposes that do not include attachments to your personal information. Cookies cannot be used alone to identify your personal information, and they do not cause any harm to your computer or hard drive.