INTRODUCTION

Plaintiff Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") submits this reply in support of its motion to amend the Court's prior preliminary injunction and asset freeze order to include the eight defendants added to the SEC's Amended Complaint—Larry Jeffery, Jason Jenne, Seth Johnson, Christopher Madsen, Richard Madsen, Mark Murphy, Cameron Rohner, and Warren Rosegreen (together herein, the "New Defendants"). (Motion, Dkt. No. 119.) New Defendants Christopher Madsen ("C. Madsen") and Richard Madsen ("R. Madsen") oppose the SEC's requested amendment as to them. (See Dkt. Nos. 159, 161). Defendant Jeffrey Judd ("Judd"), whose interests are not affected by the motion, nevertheless filed an opposition to it, asking the Court to reconsider the original preliminary injunction and asset freeze that was entered nearly three months ago. (See Dkt. No. 163). No other Defendant has submitted an opposition.

None of the factual or legal arguments raised by C. Madsen or R. Madsen are sufficient to rebut the SEC's prima facie case to extend the Court's preliminary injunction and asset freeze to the New Defendants. C. Madsen declares he did not, "from [his] perspective," solicit investors; and both C. Madsen and R. Madsen assert they are somehow incapable of continuing to violate the securities laws, and that because the SEC has alleged only strict liability offenses as to them an asset freeze is inappropriate. None of these objections comports with the law, or with the facts—which show the Madsens violated the securities laws, received millions of dollars of ill-gotten gains for those violations, and have already dissipated assets.

Judd's opposition, meanwhile—a procedurally improper motion for reconsideration rehashes the arguments Judge Mahan rejected in granting the original preliminary injunction and asset freeze order nearly three months ago. The SEC submitted extensive evidence Judge Mahan considered in granting the order, and Judd failed to submit anything more than legal argument. Judd also failed to respond to any of the SEC's expedited discovery requests and failed to submit an accounting, instead invoking the Fifth. Judd's current pleading provides no new facts or law that would support his procedurally-flawed demand for this Court to unwind Judge Mahan's prior order or hold further hearings on Judd's previously adjudicated arguments. I.

THE SEC'S REQUESTED RELIEF IS APPROPRIATE AS TO NEW DEFENDANTS CHRISTOPHER MADSEN AND RICHARD MADSEN. A. C. Madsen Solicited Investors, And Offered And Sold Securities.

C. Madsen argues the SEC has not set forth a prima facie case that he "offered or sold" securities in violation of Sections 5(a) and 5(c) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77e(a), (c)], or acted as a broker in violation of Section 15(a)(1) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78o(a)(1)]. C. Madsen contends that because he—in his lawyer's words—merely "acted as a connection or conduit" between investors (his "family and friends") and Judd, and did not independently "solicit" investors, he cannot be liable for violations of the securities laws. (See Dkt. No. 159, Opp. at 9.) This contention does not comport with C. Madsen's own contemporaneous descriptions of his conduct or his bank transactions. Nor is it at all supported by the sole evidence C. Madsen submits on his behalf: a creatively worded, self-serving declaration.

First, C. Madsen himself—in multiple text messages with Judd during the course of the investment scheme—described what he was doing as "selling" investors on the scheme and "put[ting] pressure on" those potential investors to invest. (See, e.g., Ex. A, Supplemental Declaration of J. Ostler ¶¶ 7, 11, 12 (emphasis added).) While these text messages indicate that on at least one occasion C. Madsen worked as a team with Judd to solicit an investor, even then C. Madsen was, in his own words, doing solicitation work—including "talk[ing] to [the investor] for hours" to "prepare" the investor to talk with Judd. (Id. ¶ 14.) C. Madsen's text messages also indicate he was actively promoting the investment scheme: for example, C. Madsen texted Judd that he was going to "put the word out and start to get [Judd] more money," and that he would "get us a few more guys [i.e., investors]." (Id. ¶¶ 8, 13 (emphasis added).)

Notably, and in contrast to his lawyer's argument in his briefing, C. Madsen does not directly deny, under oath, that he solicited people to invest in the scheme; nor does he assert that he only discussed the investment scheme with his "friends and family members." (See Dkt. No. 159-1, C. Madsen Decl. ¶¶ 8–9.) Instead, his declaration is creatively worded to suggest—but not directly support—these propositions. While C. Madsen states in his declaration that he "responded to inquiries from friends and family members," he says nothing about his interactions with other investors who were not "friends and family." (See id. ¶ 8.) And his assertion that he "did not solicit, or approach anyone suggesting they invest in the Beasley opportunity" is heavily qualified by the preamble, "[f]rom my perspective," making the denial nearly meaningless. (See id. (emphasis added).) It is also notable that C. Madsen's brother, R. Madsen—who worked with and for C. Madsen in the scheme—submits no similar declaration and does not otherwise provide evidence against the SEC's prima facie case for R. Madsen's liability for the same strict liability offenses.¹ (See generally Dkt. No. 161)

Second, the sheer amount of investment funds C. Madsen solicited belies any claim that his efforts were limited to passively fielding inquiries from family and friends. Relief Defendant ACAC, LLC, which C. Madsen admits he controls (see Dkt. No. 159-1, C. Madsen Decl. ¶ 3), deposited at least $18,239,000 into the Beasley Law Group IOLTA, received distributions of at least $11,684,000 from the Beasley IOLTA, and received payments of at least $13,537,776 from Judd's J & J Consulting Services, Inc. account at U.S. Bank. (See Dkt. No. 119-2, Ostler Decl. ¶ 56.) The bank records of ACAC, LLC, meanwhile, show that the over $18 million in presumed investments were obtained, at a minimum, from at least 100 different individual investors. (Ex. B, Supplemental Declaration of Amir Salimi ¶¶ 10, 13.))

¹ C. Madsen also quibbles with the SEC's use of the word "retained," claiming that there is no proof C. Madsen was "retained" by Judd to promote the scheme; and that in any event he "did not follow" Judd's instructions. (See Dkt. 159-1, Madsen Decl. ¶ 10.) In fact, and contrary to these representations, when Judd instructed the promotors to update paperwork for each investor solicited into the scheme, C. Madsen responded: "100% I'm on it;" sent Judd the spreadsheet of the investors C. Madsen had solicited as Judd requested; and otherwise acted as if—like Judd perhaps jokingly threatened—Judd could "fire" him at any time. (See Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶¶ 20–23.) Further, C. Madsen cannot deny that he earned substantial compensation for getting others to invest, as discussed below.

There can also be no doubt that C. Madsen was paid substantial commissions on the investments he solicited. C. Madsen repeatedly references those commissions—what C. Madsen termed "making mine"—in his contemporaneous communications with Judd. (See, e.g., Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶ 18.) From these communications, it appears C. Madsen made at least $3,000 per quarter for each $100,000 investment he solicited (see id. ¶ 18), and that he often made more, depending on what investment returns he chose to pay out to his investors. (See, e.g., id. ¶¶ 17, 18.) C. Madsen also made commissions off of investors (or as C. Madsen called them, "clients") R. Madsen brought into the scheme—leading to a situation where C. Madsen negotiated with Judd to keep R. Madsen's "clients" "running through [C. Madsen]" so that C. Madsen could continue to collect commissions on those investors. (See id. ¶ 19.)

Third, C. Madsen's own communications demonstrate that he alone controlled the investments of the hundred or more investors he solicited. For one, C. Madsen—not Judd—was the person actively selecting the rate of return for investors who invested through him. For example, in April 2019, C. Madsen told Judd that he was "only giving [an investor] $12k on his 100k only because he's a pain in my ass and I really shouldn't have let him in [to the investment scheme]." (Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶ 17.) C. Madsen also refused to allow at least one investor to invest separately through Beasley—insisting that Beasley "text [the investor] and tell him you have to deal with Chris only or no more loans." (Id. ¶ 15.) And C. Madsen's texts show he had the power to prevent "his" investors from continuing with their investments: in August 2021, C. Madsen texted Judd: "Hey man . . . I have one of the investors out of Calley Jacob Enterprises and his small group I'm going to wire them their money back next week . . . I'm done with them . . . They keep asking too many damn questions. I personally don't know a single one of them except for the main guy." (Id. ¶ 16 (emphasis added).)

In short, the evidence shows that C. Madsen was selling and pushing investments, that he obtained at least $18 million in investments from a minimum of 100 different individual investors, that he was paid a commission of no less than $3,000 quarterly on each investment he brought to the scheme, that he had control over the rate of return and term of the investments he solicited, and that he actively sought to prevent "his" investors and his brother's investors from dealing directly with Beasley or Judd. This is more than sufficient to present a prima facie case that C. Madsen "offered and sold" securities in violation of Section 5(a) and worked as an unregistered broker in violation of Section 15(a)(1).²

The SEC's Evidence Supports Preliminary Injunctive Relief.

There is also no merit to the contention, advanced by both C. Madsen and R. Madsen, that the SEC is precluded from obtaining injunctive relief as to them because the Ponzi scheme collapsed upon Beasley's arrest.³ (See Dkt. No. 159, Opp. at 11–12; Dkt. No. 161, Opp. at 4–5.) As the Ninth Circuit has made clear, "[t]he fact that illegal conduct has ceased does not foreclose injunctive relief," SEC v. Koracorp Indus., Inc., 575 F.2d 692, 698 (9th Cir. 1978), and "[a]n inference arises from illegal past conduct that future violations may occur." Id. The scheme at issue here, and C. Madsen's and R. Madsen's involvement, was expansive and extensive; C.

² C. Madsen's contention that he was not acting as a "broker" because he only sold investments in this single investment scheme (see Dkt. No. 159, Opp. at 9–10) omits that courts have routinely found violations on less volume of solicitation than C. Madsen's. See, e.g., SEC v. Mogler, No. CV-15-01814, 2020 WL 1065865, at *9 (D. Ariz. Mar. 5, 2020) (finding regularity of participation where defendant received approximately $400,000 in transaction-based compensation); SEC v. Forester, No. CV 20-9813, 2021 WL 4803475, *2–3 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 17, 2021) (finding violations of Section 15(a)(1) where defendant earned only a little more than $29,000 in alleged commissions).

³ The Madsens also suggest that the SEC has proposed an incorrect standard for establishing the appropriateness of a preliminary injunction. (See Dkt. No. 159, Opp. at 8 n.2; Dkt. No. 161, Opp. at 5.) In fact, the "two-part" standard has been applied by numerous courts in this Circuit, see SEC v. Sripetch, No. 20-cv-01864, 2020 WL 6396927, *3 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 2, 2020) (citing cases), including in one of the primary cases on which Defendants rely, see SEC v. Schooler, 902 F. Supp. 2d 1341, 1344 (S.D. Cal. 2012).

Madsen and R. Madsen solicited tens of millions of dollars of investor funds for at least four and a half years; C. Madsen continues to insist—through creatively-worded declarations—that he has done nothing wrong; neither makes any assurances that they will cease their unregistered broker activities; and it would be difficult to believe such assurances in any event, as it appears (from the enormous volume of investor funds passing through ACAC, LLC and R. Madsen's entities) that both C. Madsen and R. Madsen derived most of their livelihood over the past four or more years from their violations of the securities laws.

Moreover, the only reason the illegal conduct at issue has purportedly ceased was the arrest of one of the main perpetrators, and "courts should be wary of a defendant's termination of illegal conduct when a defendant voluntarily ceases unlawful conduct in anticipation of a formal investigation." FTC v. Electronic Payment Solutions of Am. Inc., No. CV-17-02535, 2019 WL 4287298, *9 (D. Ariz. Aug. 28, 2019); see also Koracorp, 575 F.2d at 698 ("[C]ourts must be particularly skeptical about attaching any significance to contrition under protest."); Polo Fashions, Inc. v. Dick Bruhn, Inc., 793 F.2d 1132, 1135 (9th Cir. 1986) ("[T]he reform of the defendant must be irrefutably demonstrated and total."). Indeed, as described further below, C. Madsen continued to engage in the scheme up until at least the day of Beasley's standoff with the FBI-the same day that he was texting Beasley about the FBI raids. (See Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶ 24 & Ex. 78.) In addition, R. Madsen was soliciting investors not only for the J&J scheme, but for various other investments as well, indicating that although the J&J scheme may have ended, he is likely still acting as an unregistered broker in promoting other investments. (See Dkt. No. 119-2, Ostler Decl. at ¶ 71 & Ex. 53.) Thus, there is ample need for injunctive relief which would preclude C. Madsen and R. Madsen from continuing future violations of Section 5 and Section 15(a)(1).

C. The SEC's Evidence Supports An Asset Freeze.

Finally, the SEC's evidence, which shows that both C. Madsen and R. Madsen received tens of millions of dollars in investor funds, and have dissipated funds since Beasley's arrest, is sufficient to obtain an asset freeze over their remaining assets.

The Madsens both argue, erroneously, that the SEC must make a showing that each of them engaged in fraud to support an asset freeze. (See Dkt. No. 159, Opp. at 12; Dkt. No. 161, Opp. at 5–6.) That is not the standard. Indeed, the SEC routinely obtains asset freezes over relief defendants, who are not alleged to have violated any law but who nonetheless received ill-gotten funds from one or more of the violators. See, e.g., Smith v. SEC, 653 F.3d 121, 128 (2d Cir. 2011). "Federal courts may order equitable relief against a person who is not accused of wrongdoing in a securities enforcement action where that person (1) has received ill-gotten funds; and (2) does not have a legitimate claim to those funds." Id., quoting SEC v. Cavanaugh, 155 F.3d 129, 136 (2d Cir. 1998). Here, there is no debate that, at a minimum, both C. Madsen and R. Madsen received millions of dollars in ill-gotten funds, and have used those funds for, among other things, personal expenses. Thus, an asset freeze is appropriate regardless whether the Madsens intentionally defrauded the investors they illegally solicited into the Ponzi scheme.⁴

Likewise, the Madsens' claims that they have not already dissipated investor assets rings hollow, given the circumstances. For example, C. Madsen takes issue with the SEC's evidence showing his dissipation of assets shortly after Beasley's arrest, suggesting in his opposition that he was somehow unaware of the "Ponzi scheme" until it was "made public . . . later." (Dkt. No. 159, Opp. at 6.) In fact, C. Madsen's own text messages show he was in direct communication with Beasley while the FBI raided Judd's house, and that C. Madsen notified Beasley that the FBI had raided Humphries' house. (Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶ 24 & Ex. 78.) Any suggestion that C. Madsen was somehow unaware of the FBI's activities until the "public" was informed that Beasley was running a Ponzi scheme—and thus could not seek to dissipate assets before then—should be understood in this context.

⁴ To the extent the Madsens believe their current assets are sufficient to satisfy a likely disgorgement judgment, the SEC is willing to work with them to allow for appropriate living expenses and to prevent any diminution in value of any legitimate business—just as it has successfully worked with the original Defendants to reach stipulated agreements on those issues. Such objection is no reason to deny the asset freeze in its entirety; especially here, where neither C. Madsen nor R. Madsen provides any assurance that they have secured all illegally-obtained investor funds, or that they have sufficient funds on hand to satisfy a likely disgorgement award.

C. Madsen's suggestion that he has not dissipated investor assets because he also made deposits into the ACAC, LLC bank account omits that, from March 3, 2022 (the day of Beasley's standoff with the FBI) to March 31, 2022, the ACAC, LLC bank account has had net withdrawals (i.e., withdrawals in excess of deposits) of at least $450,000. (Ex. B, Salimi Supp. Decl. ¶ 12.) Likewise, that R. Madsen declares he arranged a $77,000 transfer out of ACAC, LLC "the day before Beasley's arrest" is meaningless when, from March 3, 2022 until April 30, 2022, the bank accounts in R. Madsen's control had net withdrawals of over $75,000. (Id. ¶ 11.) These sort of net withdrawals, over a matter of months, are not consistent with regular business activity, and strongly suggest that both C. Madsen and R. Madsen are dissipating assets. But regardless of the Madsens' intentions, these withdrawals diminish the funds available to repay the numerous investors who were defrauded by Defendants' Ponzi scheme, and thus support the SEC's requested asset freeze. See Johnson v. Couturier, 572 F.3d 1067 (9th Cir. 2009) ("A party seeking an asset freeze must show a likelihood of dissipation of the claimed assets, or other inability to recover monetary damages, if relief is not granted.").

II.

JUDD'S DISGUISED RECONSIDERATION MOTION SHOULD BE DENIED. A. Judd's "Opposition" Is Procedurally Improper.

Defendant Judd does not oppose any of the relief requested by the SEC as to the New Defendants. Instead, Judd requests the Court revisit—and overrule—Judge Mahan's prior order "as to Judd," that the Court amend the prior order to allow Judd to pay attorneys' fees, and that the Court order an "evidentiary hearing" as to Judge Mahan's prior order. (See Dkt. No. 163, Opp. at 19.) Judd attempts to justify this disguised motion for reconsideration by claiming the Court should "take the opportunity to clarify the preliminary injunction," but the ultimate relief he requests is not "clarification," but an untimely request for the Court to vacate an order entered nearly three months ago. (See id.)

Reconsideration is an "extraordinary remedy, to be used sparingly in the interests of finality and conservation of judicial resources." Kona Enters., Inc. v. Estate of Bishop, 229 F.3d 877, 890 (9th Cir. 2000). Reconsideration of an interlocutory order may be appropriate "if (1) the district court is presented with newly discovered evidence, (2) the district court committed clear error or made an initial decision that was manifestly unjust, or (3) there is an intervening change in controlling law." SEC. v. Platforms Wireless Int'l Corp., 617 F.3d 1072, 1100 (9th Cir. 2010). In this District, motions for such relief are governed by Local Rule 59-1, which provides "[a] party seeking reconsideration . . . must state with particularity the points of law or fact that the court has overlooked or misunderstood," and "[c]hanges in legal or factual circumstances that may entitle a movant to relief must also be stated with particularity." LR 59-1(a). Furthermore, the rule makes clear that such "[m]otions for reconsideration are disfavored" and cautions that "[a] movant must not repeat arguments already presented unless (and only to the extent) necessary to explain controlling, intervening law or to argue new facts. A movant who repeats arguments will be subject to appropriate sanctions." LR59-1(b) (emphasis added).

Judd's disguised motion for reconsideration does not follow the guidelines set forth in Local Rule 59-1. It is not a motion, making it impossible for the SEC to properly respond.⁵ Judd cites to no new evidence: rather, the only evidentiary materials he references (Beasley's confession and the testimony of investor Taylor Richards) were attached to the SEC's original motion for a TRO and preliminary injunction, which Judge Mahan already reviewed and considered. (See Dkt. No. 163, Opp. at 5–6; see Dkt. No. 2-5, Ostler Decl. ¶¶ 6–7 & Exs. 1, 2; id. ¶ 21 & Ex. 10.) Judd also identifies no new, controlling law: he made the same arguments, and cited the same primary cases, in support of his original opposition to the SEC's preliminary injunction. (Compare Dkt. No. 163, Opp. at 10–19 with Dkt. No. 17, Opp. at 9–15.) And Judd does not even attempt to explain how Judge Mahan made a "manifestly unjust" decision when he considered the totality of the SEC's evidence, including the very evidence Judd now cites, before granting the preliminary injunction. Indeed, the real purpose of Judd's "opposition" seems to be to determine whether this Court views the same arguments and evidence differently than Judge Mahan. That is not a proper basis for reconsideration.

⁵ To the extent the Court intends to consider the arguments set forth in Judd's "opposition," the SEC requests that Judd be required to re-file such arguments as a Rule 59-1 motion for reconsideration, such that the SEC can respond to such arguments in due course. Judd should also be required to certify compliance with Local Rule 59-1.

B. Judd's Insistence On An "Evidentiary Hearing" Is Misplaced.

Judd suggests that Judge Mahan erred by ruling on the prior motion without holding an "evidentiary hearing," and asks this Court to hold that hearing. This request ignores both the procedural history of this case and the controlling law.

In support of its motion for a preliminary injunction against Judd, the SEC submitted over 1,200 pages of evidentiary materials—including declarations from the SEC's primary investigative attorney and accountant, testimony and declarations of investors, Beasley's own admissions to FBI negotiators, communications between Defendants and the complete bank records of the IOLTA Beasley used as the financial hub of the scheme. (See Dkt. Nos. 2-5, 2-6, 2-7, 2-8, 23, 23-1, 23-2, 23-3, 23-4, 23-5, 24, 24-1, 24-2, 24-3.) Judd submitted nothing: no declarations, no testimony, no documents, no communications, and no bank records. In fact, after the Court ordered Defendants to provide an accounting of assets, Judd refused, asserting his "Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination." (See Dkt. No. 9, at 2.) He did the same when responding to the SEC's expedited discovery requests, refusing to answer interrogatories and requests for admission that would clarify his supposed "victim" status in the Ponzi scheme. (See Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶ 30 & Ex. 83.)

Judge Mahan in fact held an "evidentiary hearing" on the SEC's motion for a preliminary injunction on April 21, 2022. Judd did not subpoena any witnesses' attendance for that hearing. Nor did Judd present any documentary evidence at the hearing. The SEC brought its primary declarants, Joni Ostler and Amir Salimi, to the hearing, but Judd never called them to the stand. And Judd did not offer to testify on his own behalf. Instead, Judd submitted only lawyer argument in opposition to the SEC's request for preliminary injunctive relief and asset freeze.

Furthermore, rather than seriously contest the substance of the SEC's evidence at the April 21, 2022 hearing, Judd simply argued that the SEC's declarations were (or perhaps contained) hearsay and were thus not cognizable evidence. That is not the law. Rather, as the Ninth Circuit has made clear, "[a] district court may . . . consider hearsay in deciding whether to issue a preliminary injunction." Couturier, 572 F.3d at 1083, citing Republic of the Philippines v. Marcos, 862 F.2d 1355, 1363 (9th Cir. 1988) (en banc). "The urgency of obtaining a preliminary injunction necessitates a prompt determination," and allows a trial court to "give even inadmissible evidence some weight." Flynt Distributing Co., Inc. v. Harvey, 734 F.2d 1389, 1393 (9th Cir. 1984); see also, e.g., BofI Fed. Bank v. Erhart, No. 15-cv-02353, 2016 WL 4680291, *5–6 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 7, 2016) (overruling various evidentiary objections on a motion for preliminary injunction). Judge Mahan was well within his authority to rely on the extensive evidence submitted by the SEC—and the lack of countervailing evidence submitted by Defendants—in determining to issue the preliminary injunction and asset freeze.

Even now, three months after the preliminary injunction hearing, Judd provides no new evidence in support of his position. He simply repeats his arguments—rejected by Judge Mahan—that the SEC's evidence in insufficient because it does not prove knowing fraud. (See Dkt. No. 163, at 12–15.) The evidence, however makes clear—among many other things—that:

Judd received at least $315 million (around 18.5 times more than Beasley) from the investment scheme, which Judd described to C. Madsen as an "illegal business." (See Dkt. No. 2-8, Salimi Decl. ¶¶ 12–13; Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶ 25.)

Judd represented to others as early as October 2018 that Judd personally "had discussions with" the attorneys who were supposedly representing the settling tort plaintiffs in the scheme. (Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶ 26.) But there were no such attorneys because Beasley simply "got names of attorneys" and "never actually talked to them." (See Dkt. No. 2-5, Ostler Decl. ¶ 7 & Ex. 2.)

Judd was alerted that investors or their representatives had attempted to contact the attorneys supposedly behind the purchase agreements, and had been told that those attorneys had no knowledge of such agreements. (See Ex. A, Ostler Supp. Decl. ¶ 27 & Ex. 81, Tanner RFA Resps. at RFA No. 1.)) Judd, nonetheless, took steps to prevent any other investors from finding the truth, such as by including in the offering documents a clause prohibiting investors "from contacting any parties related to the injury settlement or Purchase Agreement, without the written consent of Jeffrey Judd." (See Dkt. No. 2-5, Ostler Decl. at Exs. 7, 12, 24.)

This, along with the extensive additional evidence included in the SEC's request for preliminary injunctive relief, is more than sufficient to state a prima facie case of fraud. And there is no basis whatsoever to conclude that Judge Mahan made a "manifest error" in so ruling.

C. Judd's Request For Attorney's Fees Is Procedurally Improper.

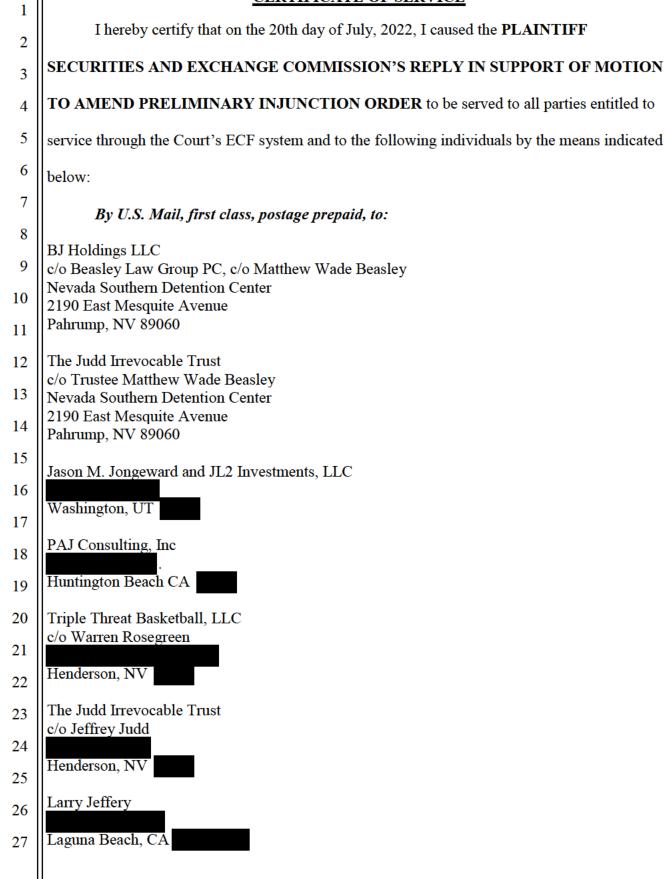

Finally, and like his request for reconsideration, Judd's disguised motion to modify the Court's prior order to allow payment of attorneys' fees (see Dkt. No. 163, Opp. at 15–16) is procedurally improper. The Court's order sets forth a process for requesting a carve out for living fees and necessary expenses, which requires that "any allowance for necessary and reasonable living expenses will be granted only upon good cause shown by application to the Court with notice to and an opportunity for the Commission to be heard." (Dkt. No. 56, Order § VII.) Judd already has a motion for attorneys' fees pending (see Dkt. No. 142), which the SEC opposes for the reasons stated in its response to that motion. (See Dkt No. 180.)

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reason, the SEC respectfully requests that the Court enter the SEC's proposed Amended Preliminary Injunction, see Dkt. No. 119-6, extending the preliminary injunctive and asset freeze relief already ordered as to the original defendants to the New Defendants.

I am over the age of 21 and a resident of the State of Utah.

2. I make this declaration in support of the United States Securities and Exchange Commission's (the "Commission" or "SEC") Reply in Support of Motion to Amend Preliminary Injunction Order, and in support of the Commission's Reply in Support of Motion to Amend Receivership Order.

8 3. I am presently employed as a staff attorney in the Division of Enforcement 9 by the Commission, working from the Commission's Salt Lake Regional Office located 10 at 351 South West Temple, Suite 6.100, Salt Lake City, Utah, 84101. I have been employed as an attorney with the Commission since December 2021. My official duties as an attorney in the Commission's Division of Enforcement include participating in fact-12 13 finding inquiries and investigations to determine whether the federal securities laws have been, are presently being, or are about to be violated, and assisting, as requested, in the 14 15 Commission's litigation of securities laws violations.

16 4. As part of my duties, I was assigned to the Commission's investigation entitled In the Matter of J&J Consulting Services, Inc., matter number SL-02855 17 18 ("Investigation"). I learned the information set forth in this declaration from my personal 19 knowledge and experience; documents I reviewed in the course of the Investigation, 20 including bank records I or other members of the investigative team reviewed and 21 analyzed; witness interviews and testimony that I or other members of the investigative 22 team conducted; witness and investor declarations that I or other members of the 23 investigative team obtained; and other information provided to me by other Commission staff. 24

25 5. All documents attached to this declaration have been redacted where necessary to protect the privacy of investors and confidential sources.

Christopher M. Madsen and His Entity ACAC, LLC

6. Exhibits 61 to 76 and Exhibit 79 attached hereto are true and correct copies of text messages between C. Madsen and Judd that C. Madsen produced to the SEC pursuant to subpoena.

7. In February 2019, C. Madsen wrote to Judd in a text message: "You don't have Dave Lovett in with you yet? I have meeting with him on some other deals we did so is it cool if I sell him on it?" Judd responded: "Yes. Do it before Shane [Jager]. I know Shane wants to talk to him." C. Madsen responded, "LOL im going to tell him the real numbers and then you can just break me off because im going to sell him on the 100k deals and once he does a few he will do more." (Exhibit 61 at MADSEN-019392.)

8. In March 2019, Judd wrote to C. Madsen in a text message: "I need to raise some more money. One of my guys is being an ass and I want to cash his 2 million eventually. Did you ever speak to Jason about it?" Madsen responded, "I did I just didn't push it hard. I will put the word out and start to get you more money." (Exhibit 62 at MADSEN-019386.)

9. On June 3, 2019, C. Madsen texted Judd, and stated: "But yes talking with Steve he would like for us to sit down and talk over lunch but he said he had a half mill to 18 1mill to play with ... I think Steve's going to put 500 with you. But obviously it will go through me." (Exhibit 63 at MADSEN-019369.)

20 10. On May 28, 2019, C. Madsen wrote to Judd in a text message: "Hey man I 21 just got done meeting with Craig for about an hour. He's going to reach out and give you 22 another 200. But I told him that he cannot take it out and put it back he needs to let it
23 ride." (Id. at MADSEN-019372.)

24 11. On February 21, 2018, C. Madsen texted Judd: "Trust me i have been 25 selling him on it but without telling him what we make . . ." (Exhibit 64 at MADSEN26 019477.)

- 27
- 28

12. In February 2020, C. Madsen texted Judd: "By the way I have a friend of mine that is trying to make a decision but I think he's ready to do it so if 100 K comes available Sunday let me know that way I can put the pressure on him and get them to send me the money on Monday." (Exhibit 65 at MADSEN-019291.)

13. In October 2017, C. Madsen texted Judd: "I will get us a few more guys too!" (Exhibit 66.)

14. 7 In May 2017, Judd texted to C. Madsen: "The attorney that we do the 8 loans with loves Roy Nielsen. ... " C. Madsen texted to Judd: "OK I will set a lunch up 9 for us to meet him. I would say in the next 90 days I will lock him in. ... [G]ive me a 10 little time to prepare him." (Exhibit 67 at MADSEN-019564.) Judd texted: "Ok. You 11 just need to have him have funds available." Id. Judd later texted: "Please help me get 12 that funded. Thanks." Id. at MADSEN-019562.) C. Madsen texted: "Will do, I'm 13 meeting Roy at 1:30." Later, C. Madsen wrote: "Yes I talked to him for hours yesterday about it. He just has never invested and likes to analyze everything. You will be good 14 15 with him I promise and you can make a lot of money together." (Id. at MADSEN-16 019553.)

17 15. In a text exchange in March 2018, C. Madsen told Judd: "I'm good with 18 whatever you decide! But I would prefer to just be the one dealing with him and we just 19 give him the rate that you're paying them bottom line ..." and "Do me a favor tell Matt to 20 tell him his only option to do deals is they go through me bottom line..." and also, "...
21 tell Matt to text him and tell him you have to deal with Chris only or no more loans."
22 (Exhibit 68 at MADSEN-019467.)

16. In August 2021, C. Madsen wrote to Judd in a text message: "Hey man . . .
I have one of the investors out of Calley Jacob Enterprises and his small group I'm going to wire them their money back next week . . . I'm done with them . . . They keep asking too many damn questions. I personally don't know a single one of them except for the main guy." (Exhibit 69 at MADSEN-019065.)

17. In April 2019, C. Madsen wrote to Judd in a text message: "FYI im only giving him $12k on his 100k only because he's a pain in my ass and I really shouldn't have let him in. If he wants to put a half mill in then I would give him the $15k".
(Exhibit 70 at MADSEN-019380.)

18. In October 2018, C. Madsen texted Judd that he told an investor "that deals we're going to start dropping by $1000 in November. And he said so now my hundreds are only going to pay 15 K and I said Yep at least for me they are. ... Just so I can still keep making mine off him too." Judd responded, "I wish I would have known that. We kept him at 16k. We will still pay you 3k on each if that is ok." (Exhibit 71 at MADSEN-019409.)

11 19. In April 2021, C. Madsen and Judd discussed the way C. Madsen's 12 brother Richard Rocco Madsen was raising money and how much R. Madsen and C. Madsen got paid. C. Madsen wrote, "... [R. Madsen] does think I only get paid 16 K ... 13 he's put some clients in with me that I deal with ... I pay Rocco 12,500 on his deals and 14 15 he only pays his clients like 9K per deal." (Exhibit 72 at MADSEN-019102.) Judd later 16 wrote, "I need to keep him at 16 ... You Shane Humphries all get 19K." (Id. at 17 MADSEN-019101.) In May 2021, Judd told C. Madsen, "If you give him [R. Madsen] 18 15k you still make 4k or 14k you make 5k." (Id. at MADSEN-019096.) C. Madsen 19 responded, "I'll just tell him I'll give him 15 K on all the deals and I'll tell him it's easier 20 for you to just keep running every Thing through me and your few other investors." (Id. 21 at MADSEN-019095.) A few days later, Judd wrote, "I did speak to him [R. Madsen] . . 22 He says that he has 6 million dollars underneath you and won't remove it from you. ... 23 Of course he wants to go with me and make 16k instead of 12.5. I did mention the 15k. I 24 can cut him off and not give him anymore if you want. ... I don't need his money but I think I'm his only income source." (Id. at MADSEN-019094.) 25

26 20. When Judd instituted the new paperwork for J and J Purchasing LLC in 27 late 2021, C. Madsen repeatedly asked Judd about the status. For example, on November

28

10, 2021, C. Madsen wrote to Jeff, "Hey what's going on Jeff, I was just checking in with you to see where you are at with getting all the contracts so we can get all of the investors to sign? Let me know man." (Exhibit 73 at MADSEN-019038.) Following up in December 2021, C. Madsen wrote to Judd: "Jeff quick question moving forward in January will all the new deals that I purchase will the funds go through my account and then directly to you or directly to Matt Beasley from my account or directly from the client to Matt Beasley how are we doing that." (Exhibit 74 at MADSEN-019024.)

8 21. In January 2022, C. Madsen sent Judd the spreadsheet that Judd requested 9 (see Ostler Declaration, Dkt. No. 119-2, ¶ 45 & Ex. 41). C. Madsen told Judd:
10 "Everything I have is pretty dang clean I have a spreadsheet for each investor I just 11 wanted [sic] to look right when I sent it to you so you can compare it to your contracts."
12 (Exhibit 75 at MADSEN-019007-008.)

13 22. In February 2022, Judd wrote C. Madsen about getting investors to sign 14 the new paperwork: "You need to make sure you get the addendums signed too." "Or I 15 will have to fire you lol." "... Make sure you update your spreadsheet for the new deals.
16 I have not seen an update from you." (Exhibit 76 at MADSEN-018998.) C. Madsen 17 responded, "100% I'm on it." "Yes I'm working on getting them all amended a lot of 18 this is all new money." (Id. at MADSEN-018997-998.)

19 23. Attached as Exhibit 77 is a true and correct copy of a text conversation 20 between C. Madsen, R. Madsen, and Judd that C. Madsen produced to the SEC. In the 21 text conversation, C. Madsen, R. Madsen, and Judd discussed getting all of C. Madsen's 22 and R. Madsen's investors to complete the new paperwork for J and J Purchasing LLC, 23 and complete the spreadsheet of investors that Judd requested. At one point C. Madsen 24 wrote to Judd: "I'm trying to get it done and make it precise but you Gotta be patient because I'm reconciling all of the 1099 payments before I send out the spreadsheet." 25 26 (Exhibit 77 at MADSEN-019700.)

1 24. Exhibit 78 is a true and correct copy of text conversations between C. 2 Madsen and Matthew Beasley that C. Madsen produced to the SEC. As seen in Exhibit 3 78, Beasley and C. Madsen conversed by text on Thursday, March 3, 2022, starting no later than 12:05 pm, about the fact that the FBI was at Judd's home. C. Madsen wrote to 4 Beasley at 12:05 pm, "They still there? Hopefully this only delays things for a short 5 6 period so he [Judd] can show them that everything is legit." C. Madsen wrote to Beasley 7 at 12:10 pm, "I heard Humphries is getting searched also." (Id. at MADSEN-020011-8 12.) As also seen in Exhibit 78 at MADSEN-020011, no later than March 4, 2022, C. 9 Madsen was aware that the FBI was seeking information from victims of this Ponzi 10 scheme.

Jeffrey Judd

25. In October 2020, Judd wrote to C. Madsen about selling the J&J business: "I need to sell it for 150 million. Lol. Probably. 150 million in deals. With this illegal business. Lmao." (Exhibit 79 MADSEN-019185.)

15 26. Attached hereto as Exhibit 80 is a true and correct copy of an email dated 16 October 4, 2018 that Jason Jenne produced to the SEC pursuant to subpoena, in which 17 Judd writes in part: "Matt and I had discussions with the Attorneys that provide us the 18 contracts."

19 27. Attached hereto as Exhibit 81 is a true and correct copy of the Responses
20 of Defendant Roland Tanner to the SEC's Expedited Requests for Admission.

21 28. Richard Tyler Cenname produced documents to the SEC in response to a 22 subpoena. I spoke with Mr. Cenname and he told me that he grew up on the same street
23 where the Judd family lived and that his family was close with the Judd family. Mr.
24 Cenname also told me that he is a student at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, 25 and that in January 2022 he approached a man named Alex Bean who had been a guest 26 speaker in Mr. Cenname's Entrepreneurship class. Mr. Cenname told Mr. Bean about 27 Judd's business. Mr. Bean asked a variety of questions, including: "Where do you get

28

the demand for this? ... How big is the company? If they've done 5k deals, why are they 2 raising more? Why not fund themselves and just keep all the profit?" Mr. Bean also 3 asked for the company's website, and how many people work at the company. Mr. Cenname passed Mr. Bean's questions along to Judd. Attached as Exhibit 82 is a true 4 and correct copy of the text exchange that Mr. Cenname had with Judd regarding Mr. 5 Bean, which Mr. Cenname produced pursuant to subpoena. 6

29. 7 Judd wrote in a text to Mr. Cenname: "The only issue I have is that we are 8 not supposed to be selling this. It's an offering to people we know. We don't know this 9 guy." Id. at 3. In numerous other instances, however, Judd had no problem "selling this" 10 to people he did not know - including, for example, Judd's telephone solicitation with the 11 confidential sources who made undercover recordings of Judd, Shane Jager, and Jason Jongeward. (See Ostler Decl. Dkt. No. 2-5 at ¶ 29 & Ex. 15.) 12

Are you cool with splitting our greg and Roy loans 3 ways with matt? So for example on 100k we pay him 16k so there is 9k left over plus Matt's part of the admin fee which is $2500. It would be $11,500 divided by 3 so $3833 a piece. Or do you just want me to do normal fees like I usually do. Matt gets his $2500 then you and I split $9000, $4500 each. I'm fine with either. I just like to cut matt in.

Jeff, Talked to wife we are good for 1 more. Talked to chris, the reason I ask questions about the business my wife and myself want to know because it is a lot of money that I have made beating my body up and I like to know my investments and understand them like getting in the cage. I want you to know as long as I making money I want you to make money. Chris said this was a concern. I want this to be profitable enterprise with 5-10 mil fund or more. Then no more fighting lol.
So I will usually ask the same questions and try to get a process for this so myself and wife are good. But I do have 1 concern how do we have so many settlements for 3 attorneys? It just seems like a lot. So how come?	6:51 PM
On the three loans which has the highest Itv? No,medicade. Wh o is the payer? What was the reason they got sued? When does need to be funded? So I can tell my wife.
Thanks
Matt was pissed about these texts. Lol. Thought Roy was accusing us of taking money. I think it's one too many punches to the head. Lol
Jeffrey Judd
Is the deal we are doing with you or Roy. Better with you then I can sign it. Either way it's fine. Let me know.	6:11 PM
Jeffrey Judd
All deals that we get are good. The only thing that differs is the amount and time frame. We don't take bad loans. I'm in Seattle with preston for Regionals. Let's go when I get back. Next week. All good.	7:07 PM
Jeffrey Judd
Ok. All good. Get your money back too. I usually roll 300 to 400k. You can do the same if you want. I will make over 250k this year just doing that.	7:10 PM

Me I want to use Matt too 100 percent Me	7:09 PM
Yea I talked to him for hours yesterday about it. He just has never invested and likes to analyze everything. You will be good with him I promise and you can make a lot of money together. He has one friend alone he told me would invest 5mil. Roy just wants to understand it all so he knows how to bring it up in conversation with his people. He will not go behind your back either. I asked him and he said he has many of attorney friends and would love to use his name with them but have you be the middle man that they all deal with. He is good with you making your money and wants to make you more then you can on your own. He's just wanting to make sure there becomes a checklist that is used on every deal with every client so it's just easier for him to pick and choose or know the real solid deals compared to the ones that might not be as good. He wants them all but is cool with not getting them all. Let's go eat together this week	7:04 PM
Friday, June 16, 2017 Jeffrey Judd
You know you get 22.5k. Does this go through you then so I can sign it?	12:19 PM

Jeffrey Judd 5:51 PM They can call me if needed Me 5:52 PM Ok coo brotha Me Questions? How do you find the deals? All deals come from the 3 lawyers? How much money do we need every quarter? Can we get a list of pending cases? How do we know each attorney has good deals or good clients. 1:15 PM This is from Roy and his wife. I told them we needed to mostly deal with you on all deals as your the broker bottom line. Let me know if you can answer these when you have time. I think they are mostly asking because he wants to dump a bunch of money with you. Just think they are doing there due diligence like most people with money Jeffrey Judd 1:16 PM Sounds like trying to figure out how to do it. Lol Me 1:17 PM No he's doing it with you Jeffrey Judd Deals come from 4 attorneys. Matt knows all of the. All stand up guys. The nature of the attorney is what matters. How the client is does not. This is why we have a contract. Everything is paid by the attorneys. Money doesn't go to clients. Attorneys do not have a 1:20 PM list. The only know they have a deal once they reach a settlement. If they want to fund 500k a quarter then we can find those deals. If they want 1 million. Then we can get that as well. We have other investors but we can make everyone happy. More important because of my relationship with you. You will get priority. Me

I didn't give him any this week. I think I want to tell him to Just go under you. I never recruited him to raise money for me. I like him. I don't know him that well. What if we do this. Put him under you and you give him 14 or 15k per deal. I don't care which one you do. Or you don't have to. Up to you. I've been i and out of town watching preston so I have not had time to meet up. Jeffrey Judd

Ok. I can probably do 500k for 2 weeks.

Yeah originally when I started talking to him about him leaving gray the deal was for him to go through me but he kind of went around me because he knew he would make more money. It's typical but kind of sucks because it's family

Yeah I told him not to raise it like a fund it makes me nervous also and between you and I he does think I only get paid 16 K and I was going to talk to you about that but I'm not sure if you were going to do anything with me but my biggest concern is he's put some clients in with me that I deal with but he said some of them want to get paid off and I have a feeling it's because he wants to roll them directly. I pay Rocco 12,500 on his deals and he only pays his clients like 9K per deal. Just so you know every deal I have only one investor owns that contract I do not raise any money and share any contracts with multiple people. Anyways at some point I would like to sit down and have some lunch just to discuss and stay on the same page with you bro let me know how next week looks

Exactly. God has blessed us. We need to meet up with your brother. I don't like how he raises his money so I need to see him and clarify some things. His account helps me because I don't pay him as much so I have extra to pay the attorneys that bring us a lot of business so I don't not want to help him. Just need to stay on same page. Don't mention anything. I will take care of it. It would be good for you to come though.

I'm leaving town tomorrow morning will be back Thursday 8:40 PM night. Do you want to get in Friday from me Me Jeff quick question moving forward in January will all the new deals that I purchase will the funds go through my account and then 2:15 PM directly to you or directly to Matt Beasley from my account or directly from the client to Matt Beasley how are we doing that Me 9:01 PM Ok I'm going to think about that one Me Ok, so no more between me at all....So will I just be requesting new 2:35 PM deals as needed and then confirming Matt received the funds Jeffrey Judd Because we don't do business in Nevada since they implemented the dumb loan rule in 2019. Which still wouldn't apply to us but 8:59 PM was easier to just not do business here. It was Florida or Texas. I chose Florida because I would rather have a place there than Texas if needed. Jeffrey Judd 8:51 PM I'm leaving at 8 to go to airport but I will let her know. Jeffrey Judd You are getting your guys to sign paperwork. So direct to Matt 2:17 PM from them

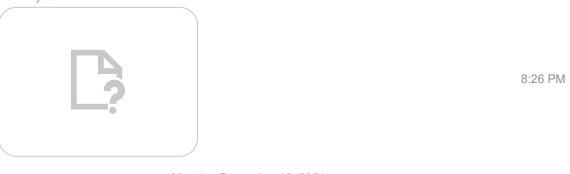

I can Or if you can stash it at your house I can drive through and grab it in the morning

Matt and I had discussions with the Attorneys that provide us the contracts. We have always followed the model of making sure that the investors made or make the majority of the money which will still hold true. We also need to make sure that the sources that provide us these tremendous investment opportunities are happy as well. That being said the following will be the new payouts:

100k = 19k every 90 days for a 76% annual payout ($76,000) 80k = 15k every 90 days for a 75% annual payout ($60,000) 50k = 7k every 60 days for an 82% annual payout ($42,000)

These new rates will take effect with the new contracts that will be distributed next week. I know that no one likes to have payouts reduced, but its still an outstanding and very secure investment. I am grateful for the investment and I hope that you are too.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Judd

REQUESTS FOR ADMISSION

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 1: Admit that prior to January 1, 2022, You learned that one or more of the attorneys or law offices identified as counsel for a personal injury plaintiff who purportedly entered one of the Purchase Agreements had no record of representing the purported personal injury plaintiff named in the Purchase Agreement.

I was contacted by a gentleman from Utah (who stated he was an accountant for an investor) in July 2021, who said he contracted associates of 3 law firms and the person who he talked to said they did not know who J&J Consulting was. I contacted Shane Jager and Jeff Judd and they were aware of this transaction from another investor, Jeff said that it wasn't true, they do have business dealings with those attorneys but that they are under an NDA and can't disclose the relationship with outside callers. Jeff contacted Matt Beasley who provided evidence that he did work with those law firms. Matt Beasley provided signed Purchase Agreements with the signatures of lawyers from those firms, and provided a redacted bank statement showing wire transfers back and forth between Matt Beasley's IOLTA account and the law firms.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 2: Admit that prior to January 1, 2022, one or more investors in the Purchase Agreements told you that they had communicated with one or more of the attorneys or law offices identified as counsel for a personal injury plaintiff who purportedly entered one of the Purchase Agreements, and the investor(s) were told that the attorney or law office contacted by the investor(s) had no record of representing the purported personal injury plaintiff named in the Purchase Agreement.

No, that is not true. See response to Request for Admission No 1.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 3: Admit that, at some point between January 1, 2017 and January 1, 2022, You became aware that the Purchase Agreements were fake.

No, that is not true. My knowledge of the potential falsehood of these documents occurred when I heard in the media of the Beasley incident with the F.B.I. in March 2022. It was only after that event I became aware of the falsehoods.

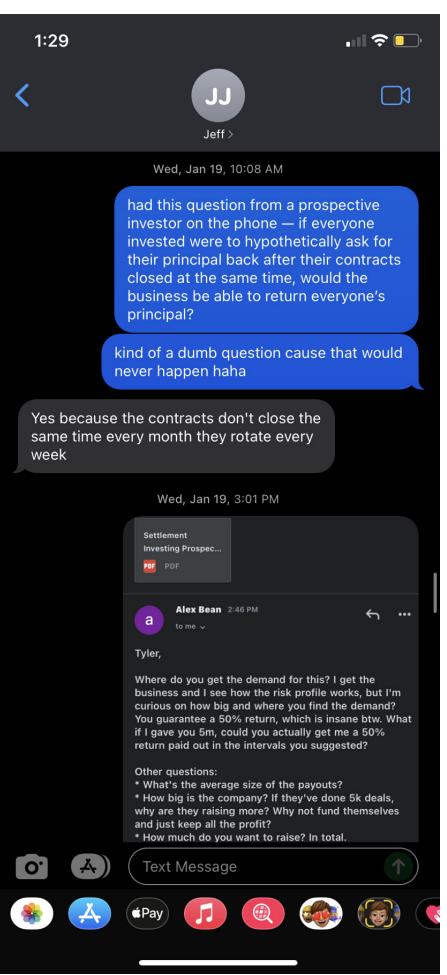

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 4: Admit that, at some point between January 1, 2017, and January 1, 2022, You became aware that investor money provided to buy interests in the Purchase Agreements was not used to fund personal injury settlements.

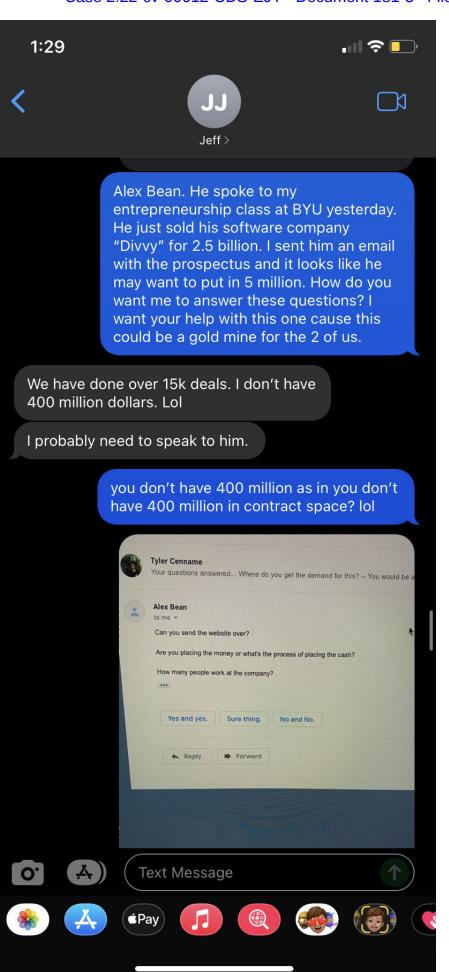

No, that is not true. My knowledge of the potential fraud occurred when I heard in the media of the Beasley incident with the F.B.I. in March 2022. It was only after that event I became aware of the nature of the fraud. I am still learning the extent of the fraud.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 5: Admit that, at some point between January 1, 2017, and March 1, 2022, You, directly or indirectly, received payment(s) for soliciting actual or potential investors to buy interests in the Purchase Agreements.

Yes, I admit to that. I did not know these were considered securities, nor that it was a fraud nor any type of scam. As to the term soliciting, I object as I did not solicit but rather people came to me by word of mouth. I do agree that I shared with a few people that I had personally invested and some of those people later asked if they could invest. I did not make cold calls or seek out people to invest. I did make calls to a few friends and told them of the investment. A couple later invested. I also told my sons, two brothers and brother-in-law, about the investment, and they also invested.

Pursuant to the Court's April 13, 2022 Temporary Restraining Order granting Expedited Discovery in addition to other relief, and pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 33 and 36, Defendant Jeffrey L. Judd ("Judd") by and through counsel of record, submits the following objections to Plaintiff's Expedited Discovery Requests (the "Discovery Requests") as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

A. Judd continues to investigate the facts and allegations in the pleadings. Most if not all of Judd's documents are currently within the custody and control of third-parties and outside Judd's custody and control (including by the FBI) and Judd specifically reserves the right to provide evidence from any source and testimony from any witness in any future proceedings in this action. No objection made herein, or lack thereof, shall be deemed an admission by Judd as to the existence or nonexistence of any requested information.

B. Judd responds to each request as he interprets and understands such request. Judd reserves the right to supplement his objections and/or responses if Plaintiff subsequently asserts to Judd an interpretation that differs from the understanding of Judd.

C. Judd make these responses and/or objections solely for the purpose of, and in relation to, this action. Each response herein is made subject to all appropriate objections (including, but not limited to, objections concerning privilege, competency, relevance, materiality, proportionality, propriety, and admissibility) that would require the exclusion of any information, document, or thing at the time of trial. All such objections, and the grounds for such objections, are reserved and may be interposed at the time of trial or any other proceeding in this consolidated action.

D. Except for the facts explicitly admitted herein (if any), no admission of any nature whatsoever is to be implied or inferred from these responses. The fact that Judd responds to a request should not be taken as an admission, or concession of the existence, of any fact set forth, assumed or implied by such request, or that the request is relevant or otherwise constitutes evidence of any fact thus set forth, assumed or implied.

E. All responses are given on the basis of present recollection.

F. Without assuming any obligation to do so, Judd expressly reserves the right to revise, correct, add to, or clarify any of their responses herein or to supplement their document production.

G. The term "objections," as used in these responses to the Discovery Requests, refers to and includes Judd's preliminary statement and their specific objections to each individual request.

JUDD'S OBJECTIONS TO REQUEST FOR ANSWERS TO INTERROGATORIES

INTERROGATORY NO. 1: List each and every account presently owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the benefit of You or Your spouse held at any bank, credit union, credit institution, savings association, trust company, brokerage, or any other financial institution. Include in the list: (1) the financial institution at which the account is held; (2) the owners, trustees, beneficiaries, and signatories on the account; and (3) the date on which the account was opened.

OBJECTION: Judd objects to Interrogatory No. 1 on the basis that it is unduly burdensome, overbroad, and seeks information regarding his non-party spouse who was not encompassed within the Court's April 13, 2022 order. Moreover, Judd objects to Interrogatory No. 1 to the extent it seeks privileged attorney-client communications and/or work product. Judd further objects to Interrogatory No. 1 on the basis that such information is irrelevant as the April 13, 2022 Order enjoins Judd from using any financial account he has. Additionally, Judd objects to Request No. 1 on the basis that a responsive answer to the question calls for waiving his rights

1 protected by the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, which he hereby evokes.¹ 2 Judd further objects to Request No. 1 on the basis that an explanation of why it cannot be answered might be used in a future criminal proceeding against him. "[T]he privilege [against 3 4 compelled self-incrimination] protects the right of a person to remain silent unless he chooses to 5 speak in the unfettered exercise of his own will, and that he is to suffer no penalty for his 6 silence." Campbell v. Gerrans, 592 F.2d 1054, 1057 (9th Cir. 1979). Nor can the SEC draw an 7 adverse inference from Judd's refusal to respond to Request No. 1 since the SEC cannot meet its 8 burden to establish the exception. "[N]o negative inference can be drawn against a civil litigant's 9 assertion of his privilege against self-incrimination unless there is a substantial need for the 10 information and there is not another less burdensome way of obtaining that information." Doe ex 11 rel. Rudy-Glanzer v. Glanzer, 232 F.3d 1258, 1265 (9th Cir. 2000). "Moreover, the inference 12 may be drawn only when there is independent evidence of the fact about which the party refuses to testify." Id. Based on the foregoing objections, JUDD WILL NOT ANSWER INTERROGATORY 13 14 No. 1.

INTERROGATORY NO. 2: List each and every Asset owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the benefit of You or Your spouse, with a present value of $1000 or more. In the list, describe each Asset, where it is held or located (if applicable), and its approximate fair market value.

OBJECTION: Judd objects to Interrogatory No. 2 on the basis that it is unduly burdensome, overbroad, and seeks information regarding his non-party spouse who was not encompassed within the Court's April 13, 2022 order. Moreover, Judd objects to Interrogatory

¹ "The Fifth Amendment not only protects the individual against being involuntarily called as a witness against himself in a criminal prosecution but also privileges him not to answer official questions put to him in any other proceeding, civil or criminal, formal or informal, where the answers might incriminate him in future criminal proceedings." United States v. Sommerstedt, No. 206CV00273BESGWF, 2008 WL 11388580, at *7 (D. Nev. July 31, 2008) (internal quotation marks omitted).

1 No. 2 to the extent it seeks privileged attorney-client communications and/or work product. Judd 2 further objects to Interrogatory No. 2 on the basis that such information is irrelevant as the April 3 13, 2022 Order enjoins Judd from liquidating such assets. Additionally, Judd objects to Interrogatory No. 2 on the basis a responsive answer to the question calls for waiving his rights 4 5 protected by the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, which he hereby evokes. 6 Judd further objects to Request No. 2 on the basis that an explanation of why it cannot be 7 answered might be used in a future criminal proceeding against him. "[T]he privilege [against 8 compelled self-incrimination] protects the right of a person to remain silent unless he chooses to 9 speak in the unfettered exercise of his own will, and that he is to suffer no penalty for his 10 silence." Campbell, 592 F.2d at 1057. Nor can the SEC draw an adverse inference from Judd's 11 refusal to respond to Request No. 2 since the SEC cannot meet its burden to establish the 12 exception. "[N]o negative inference can be drawn against a civil litigant's assertion of his privilege against self-incrimination unless there is a substantial need for the information and 13 14 there is not another less burdensome way of obtaining that information." Glanzer, 232 F.3d at 15 1265. "Moreover, the inference may be drawn only when there is independent evidence of the fact about which the party refuses to testify." Id. Based on the foregoing objections, JUDD WILL 16 17 NOT ANSWER INTERROGATORY NO. 2.

INTERROGATORY NO. 3: If You or Your spouse have transferred, assigned, sold, mortgaged, pledged, given away, or donated any Asset with a present value of $1000 or more since March 1, 2022, list each such Asset, provide the name and address of the Person to whom said Asset was transferred, assigned, sold, mortgaged, pledged, given away, or donated, the date of said transfer, assignation, sale, mortgage, pledge, gift, or donation, and state what consideration Your (or Your spouse) received in exchange.

1 OBJECTION: Judd objects to Interrogatory No. 3 on the basis that it is unduly 2 burdensome, overbroad, and seeks information regarding his non-party spouse who was not encompassed within the Court's April 13, 2022 order. Moreover, Judd objects to Interrogatory No. 3 to the extent it seeks privileged attorney-client communications and/or work product. Judd further objects to Interrogatory No. 3 on the basis that such information is irrelevant as the April 13, 2022 Order does not have retroactive effect and nothing in the SEC's moving papers indicate that it has any evidence that Judd is liquidating assets. Going forward, the April 13, 2022 Order enjoins Judd from liquidating such assets. Additionally, Judd objects to Interrogatory No. 3 on the basis that a responsive answer to the question calls for waiving his rights protected by the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, which he hereby evokes. Judd further objects to Request No. 3 on the basis that an explanation of why it cannot be answered might be used in a future criminal proceeding against him. "[T]he privilege [against compelled selfincrimination] protects the right of a person to remain silent unless he chooses to speak in the unfettered exercise of his own will, and that he is to suffer no penalty for his silence." Campbell, 592 F.2d at 1057. Nor can the SEC draw an adverse inference from Judd's refusal to respond to Request No. 3 since the SEC cannot meet its burden to establish the exception. "[N]o negative inference can be drawn against a civil litigant's assertion of his privilege against selfincrimination unless there is a substantial need for the information and there is not another less burdensome way of obtaining that information." Glanzer, 232 F.3d at 1265. "Moreover, the inference may be drawn only when there is independent evidence of the fact about which the party refuses to testify." Id. Based on the foregoing objections, JUDD WILL NOT ANSWER INTERROGATORY NO. 3.

JUDD'S OBJECTIONS TO REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 1: Admit that prior to January 1, 2022, You learned that one or more of the attorneys or law offices identified as counsel for a personal injury plaintiff who purportedly entered one of the Purchase Agreements had no record of representing the purported personal injury plaintiff named in the Purchase Agreement.

OBJECTION: Mr. Judd objects to Request No. 1 to the extent that it calls for the revelation of attorney-client communications and/or work product. Additionally, Mr. Judd objects to Request No. 1 on the basis that basis a responsive answer to the question calls for waiving his rights protected by the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, which he hereby evokes. Judd further objects to Request No. 1 on the basis that an explanation of why it cannot be fully admitted or denied might be used in a future criminal proceeding against him. "[T]he privilege [against compelled self-incrimination] protects the right of a person to remain silent unless he chooses to speak in the unfettered exercise of his own will, and that he is to suffer no penalty for his silence." Campbell, 592 F.2d at 1057. Nor can the SEC draw an adverse inference from Judd's refusal to respond to Request No. 1 since the SEC cannot meet its burden to establish the exception. "[N]o negative inference can be drawn against a civil litigant's assertion of his privilege against self-incrimination unless there is a substantial need for the information and there is not another less burdensome way of obtaining that information." Glanzer, 232 F.3d at 1265. "Moreover, the inference may be drawn only when there is independent evidence of the fact about which the party refuses to testify." Id. Based on the foregoing objections, Judd DENIES Request No. 1 without explanation.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 2: Admit that prior to January 1, 2022, one or more investors in the Purchase Agreements told you that they had communicated with one or more of the attorneys or law offices identified as counsel for a personal injury plaintiff who purportedly entered one of the Purchase Agreements, and the investor(s) were told that the attorney or law office contacted by the investor(s) had no record of representing the purported personal injury plaintiff named in the Purchase Agreement.

OBJECTION: Mr. Judd objects to Request No. 2 on the basis that it is vague and 4 5 ambiguous with respect to the undefined terms "told" and "communicated." Mr. Judd 6 additionally, objects to Request No. 2 to the extent that it calls for the revelation of attorney-7 client communications and/or work product. Moreover, Mr. Judd objects to Request No. 2 on the 8 basis that a responsive answer to the question calls for waiving his rights protected by the Fifth 9 Amendment to the United States Constitution, which he hereby evokes. Judd further objects to 10 Request No. 2 on the basis that an explanation of why it cannot be fully admitted or denied might 11 be used in a future criminal proceeding against him. "[T]he privilege [against compelled self-12 incrimination] protects the right of a person to remain silent unless he chooses to speak in the 13 unfettered exercise of his own will, and that he is to suffer no penalty for his silence." Campbell, 14 592 F.2d at 1057. Nor can the SEC draw an adverse inference from Judd's refusal to respond to 15 Request No. 2 since the SEC cannot meet its burden to establish the exception. "[N]o negative 16 inference can be drawn against a civil litigant's assertion of his privilege against self-17 incrimination unless there is a substantial need for the information and there is not another less burdensome way of obtaining that information." Glanzer, 232 F.3d at 1265. "Moreover, the 18 19 inference may be drawn only when there is independent evidence of the fact about which the 20party refuses to testify." Id. Based on the foregoing objections, Judd DENIES Request No. 2 21 without explanation.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 3: Admit that, at some point between January 1, 2017 and January 1, 2022, You became aware that the Purchase Agreements were fake.

1 OBJECTION: Mr. Judd objects to Request No. 3 on the basis that it is vague and 2 ambiguous with respect to the undefined terms "aware" and "fake." Mr. Judd additionally, 3 objects to Request No. 3 to the extent that it calls for the revelation of attorney-client 4 communications and/or work product. Moreover, Mr. Judd objects to Request No. 3 on the basis 5 that a responsive answer to the question calls for waiving his rights protected by the Fifth 6 Amendment to the United States Constitution, which he hereby evokes. Judd further objects to 7 Request No. 3 on the basis that an explanation of why it cannot be fully admitted or denied might 8 be used in a future criminal proceeding against him. "[T]he privilege [against compelled self-9 incrimination] protects the right of a person to remain silent unless he chooses to speak in the 10 unfettered exercise of his own will, and that he is to suffer no penalty for his silence." Campbell, 11 592 F.2d at 1057. Nor can the SEC draw an adverse inference from Judd's refusal to respond to 12 Request No. 3 since the SEC cannot meet its burden to establish the exception. "[N]o negative 13 inference can be drawn against a civil litigant's assertion of his privilege against self-14 incrimination unless there is a substantial need for the information and there is not another less 15 burdensome way of obtaining that information." Glanzer, 232 F.3d at 1265. "Moreover, the inference may be drawn only when there is independent evidence of the fact about which the 16 17 party refuses to testify." Id. Based on the foregoing objections, Judd DENIES Request No. 3 without explanation.

 REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 4: Admit that, at some point between January 1, 2017, and

 January 1, 2022, You became aware that investor money provided to buy interests in the Purchase Agreements was not used to fund personal injury settlements.

OBJECTION: Mr. Judd objects to Request No. 4 on the basis that it is vague and ambiguous with respect to the undefined terms "aware" and "fund." Mr. Judd additionally

Campbell, 9 592 F.2d at 1057. Nor can the SEC draw an adverse inference from Judd's refusal to respond to 10 Request No. 1 since the SEC cannot meet its burden to establish the exception. "[N]o negative 11 inference can be drawn against a civil litigant's assertion of his privilege against self-12 incrimination unless there is a substantial need for the information and there is not another less burdensome way of obtaining that information." Glanzer, 232 F.3d at 1265. "Moreover, the 13 14 inference may be drawn only when there is independent evidence of the fact about which the 15 party refuses to testify." Id. Based on the foregoing objections, Judd DENIES Request No. 4 without explanation. 16

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 5: Admit that, at some point between January 1, 2017 and March 1, 2022, You, directly or indirectly, received payment(s) for soliciting actual or potential investors to buy interests in the Purchase Agreements.

OBJECTION: Mr. Judd objects to Request No. 5 on the basis that it is vague and ambiguous with respect to the undefined terms "directly or indirectly," "soliciting actual or potential investors" and "interest." Mr. Judd additionally objects to Request No. 5 to the extent that it calls for the revelation of attorney-client communications and/or work product. Moreover,

I, Amir Salimi, do hereby declare, under penalty of perjury, in accordance with 28 U.S.C. § 1746, that the following is true and correct to the best of my belief and, further, that this declaration is made on my personal knowledge, and that I am competent to testify as to the matters herein stated:

I am over the age of 21 and a resident of the State of Utah.

2. I make this declaration in support of the United States Securities and Exchange Commission's ("Commission's") motion to amend the Court's preliminary injunction order and receivership order in the above-captioned case.

3. As described in my prior declaration in support of the Commission's Ex Parte Motion for Temporary Injunctive Order and other relief (see Dkt. No. 2-8), as part of my duties as an accountant with the Commission, I was assigned to the investigation entitled In the Matter of J&J Consulting Services, Inc. (SL-02855), and I analyzed the bank and financial records of the Nevada law firm of Matthew Beasley, Beasley Law Group PC, that were produced in response to a subpoena issued by the Commission staff to Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo"), for the period of January 1, 2017 through February 28, 2022.

4. As also described in my first supplemental declaration in support of the Commission's motion for a preliminary injunction and asset freeze (see Dkt. No. 24), I reviewed the bank records of J & J Consulting Services, Inc.'s US Bank account ending in 2073 ("J&J U.S. Bank Account 2073") for the period of January 2018 through February 2022 that were produced in response to a subpoena issued by the Commission staff to U.S. Bank.

5. As also described in my second supplemental declaration in support of the Commission's motion for a preliminary injunction and asset freeze (see Dkt. No. 24), I analyzed additional records for individuals identified as promoters in the Declaration of Joni Ostler (Dkt.
No. 119-2, "Ostler Decl.") and entities under their control, including bank records for Seth Johnson, CR6 LLC, and Prestige Consulting LLC.

6. In addition to analyzing the bank records described in paragraphs 3-5 above, I have analyzed additional records for entities under the control of individuals identified as promoters in the Declaration of Joni Ostler (Dkt. No. 119-2), including bank records for ACAC, 2 LLC, Ruger RM Investments, Ruger Investments, and Red Hills LLC.

7. I analyzed copies of bank records for the Bank of America Account No. XXXXX1826 in the name of Ruger Investments RM Inc for the period of March 1, 2022 - April 30, 2022 that were produced in response to a subpoena issued by the Commission staff. This entity is identified as being controlled by Richard Madsen in the Ostler Decl., Dkt. No. 119-2, ¶ 58. My analysis of these records determined that they were true and accurate copies of Bank of America bank records.

8. I analyzed copies of bank records for the Bank of America Account No. XXXXX1677 in the name of Ruger Investments Inc for the period of March 1, 2022 – April 30, 2022 that were produced in response to a subpoena issued by the Commission staff.. This entity is identified as being controlled by Richard Madsen in the Ostler Decl., Dkt. No. 119-2, ¶ 57. My analysis of these records determined that they were true and accurate copies of Bank of America bank records.

9. I analyzed copies of bank records for the Bank of America Account No. XXXXX9413 in the name of Red Hills Investments Inc for the period of March 1, 2022 – April 30, 2022 that were produced in response to a subpoend issued by the Commission staff.. This entity is identified as being controlled by Richard Madsen in the Ostler Decl., Dkt. No. 119-2, ¶ 59. My analysis of these records determined that they were true and accurate copies of Bank of America bank records.

10. I analyzed copies of bank records for the Bank of America Account No. XXXXX8397 in the name of ACAC, LLC ("ACAC BOA Account 8397") for the period of January 1, 2017 – March 31, 2022 that were produced in response to a subpoena issued by the Commission staff. This entity is identified as being controlled by Chris Madsen in the Ostler Decl., Dkt. No. 119-2, ¶ 40. My analysis of these records determined that they were true and accurate copies of Bank of America bank records.

11. My analysis of the additional bank records described above in paragraphs 7-9, identified total net disbursements of over $75,000 out of accounts belonging to entities under the control of Richard Madsen from March 3, 2022 – April 30, 2022. This includes checks that appear to be payments of fictitious returns to investors which were written prior to March 3, 2022, but which continued to be cashed on and after March 3, 2022. Checks that appear to be fictitious returns to investors continued to be cashed until March 15, 2022.

12. My analysis of the additional bank records described above in paragraph 10 identified total net disbursements of over $450,000 out ACAC BOA Account 8397, an account belonging to an entity under the control of Chris Madsen, from March 3, 2022 – March 31, 2022.

13. In addition, an analysis of the activity in the ACAC, LLC account from March 1, 2022 – March 31, 2022 identified transactions referencing the names of over 100 individuals. These transactions were often in the form of deposits made by individuals directly into the ACAC BOA Account 8397 account in $40,000, $50,000, $80,000, or $100,000 increments. I identified a pattern in which, after deposits were made into the ACAC, LLC accounts in these increments, transfers were often soon made in similar amounts from the ACAC, LLC account into the Beasley IOLTA 5598 account. In total, over $18.2M was transferred from the ACAC, LLC account Executed this 20th day of July, 2022 in Salt Lake City, Utah.
