Wilde About Whitman

by David Simpatico

This is the story of a meeting between the very young and unaccomplished Oscar Wilde, and Walt Whitman, who had a thing or two to teach him about poetry and life. Wilde About Whitman is the third offering in the Local Produce Readers' Theatre 2022-2023 series presented by The Stissing Center and Oblong Books.

"On January 18, 1882, the young, untested wannabe-writer Oscar Wilde, 27, and the elder-poet-pauper Walt Whitman, 62, spent three hours together behind closed doors in Whitman's home in Camden, New Jersey. WILDE ABOUT WHITMAN is the story, equal parts historical record and theatrical conjecture, of what they might have said, and done, behind those closed doors."
